Advising the Mufti
5,000,000 Years Old
A Corporation Age
Wall Street in August

EMIREL EL HUSSEIN, Grand Mufti, most powerful among the Arabs in Palestine, warns Great Britain that a revolt of 60,000,000 Mohammedans is coming.

He says: "It is not a mere Wailing Wall incident. It is a rebellion against the British, who conspired with the Zionist Congress to turn over Palestine to the Jews and put out the Arabs."

This grand mufti, described by Universal Service as a "handsome young man with red beard and high forehead, the idol of the Arab people," would not try to bring modern war upon his 60,000,000 Mohammedans had he used his high forehead acquiring information about the late war.

The Arabs, if wise, will postpone war until they possess airplanes, artillery, poison gases and factories producing them.

Mohammedan raids continue throughout Palestine, the Bedouins, most savage of the Semitic tribes, attacking 12 towns. Britain promises to restore order and punish criminals.

The University of California received bones of animals that roamed the Texas plains long before the first "long-horns," 5,000,000 years ago.

The collection includes three toed horses as small as sheep, bones of a wolf as big as a grisly bear, and species of camels. They lived in Texas in those days.

In ancient days, wondering and ignorant men, finding mammoth dinosaur bones, thought those animals had been made of clay by the Lord. He didn't like them and never put the breath of life in them.

Leonardo Da Vinci was first to realize that the animals had actually lived and become extinct.

If animals that had lived here 5,000,000 years ago seem old, consider the work of Prof. Matthews, of California, now completing his studies of the first mammals. They lived 75,000,000 years ago, and before they arrived, animals of many kinds, unable to nurse their young, had lived for over millions of years. It's an old planet.

Mr. Green, of the Federation of Labor, complains of "government by injunction." Meaning control and intimidation of of labor unions by judges, at the request of corporations.

Mr. Green, intelligent citizen, knows that this is a corporation age, not a working man's age. While prosperity lasts, with jobs at high wages plentiful, corporations will do pretty much as they please. Perhaps it is just as well. The important thing now is to build up American industry, against the outside world.

France is a mystery, understood least by the man who thinks he understands it.

Britain lent millions to France, and France is now drawing gold from London, worrying the Bank of England.

The French lend money on call at 2½ per cent, while complaining of poverty caused by war. The richest country in the world lends call money at from 9 to 20 per cent. A French business man can borrow money on time loans for 3½ per cent. American business men pay 6 to 8 per cent.

Today the stock gamblers and investors will probably start again cheerfully. The month past was a great August. Two hundred and forty representative stocks increased in value by $4,465,000,000.

Col. Lindbergh says a flier must have some imagination to get him out of trouble, not too much imagination, which might distract him from his flying. And the first class flier must not know what fear is.

Lieut. Doolittle, one of our best army fliers, possesses the necessary requirement.

While showing what an airplane could do, above the Cleveland airport, he stripped the wings from his plane and jumped at 2000 feet with his parachute. He immediately asked for a new plane and went up to compete in "upside down" stunts.

Col. William Hayward brings from the far north a polar bear alive, for the zoo, and the skins of other bears, one eight feet tall, weighing 1485 pounds, for the Museum of Natural History.

Killing them, Col. Hayward says, is rather dull sport. Bears move slowly and "their method of escape is to dive into the water, and then they are helpless."

Col. Hayward's bears eat seals and consume great quantities of fish. It might be a good idea to exterminate them to protect seals and the fish. If certain ocean marauders could be eliminated, and doubtless will be some day, food supplies from the ocean would be inexhaustible.

Three heat prostrations were reported today in Boston as all records at the Weather Bureau for September 3 were smashed.

The mercury rose to 96.6 at 2 o'clock in the third day of the heat wave.

It surpassed yesterday's maximum by two degrees, and was two degrees hotter than any previous Sept. 3 in the 45 years' history of the bureau. On the same date in 1921 and 1925 temperatures of 93 were recorded.

Today became the hottest of the year when the mercury reached 96.6 at 2 p. m. The hottest previous day this year was on May 30 when the temperature mounted to 95.6.

THREE MEN VICTIMS

Lewis Boyle, 44, of 15 Milford st., South End, collapsed at his home and was removed in a police ambulance to City Hospital. His name was placed on the danger list.

Duncan Brown, 55, married of 11 Simpson ave., West Somerville, collapsed at his place of employment as a compositor at 79 Sudbury st., Boston. His head was cut in falling. He was removed to Haymarket Relief Hospital for treatment.

Simon Yonaker, 51, married, of 23 Billerica st., West End, collapsed at Merrimac and Norman sts., West End, and sustained a two-inch wound at the back of his head in falling.

These make a total of 14 prostrations in Boston since the heat wave arrived Saturday night.

Zeppelin Over Spain in Record Flight

Paris, Sept. 3 (AP)—The French air ministry was informed this afternoon the Zeppelin passed over Corunna, Spain, at 5.30 p. m. (12.30 a. m. Boston daylight saving time), heading northeasterly toward Bordeaux and flying very high and slowly. Observers calculated she would cross the Bay of Biscay and strike the French coast between Bordeaux and Nantes about 9 p. m. (4 p. m. Boston time).

Friedrichshafen, Sept. 3 — The Graf Zeppelin, speeding to Friedrichshafen from Lakehurst, N. J., reported her position at 6 a. m. Greenwich mean time (4 a. m. Boston daylight saving time) as 37.50 north latitude, 15.30 west longitude.

The message said the dirigible was heading for Cape Finisterre, northwestern tip of Portugal.

The position given in the message was approximately 315 miles west of Lisbon in a straight line.

It was assumed the Graf would head across the Bay of Biscay after passing Cape Finisterre and cross the French coast between Bordeaux and Nantes.

Prospects seemed excellent for the Graf to break her own previous record for aerial circumnavigation

Doctors Baffled by Sleep Sickness Case

Chicago, Sept. 3 (INS)—A baffling case of sleeping sickness confronted physicians here today, that of Mrs. Emma Williams, 48, who dozed away nine days ago and awakened asking her husband for a glass of water. Then she fell asleep again and efforts to awaken her have failed.

Take 500 Children From Doukhobors

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 3 (INS)—The Provincial government today ordered 500 children of the rebellious colony of Russian Doukhobors near Nelson, B. C., be taken from the settlement and placed in Vancouver institutions until their parents consent to send them to school.

PLAN FOR BIG BANK MERGER

A definite proposal for the merger of the First National Bank of Boston and the Old Colony Trust Co., has been submitted to the boards of directors of both banks.

The plan, subject to official approval of the directors and to vote of the stockholders, is as follows:

The Old Colony Trust Co. will increase its capital from 150,000 to 200,000 shares by issuing to its stockholders 50,000 shares at $300, thus adding $15,000,000 to its combined capital and surplus.

Old Colony stockholders will receive four shares of First National Bank stock for each of 200,000 shares of Old Colony. This involves an increase of 800,000 shares in the First National capital.

The exchange completed, stock of the Old Colony will be placed in the hands of the trustees for

2 PAWTUCKET FIREMEN HURT

Pawtucket, Sept. 3—Two firemen were injured, 22 families were driven from their homes, and damage of $65,000 was caused by fire early today in the lumber yard of Atwood-Crawford Co.

Flames spread to the Acme Finishing Co. and flying embers ignited several homes before firemen, after an eight-hour battle, subdued the blaze.

All available Pawtucket apparatus and three companies from Central Falls were called on a general alarm.

For about an hour after the fire was discovered a conflagration threatened. Nearly 100 persons in 23 families living in Middle st. were ordered out of their homes and half their belongings were removed outside the fire zone.

FIREMEN ARE INJURED

Intense heat from the burning lumber, much of it stacked diagonally with air space in between, scorched a dozen houses and at 3 a. m. it was feared the fire would spread to the Darlington residential district.

Fireman Carl Winchell, who was overcome by smoke and cut by glass, was the most seriously hurt. Capt. William Sweet was burned about hands and face and Fireman Charles Kenyon was burned on one hand.

Police began an investigation of the origin of the fire which started, according to the firemen, in a corner of the lumber yard at Front and Central sts.

A steady shower of sparks fell upon the roofs of buildings in the vicinity and within ten minutes after the flames were discovered, the Acme Finishing Co. was ablaze.

THROWN INTO DARKNESS

A small wooden tower on the roof of the latter structure collapsed, driving the flames to the interior.

An hour after the fire started, most of Pawtucket east of Broadway was thrown into darkness when, to lessen the danger under which firemen were working, officials of the electric light company turned off current in several high voltage wires.

Heflin's Son Lands in Jail After New Spree

Phenix City, Ala., Sept. 3 (AP)—J. Tom Heflin, Jr., son of the senior United States Senator from Alabama, was in jail today on charges of drunkenness and violating the state prohibition law. B. M. Haines of Standing Rock, Ala., his companion, also was in jail charged with operating an automobile while drunk.

Police Sergt. White said Heflin and Haines were endeavoring to make bond today. Relatives of Heflin from Columbus were expected here.

The two young men were arrested in Heflin's automobile with Haines at the wheel, at midnight. Police said they were attracted by the peculiar driving. The additional charge of violating the state prohibition law was docketed, police said, when they found "three bottles of home brew" in the car.

Police said Heflin told them he was living at Lafayette, Ala., his father's home, and was planning to go to law school in Tennessee soon. He had been spending the week-end in Columbus.

BRITAIN BANS WARSHIP RACE

Geneva, Sept. 3 (AP)—The British government "declined absolutely to build against the United States," declared Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in his disarmament speech before the League of Nations Assembly today.

"That is not only the word of a labor government. I think I can say it is that of a conservative government."

The Labor leader expressed belief the American naval agreement would be completed before the adjournment of the league assembly.

The labor premier announced that Great Britain had decided to sign the optional clauses for adherence to the World Court. He believed all units of the British commonwealth would do likewise.

The work of the League will go forward and establish the foundations of world peace and the problem of the League of Nations is the problem of security, he said.

"The spot of peace is still a castle in the air and the work of the League is to build up a foundation for it," said MacDonald.

MacDonald declared he never believed

OAK BLUFFS SHIP OFFICE LOOTED; POLICE LINK CRIME TO MANY BIG CAPE GEM THEFTS

Oak Bluffs, Sept. 3.—Approximately $15,000 was stolen some time during the night from the New Bedford, Marthas Vineyard & Nantucket Steamboat Co., office here by burglars believed to be implicated in the Cape Cod jewel robberies.

Immediately following discovery of the break state police began a check-up of speed boats in Vineyard and Nantucket Sounds in the belief that the robbers use this means of transportation in all their activities along the Cape.

The exact amount stolen from the steamboat office will not be known until a check is completed.

The safe contained all the holiday week-end receipts, heaviest in the company's career.

The safe robbery is the latest of a long list of breaks along Cape Cod since the summer season opened. It is the first on Martha's Vineyard.

Police believe that the robbers have moved from resort to resort in some sort of speedboat or yacht, thus managing to elude suspicion that might attach to the presence of "shady" strangers in each place.

BANK STATEMENT

Boston balance	$37,000,000
Boston clearances	58,000,000
New York balance	148,000,000
New York clearance	856,000,000

The same burglars were responsible, police belief, for jewel robberies at Brewster, Woods Hole, West Harwich and other resorts.

Oak Bluffs police, reporting to the State authorities, declared the safe robbers undoubtedly left the island in a boat of their own.

The location of the steamboat office, fronting on the sea, enabled the robbers to work without fear of detection from the street.

State Detective Ernest Bradford was assigned to the case and obtained fingerprints from the safe door.

No clue to the perpetrators of the Cape Cod jewelry robberies has been unearthed, which strengthens police theory that a boat had been used in every case.

Fine Twenty-Three for Drunkenness

Fines ranging from $5 to $10 each and one for $150 were meted out in the Somerville district court today by Judge Sturtevant against 23 men, arraigned for drunkenness.

The largest fine was paid by Frank Tata of Highland ave., Somerville, for keeping and exposing liquor for sale. He also paid a fine of $20 extra for operating a motor car without a license.

Beaten Men Found Lashed to Stake

Salisbury, Md., Sept. 3 (INS)—Two men, both 35 years old, were found today tied to a stake, unconscious and severely beaten. They are Irvin Dennis and Levin Dennis.

Dennis had been robbed of $18 and Pusey of $35, but State's Atty. Levin C. Bailey said they probably were attacked for some other motive.

FEAR FOR JEWS IN NEW RAIDS

Jerusalem, Sept. 3 (AP)—Fear was felt here today for the safety of Jews in Tiberias, the only center of great anxiety in Palestine today.

Telephone communication with Tiberias has been interrupted and there is no information regarding what has occurred there.

Reports from other points indicate the country generally is quiet. Tension exists in Jerusalem, however, because of reports that Moslems are arranging a meeting at the Mosque of Omar to protest against the high commissioner's policies.

At Jaffa Moslems started a protest demonstration yesterday but they were dispersed by the police. No protest meeting had been held in Jerusalem at noon today although many Arabs from surrounding villages were present in the city.

Jewish authorities here have been informed that Moslems have resumed construction work on the Wailing Wall, the Sacred Shrine of Jewry which is the key to the present dispute between Arabs and Jews.

It is stated that several new lay-

Gould Hints He'll Oppose Brewster

Portland, Sept. 3 (AP)—United States Senator Arthur W. Gould, returning to Maine today after a summer's tour of Europe, said he did "not care to talk about my candidacy" for another term in the Senate.

"But I can say that the possible candidacy of former Governor Brewster would be the thing that would tempt me most," he added in commenting on a statement he was reported to have made in Paris that if the former chief executive was a candidate he would again seek the nomination.

Edison Is Out of Danger, Says Son

West Orange, N. J., Sept. 3 (INS)—Thomas A. Edison is out of danger after an attack of pneumonia, his son, Charles, head of the Edison industries, said today.

The inventor laughs at the fears of his family and is anxious to return to his laboratory and resume his rubber experiments, the son said.

Truck With $4000 Load Stolen Here

A motor truck, containing $4000 worth of candy and cigarettes, the property of Memrow brothers, 11 Cross street, North End, was stolen when it was left unattended in front of the Merchants and Miners bank, Northern avenue, today. The registration number was sent over the teletype from police headquarters.

ers of stone have been added to the wall. The government is investigating.

An intimation of the vast strength behind the Moslem cause was given today by Amir El Hussein, grand mufti of Jerusalem and president of the Moslem Supreme Council.

Declaring that permanent peace between the Jews and Arabs will never be affected while the Balfour declaration principles stand in the way of Arabian conceptions of their rights, he pointed out that 60,000,000 Moslems in Syria, Egypt and North Africa were watching the Palestine situation.

Dr. Josky, director of the Hadassah medical service, returned from Safed and reported that doted city was still burning, with a complete check of the dead still incomplete.

Jerusalem in general had a normal appearance, with most shops reopened and with newspapers reappearing for the first time since the disorders began.

American Consul Knabenshue placed the total American dead at eight, with 15 wounded.

French and British Guard Syrian Border

Jerusalem, Sept. 3—British troops have ended the invasion of Arab tribesmen from Syria into Palestine. It was reported here that the British co-operating with the French in Syria, had closed the Syrian frontier.

Danger of more disorders seemed to exist in the north. One company of the South Staffordshire regiment moved northward to keep the peace there.

Thirty-five Jews were arrested in Haifa and 17 in Tel Aviv on charges of possessing firearms for defense. The High Commissioner, Sir John Chancellor, was said to have refused numerous requests that scores of Jews imprisoned on charges of possession of arms be released.

Arab Leader Warns of National Revolt

By CARL J. KETCHUM
(Special Cable Dispatch by Special Arrangement With the London Daily Express)

Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.

Jerusalem, Sept. 3—"This is not an incident—this is not a wailing wall affair, but a serious national revolution, the reverberation of which may soon be heard in every corner of Moslem Arabia."

This statement was made to me by Emir El Hussein, grand mufti and president of the Supreme Moslem Council, the man who holds the reins of power over the Arabs in Palestine.

For two hours this handsome young man with red beard and high forehead, who is the idol of the Arab people, explained to me in the presence of four members of his supreme council, the whole history of recent events in Jerusalem from the Arab viewpoint. He spoke with gravity and conviction and Britain cannot afford to ignore his warnings, as he said:

"There will be peace in the immediate future as far as we can preserve it. We will not oppose British bayonets, but what Britain must understand is that the grave events which you have witnessed here have little really to do with the Wailing Wall.

"They go further back. They go back to the Balfour declaration in 1917. We are faced at this moment with a grave national rebellion in which we have the sympathy and if need be would have the support not only of the Moslem Arabs of Syria, Egypt and Northern Africa, but the whole of Arabia with its 60,000,000 people.

"The direct cause of the recent outbreak was the Zurich Zionist Congress which gave the Arabs of this continent, not for the first time, a clear picture of the intentions of the Jews in Palestine.

"For the whole of Arabia, I assure you, that the force and presence of British troops you may suppress the present disorders and restore tranquility for the moment, but ultimate peace in Palestine and Arabia will not be made while Britain attempts to pursue the autocratic, unjust and illegal policy adopted under the terms of the Balfour declaration."

Moslems in India to Hold Big Mass Meeting

Bombay, India, Sept. 3 (AP)—Moslems in India who have expressed their sympathy with Arabs in Palestine today called a mass meeting for tomorrow at the Bombay Cathedral Mosque with street overflow arrangements.

A statement was issued from Khilafat House expressing Pan-Moslem unity, pointing out that Jerusalem was of such prime importance to all Moslems, and that the special meeting will give consideration to what steps should be taken and urge the Indian Government to take up the case with the British Government and with the League of Nations."

Jew Slain by Arabs Left Them Fortune

Jerusalem, Sept. 3—Harold Weiner, noted Jewish scholar, who was killed by Arabs near the Damascus Gate on Aug. 23, left 10,000 pounds sterling (about $50,000) to Moslem institutions.

MEXICO IN NEW CHURCH RULE

Mexico City, Sept. 3 (INS)—While Mexican state governments may specify the number of priests who may officiate within their jurisdiction, the Federal government is the supreme authority in all matters relating to religious worship, it was officially announced today.

The ministry sent out a circular warning all state governors, legislatures and municipal authorities that they must recognize the Federal government as the chief authority on religious matters.

The circular says clergymen shall be considered as professional men.

Dorchester Man Seeks School Post

Morgan T. Ryan of Dorchester announced his candidacy for the Boston school committee and further announced he was not seeking the endorsement of the Public School Association but that he was decidedly anti-P. S. A. and termed that body the "Boston branch of the national education trust."

Ryan, who is 31 years old, with an extensive law practice, is a graduate of the Boston public schools, including the Public Latin school and also graduated from Boston College and Boston University Law School.

Western Part of State Warned of Woods' Fire Peril

Springfield, Sept 3 (AP)—The forest fire menace was declared today by A. E. Ordway of Westfield, district forest fire warden, to be the worst in years because of the prolonged drouth, and he issued an urgent warning to all western Massachusetts communities to prepare fire fighting equipment for instant use.

The situation is complicated by the almost complete failure of streams that ordinarily are depended upon for water supply in fighting fires.

Hawk and Hen

By NELSON HARDING

A hen, when battling with a hawk,
Can do but little more than squawk,
For talons, beak and pinions wide
Are not upon the chicken's side.

The hen defends her helpless brood,
But is too weak to do much good.

The strong and ruthless bird of prey
Soon settles the one-sided fray.

Therefore, it being common sense
To have an adequate defense,
Why doesn't Uncle Sam prepare
To meet all raiders of the air?

'Daddy' Becker Must Retire as Teacher

Fall River, Sept. 3—The familiar form of Charles T. "Daddy" Becker, an expert teacher of penmanship, will be missing when the Durfee high school opens its doors for the fall term Monday. The beloved "Daddy" has reached 70 years and so is compelled by state law to retire.

A remarkable tribute was paid to "Daddy" Becker when he was appointed teacher of penmanship in Durfee high school four years ago. Although 21 years over the usual age limit for employing teachers he was taken on because of his unusual ability. Rev. James M. Quinn, rector of St. Mary's Cathedral and then a member of the school board, said of him:

"Here is a man who is going into our schools purely and simply on his own merits. A man who has surmounted the prejudice of color and who has overcome the barrier of age."

Mr. Becker was one of the oldtime itinerant schoolmasters who traveled through New England in the old days plying their profession.

This gentle schoolmaster trudged through snowdrifts into Clinton on Jan. 1, 1888, and with frostbitten fingers tacked up a sign in front of the town hall reading "Prof. Charles T. Becker, teacher of penmanship. All pupils must furnish their own lamps. I will furnish the pen, ink and paper."

TODAY HOTTEST OF THE YEAR

Wollaston Beach thermometers in the shade registered 99 at 2 p. m. as the largest crowd of the season jammed the place. Today's crowd was larger than that of any Sunday or holiday this season. Every inch of automobile parking space was taken.

The lowest temperature early today was 71, five degrees warmer than the previous night.

Relief from the torrid wave will probably come on Thursday, according to the official forecast, who said a storm centered in South Dakota today is moving toward the St. Lawrence valley and will undoubtedly give New England scattered showers and cooler weather. The storm is accompanie by lower temperatures.

The official forecast is "Fair and continued warm tonight and Wednesday; moderate westerly winds.

The present heat wave came from the Ohio valley and the middle Atlantic states and has caused much suffering among the people of the New England States.

Thousands of persons went to nearby beaches again today to escape the heat. State bath-houses, which usually close on Labor Day remained open today on special orders.

Eleven prostrations is the toll of the present heat wave which set a Labor Day record of 94. Hundreds of thousands flocked to the beaches.

Heat and Accidents Kill Nineteen in N. Y.

New York, Sept. 3 (INS)—Nineteen persons were dead today and more than fifty suffering from injuries as a result of the intense heat and accidents in the metropolitan district over Labor Day.

Ten deaths were attributed to the heat, seven to automobile accidents and two to poison liquor. Several of the 38 injured in automobile crashes are expected to die.

RAP DRY LAW, MODERN FADS

New York, Sept. 3—The Volstead act, companionate marriage, short skirts and the national origins clause of the immigration law were assailed in resolutions presented at the joint annual conventions of the Catholic Verein of America and the Catholic Women's Union of America.

The Volstead act was declared to have "no moral act whatever" and to be "an infringement upon personal prerogatives." Its repeal was urged.

The resolution on the national origins clause, adopted by the men's organization, advocated repeal of a measure "unfair to races who have contributed so largely to the development of the nation."

Companionate marriage was denounced as "unholy and degrading."

of the globe, established when she arrived at Lakehurst last week.

FLIES FOR NEW RECORD

If Captain Lehmann arrives in Friedrichshafen within 90 hours of the takeoff at Lakehurst, he will achieve his ambition.

Present indications are that the ship will arrive at its home port here by nightfall and land in the early evening, completing the voyage from Lakehurst in slightly less time than was needed for the last Atlantic voyage a few weeks ago.

The Zeppelin's position as radioed here at 8 a. m. (11 p. m. E. S. T. Monday) was given as 36.15 North and 21.15 West, a position about 300 miles from Lakehurst. The elapsed time of the voyage indicated a speed of just less than 75 miles an hour.

From the 5 a. m. position (mid-European time) to the mainland at Cape Finisterre was about 770 miles, and to Friedrichshafen, about 1800 miles, the least hazardous part of her flight from America.

The Zeppelin's route was several hundred miles to the south of the route chosen Aug. 7, when it began its voyage around the world from Lakehurst and completed a 4200 mile crossing to Friedrichshafen in 55 hours and 41 minutes, which was nearly airplane time for the huge dirigible.

63 PERSONS ABOARD

If the Zeppelin reaches Friedrichshafen by 8:42 p. m. tonight (3:42 p. m. Boston time) it would equal its crossing record of less than a month ago. Its arrival would lower its own round the world elapsed flying time record, Lakehurst to Lakehurst.

Aboard the Graf Zeppelin in its flight are 22 passengers and a crew of 41.

Unusual preparations were made here for reception of the dirigible and those aboard. The townspeople were excited again for the first time in several weeks. Unusually jubilant when the Graf departed from here on the second lap of its world trip residents of the city seemed today to be awakened to the significance of Dr. Eckener's trip around the world and completion by air in 21 days, 7 hours and 27 minutes what the ships of Magellan once took three years to accomplish.

Spurned by Divorced Wife; Kills Himself

North Waterford, Me., Sept. 3 (AP)—Despondent after failure to effect a reconciliation with his divorced wife, Archie Grover, an auto mechanic of Norway, returned to his boyhood home near here and killed himself with a shotgun he had borrowed.

His body was found by a neighbor who went to invite Grover over to his house for breakfast.

17 Hurt as Truck and Auto Collide

Prospect, Md., Sept. 3 (INS)—Seventeen persons, all of Baltimore, were injured, eight seriously, today when the truck in which they were riding collided with a passenger automobile and overturned on the Baltimore pike near here.

Those hurt were in a party of 30 workers, men and women, employed at a canning factory in Aurville, Pa.

lieved the Hague conference could or would fail.

It was reported in league circles today that the British delegation proposed to recommend study of the league covenant with the idea of bringing it into harmony with the Kellogg treaty for renunciation of war.

There is a gap in the covenant which makes war possible and which the defunct Geneva protocol sought to fill.

The problem is to find whether the covenant can be so amended by weaving in the underlying idea of the Kellogg pact, which outlaws aggressive war, without attempting in any way to modify the Kellogg pact itself.

Mgr. Magenis Circle on Outing Sunday

The committee in charge includes Margaret M. O'Riordan, Helen McDevitt, Zita Fleming, Mary G. Walsh, Reesie Gorman, Mary E. Somerville, Alice Sheeran, Mary Desmond and Mary G. McDonald.

Ex-Pastor Holmes to Revive Suit

Fall River, Sept. 3 (AP)—Judge Walter Collins, in Superior Court today granted counsel for Guy W. Holmes, unfrocked Methodist minister of New Bedford, 15 days in which to change his complaint against Rev. Robert L. Roberts, R. W. Hibbard and H. H. Critchlow.

The suit was an outgrowth of Holmes' expulsion from the Southern New England Methodist Conference.

ROBOTS WON'T OUST 'HUMAN' STORE CLERKS

New York Banker So Declares at Session of Retail Sales Conference

Slot machines, "robots" and other mechanical sales devices cannot replace the human being behind the counter.

O. H. Cheney, vice-president of the Irving Trust Co., of New York, so declared today before a gathering of executives of department stores, chain store organizations and other experts in retail distribution, assembled at the University Club for a three-day conference on Retail Distribution.

Officials of some of the largest department stores, executives of coast-to-coast chain store systems, and nationally known merchandising experts are attending the conference.

The conference, opened with addresses of welcome by Mayor Nichols, and George B. Johnson, President of the Retail Trade Board. The latter organization, in co-operation with the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, the Boston University School of Business Administration and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, brought the retail distribution experts together for the conference.

OTHER NOTED SPEAKERS

Among the noted merchandising chiefs to address the conference are: Lew Hahn, President Hahn Department Stores, of which the Jordan-Marsh Company is a member; Felix Vorenberg, President Gilchrist Company, Boston; A. Lincoln Filene, Wm. Filene's Sons Co., Boston; Walter Hoving, executive vice-president, R. H. Macy Co., New York; Earl C. Sams, J. C. Penney Co., chain stores; Joseph H. Appel, John Wanamaker Co., New York.

"Robots are already replacing human beings in the sale of some commodities," said Mr. Cheney in his talk on "Meeting Competition With Modern Methods." "I do not think, however, that robots can ever sell anything but certain staple goods bought in a routine way," he said.

"It is a favorite lamentation of some of our aesthetes and some of our distinguished foreign guests that we are rapidly becoming a nation of standardized and regimented robots—that we all think alike, play alike, eat alike. I think it should be made compulsory for every writer and every foreign lecturer to go through a grocery warehouse. We may be alike as any two peas, but if we ask for a can of peas, which of several hundred brands and sizes will we get?"

MAIL ORDER HOUSES.

In discussing the problem of distribution, the New York bank official said:

"We are beginning now to realize that the great economic achievement of our age is in mass production, and that in distribution we are still in the handicraft stage and the potentialities of our organizing ability and resources."

pro rata benefit of First National stockholders.

The Old Colony will retain and continue its present trust business and will merge into the First National its commercial business, including its branches.

The Old Colony Corp. will be merged into the First National Bank, and will carry on the securities business. Stock of the merged corporations will also be held by trustees for benefit of First National stockholders.

WING TO BE CHAIRMAN

The final result will be the First National Bank of Boston owned by the present stockholders of both banks; the Old Colony Trust Co., operating a trust business under its present charter and owned through trustees by First National Bank stockholders, and The First-Old Colony Corp., operating under a separate charter and owned in like manner by First National Bank stockholders.

It is proposed to merge the two boards of directors. Daniel G. Wing will continue as chairman; Bernard W. Trafford will become vice-chairman and Philip Stockton will be president of the First National Bank. Old Colony Trust Co. officers will remain the same.

Several weeks will be required to work out legal and physical details of the merger.

PRINCESS MUST PAY $5000 TO FORMER KANSAS FARM GIRL

DIVORCED WIFE OF SPRECKLES WINS SUIT

Charges Her Name Was Misused in Turkish Court During Divorce Action

Constantinople, Sept. 3—The Turkish courts today condemned the Princess Chivekiar to pay $5000 damages to Madame Saida, the former Saida Worth Spreckles, Kansas farm girl and divorced wife of John D. Spreckles, Jr., San Francisco millionaire, in the final outcome of the famous Turkish scandal suit.

In her action Madame Saida, who was once Princess Suad Chakir, charged the Princess Chivekiar had misused her name in a divorce suit against her husband, Selim Bey. The Egyptian Princess Chivekiar had charged unfaithfulness and cited Princess Suad Chakir as co-respondent.

A moonlight ride on the Bosporus in 1924 was the origin of suits and counter-suits embroiling Madame Saida, and the Egyptian princess.

In April, 1928, Princess Chivekiar was fined five lire (about $1) by the penal court of Stamboul for insulting the American-born former wife of Prince Suad Chakir.

Princess Chivekiar, former wife of King Fuad of Egypt, sued her husband, Selim Bey, for divorce for his alleged indiscretion in taking the Bosporus ride with the Kansas Princess. A fine of ten Turkish pounds was assessed against her in 1926 in a suit brought by Madame Saida.

Schall Prays for Shipstead's Health

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 3 (AP)—United States Senator Thomas D. Schall, Republican, of Minnesota, has asked the people of the state to pray for the recovery of his colleague, Senator Henrik Shipstead, farmer-labor, who is ill.

At the Minnesota state fair, Senator Schall said that although Shipstead "is not a Republican, he has been a fighting senator for Minnesota."

Gatineau Monument Dedicated by 3000

Southbridge, Sept. 3—The monument in memory of the late ex-State Representative Felix Gatineau, founder of L'Union St. Jean Baptiste, was dedicated to 3000 persons from all parts of New England participating.

The affair, which was one of the largest ever held in this town, opened with a parade. Chief of Police Ulric Brault was chief marshal with Mederic Duhamel and Adelard Leporte as aids.

Lady Heath's Chance for Life Improves

Cleveland, Sept. 3 (AP)—Lady Mary Heath, Irish aviatrix, injured in a test landing here Thursday during the national air races, has improved chances of recovery, but the probability is that she never will fly a plane again, her physicians said today.

20 INJURED IN TRAIN CRASH

Dexter, Mo., Sept. 3 (AP)—About 20 persons were injured, two seriously, when Cotton Belt passenger train No. 2, south-bound from St. Louis, ploughed into the rear end of a freight train about four miles north of Dexter today.

James Cox of Jonesboro, Ark., engineer on the passenger train, and his fireman, whose name was not learned, were seriously injured and were taken to a hospital in Poplar Bluff.

The others injured, all passengers on the passenger train, were treated for minor cuts and bruises at the offices of local physicians.

FOREST FIRES SPREAD IN WEST

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 3 (AP)—Forest officials today characterized the fire situation in the Northwest as the worst since 1910, when every national forest held one or more serious fires, and many thousands of acres of private Umberland were devastated.

An electrical storm which hurtled over the entire area during the week-end started new blazes with lightning flashes, bringing the situation in Montana, Central Idaho and Eastern Washington to the most critical point this season.

Major fires were sweeping through merchantable timber in the Selway, Pend D'Oreille, Nez Perce, Clearwater and Kootkia in Idaho, the Blackfoot, Missoula and Butte forests in Montana and the Colville region and Kaniksu forest of Washington.

'Shuttle' Out to Break Refueling Endurance Record, to Fly 30,000 Miles

Copyright, 1929, by the San Francisco Examiner and Allied Hearst newspapers. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.

By CAPT. IRA C. EAKER

Pilot of the refueling plane "Shuttle" attempting a new world's endurance refuel record. He will fly more than 30,000 miles between Oakland, San Francisco and New York without touching the ground By Parachute to Oakland Airport.

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 2—The log of Boeing-Hornet Shuttle, en route from New York to San Francisco.

7 p. m. (Sunday)—Approaching Omaha. Here Captain Street and Lieut. Woodring gave us fuel. Just as we flew over Fort Crook Airport, they took off. Made contact at 2000 feet and got 200 gallons in six minutes. Street put a note on the fuel hose saying he thought it unsafe to take off with more but that he will land and bring up another hundred.

7:30 p. m.—Dark now. Street is just taking off with the second load. Made contact and filled our tanks until they overflowed.

8 p. m.—Headed west for North Platte, Circled airport. They displayed "good weather" so we are going on. Gressed rocker arms Bucking strong west wind.

1:45 a. m. (Monday)—Coming into Cheyenne. The field is lighted up and there is no plane on the ground so Slim Lewis is already in the air to give us fuel. Sighted him but he has not gotten his altitude yet. He is too low for contact.

2 a. m.—Made contact for ten minutes. Lewis and his crew functioned perfectly. We got over 300 gallons, filling our tanks. We have 2000 pounds aboard now and are climbing hard to get over the mountains west of Cheyenne.

6:30 a. m.—Daylight is just breaking. Can now distinguish objects on the ground and that's a great relief for it has been a very dark night. A thunderstorm has us blocked off from Salt Lake City, so we are running around to the north. Only making 60 miles an hour now. A terrific wind is blowing — scattering rain squalls. Climbed up to 12,000 feet and can see Salt Lake City off to left.

9:30 a. m.—We are draining off and putting a fresh supply in the engine tanks. Once when we drained all from the Question Mark last January in Los Angeles we got a letter from an irate mother on the following day saying that we had got oil on her baby's clothing which were hanging on a line in her backyard. We are taking no chances today as we are draining oil over an alfalfa field.

11:30 a. m.—Coming into Elko. Vance has already taken off to refuel. Made contact immediately, last seven minutes, and got 200 gallons but our tanks aren't quite full. The note we put on the refueling hose for Vance blew off so we are dropping the same message at Reno on the airmail field, where it will be relayed to him.

2:30 p. m.—We are climbing over hump between Reno and Sacramento. It is the roughest air we have struck. More than once I have left the floor and gone up against the ceiling of this little cockpit.

3:30 p. m.—We are gliding down the slope now toward the coast. As we pass over Oakland airport we shall drop by parachute a bag containing New York newspapers and miscellaneous assortment of notes, photographs and messages.

Refueling the Shuttle Not Such an Easy Thing

Refueling a plane in the air is a difficult process. As shown here the pilot clings to the wings to steady the plane, and fastens his eyes on the funnel at his side. The refueling hose must be held over the funnel while the gas is being transferred.

EAKER REFUELS IN NEVADA

Salt Lake City, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Boeing Air Transport offices here received a message that the endurance plane Shuttle left Elko, Nev., at 6: 30 a. m., Pacific time, today for Cheyenne, Wyo., where the next refueling contact was planned

Piloted by Capt. Ira C. Eaker and Lieut. Bernard Thompson, the aircraft completed the east-to-west crossing of the continent yesterday at 1.20 p. m. Pacific time, when it arrived over Oakland airport. The Shuttle dropped a package of newspapers from New York, but did not refuel. Five minutes after its arrival it was on its way back toward the Atlantic coast.

Eaker and Thompson hope to span the continent at least three times in each direction and then remain close to Mitchel Field, New York, the takeoff point, as much longer as it is possible to stay.

PLANE PATROL WAGON IN USE

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Sept. 3 (INS)—The airplane patrol wagon is now a reality.

Capt. Harold R. King of the Nassau County detectives and County Detective Arthur Boyce today hopped off in a Wright plane for Troy, N. Y., in quest of Alexander Nelson, wanted here for grand larceny.

Nelson, who is alleged to have stolen a parachute valued at $300, will be brought back in the plane.

Officials of the field have promised Dist. Atty. Edwards the use of a plane for police purposes whenever he desires.

Mill Strike Death Trial Still Held Up

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 3 (AP)—The second special venire of 150 called in the trial of 16 men and women in the textile strike at Gastonia, accused of the murder of O. F. Aderholt was exhausted an hour after court convened, in an effort to complete filling the jury box. Court adjourned till tomorrow morning.

Work Is Hoover's Guest; to Retire

Washington, Sept. 3 (AP)—Dr. Hubert Work, who retires as chairman of the Republican National Committee next week, arrived today from his home in Pueblo, Colo., and is a guest of President Hoover.

Work will call the committee to order next Monday and that body is expected to elect as his successor Claudius H. Huston, of Tennessee, another personal friend and ardent political supporter of the President.

Combines No Boon to Labor, Says Speaker

Mergers in commerce and industry were branded as the major causes of unemployment at the Labor Day demonstration held on the Common by the Boston Central Labor Union.

While speakers were declaring that the American industrial worker enjoys the highest wages and the best working conditions in the world, and pointed with pride to the annual savings of $10,000,000,000 which toilers have deposited in savings banks, they warned that much progress must be made by labor in the coming year.

In attacking the giant mergers that have featured the trend of modern business, General Organiser Chris Kerker of New York estimated that there are between 4,000,000 and 4,300,000 willing men and women who are unable to obtain gainful employment throughout the country at the present time.

"This is the result of our age of mergerization," he contended. He declared that the workers now need the shorter work day and the five-day week in order that there may not be an overloaded market and general unemployment.

CHINESE GIRL WANDERS OFF

Jessie Chin, 13-year-old Chinese girl, is missing again.

Jessie lives down in Chinatown, at 82 Harrison ave. Every now and then she has disappeared. She has been gone for more than a week this time. She is Chinatown's habitual runaway—a rather self-sufficient little miss who goes and comes as she pleases and explains to no one her goings and comings.

When she left home she carried a red umbrella and was dressed in a light blue dress and mixed color coat. She wore no hat.

GIRL SLAYER TO GO FREE ON BAIL

Jersey City, Sept. 3 (INS)—County Judge Thomas H. Brown today fixed bail at $15,000 for Alice Corbett, the 16-year-old orphan girl, who is charged with shooting and killing Patrolman George McHale of the Jersey City police department after the officer is alleged to have attacked her in his home, where she was living.

The bail was set over the protest of Prosecutor John Drewen.

The girl was released last week in the custody of her counsel, but was rearrested on a murder charge when McHale died in Jersey City Hospital.

Princeton Seminary Not to Heed Protest

Philadelphia, Sept. 3 (AP)—In a statement today to the alumni, students and friends of the institution, the new board of control of Princeton Theological Seminary declared "there will be no departure from the conservative doctrinal position maintained for more than 100 years."

The seminary will reopen soon under the single board of control established by the Presbyterian general assembly in place of dual control by two boards.

A group formerly connected with the institution, which objected to the single board, recently announced organization of a seminary in Philadelphia to be known as Westminster.

Wrecker Injured at Old Postoffice

Ralph Latz, 32, of Rochester st., South End, was victim of an unusual accident in Postoffice sq. when a stone fell from one of the upper floors of the old postoffice and struck him on the leg, breaking it. He was taken to Haymarket Relief Hospital. Lats is one of the big forces of workmen employed in demolishing the old building.

LOWELL MAN IS ELECTROCUTED

Lowell, Sept. 3—Falling against a charged wire carrying 2300 volts, Archie McLoos, 30, of 41 Humphrey st., was electrocuted today.

He with a crew of men were repairing electric light poles on Chelmsford st. McLoos' safety belt caught on the wire and his body hung 40 feet above the street, for several moments before fellow workers lowered it to the ground. Associate Medical Examiner Mason D. Bryant, after directing work over McLoos' body for more than an hour, gave up hope the man would recover.

Normal Enrollment in Burlington School

Superintendent Eugene C. Vining of the Burlington and Billerica school union announced a normal enrollment of pupils at the opening of the schools in the former town today. Burlington high school students will, as usual, attend Lexington high school.

First Arrest in Gloucester Holdup

Gloucester, Sept. 3—The first arrest in what local police hope will be three in connection with the holding up on Saturday of Anthony Sears, local auto driver, by three fake federal agents, was made at Haverhill by Gloucester police assisted by the local authorities, and the local authorities admitted that George Randall of Haverhill, said to have been one of the trio, was booked at the local station on a charge of being an accessory before and after an attempted robbery.

Daredevil Killed

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 3—Will (Daredevil) Mackey of Detroit was killed in a fall from an airplane near Niagara-on-the-Lake. Failure of his parachute to open during an attempted stunt is reported to have caused the fatality.

CHEMICAL GOLD MADE BY 2

Wellington, New Zealand, Sept. 3 (AP)—Alchemy, the immature chemical research by which medieval students in the Old World sought to transmute baser metals into gold, has been advanced to a hitherto unattained efficacy by two chemists of the Antipodes.

After 15 years of dangerous research, two Christ Church workers, G. F. Aston and M. W. Atack, claim that by the use of an electromagnetic process they have succeeded in transmuting certain elements into gold.

The results of their research are reported to be under the closest observation of the New Zealand and British Governments.

An important feature of their work is said to be discovery by Aston of a new force, given the name of "Chromadyne," which is claimed to be ten times more powerful than electricity.

Minister in Holdup Fear Shoots Sheriff

West Union, O., Sept. 3 (AP)—The Rev. R. M. Knight, of Garrett, Ill., today awaited action by the grand jury on charges of shooting Sheriff C. M. Mack early yesterday.

Knight said he believed Mack and Jess Kidder, town marshal at Manchester, O., were robbers when he observed them sitting in a machine parked across the road. The men were no uniforms, he said. He drew a gun and fired when they commanded him to halt.

Cabinet Minister Killed

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 3 (AP)—John F. Mahoney, who rose from a water front worker to minister of natural resources in the government of Nova Scotia, was killed in a collision of his automobile and a street car. He was 54 years old, the youngest man ever to occupy a cabinet position in the province.

SAILOR KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Stonington, Ct., Sept. 3 (AP)—James Trebilcox, 22, of Philadelphia, first-class signalman, was killed and two other members of the U. S. S. Bainbridge's crew were slightly hurt today when their car, after crashing into a stone abutment, was struck by a New York-to-Boston passenger bus.

The sailors, who had been given holiday leave, were returning to Newport when the accident occurred. State police said Charles Bradford, 18, of Philadelphia, driver of the car, would be arrested, as he had no driver's license. Police said the car was making 60 miles an hour.

It is alleged that Bradford fell asleep at the wheel just before the accident. Bradford and Norman Krause, 19, of Philadelphia were cut by flying glass.

100,000 Hail Eckener at Air Carnival

Cleveland, Sept. 3—One hundred thousand acclaimed Dr. Hugo Eckener, skipper of the Graf Zeppelin, at the closing exercises of aviation's greatest spectacle.

The crowd roared its greeting as he arrived, accompanied by Governor Myers Y. Cooper! Later, he boarded a blimp for Akron.

Henry J. Brown, veteran Cleveland air mail pilot, was awarded the $5000 first prize for winning the non-stop Los Angeles to Cleveland air race. He finished the flight in 13 hours 18 minutes.

Lieut. James Doolittle of the army, who was forced to take to his parachute when the wings of his plane collapsed while 2000 feet in the air Saturday, came back with another exhibition of thrills in the air. Col. Lindbergh and Lt. Alford Williams of the navy, also repeated their stunts of the previous day.

G. O. P. TARIFF CHIEFS EXPLAIN NEW MEASURE

Washington, Sept. 3 (AP)—Detailed explanations of the changes made in the House tariff bill by Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee were set forth in a tentative report issued today by the committee majority.

The document advocated the proposed substitution of domestic for foreign values in the computation of ad valorem duties, asserted the treasury would raise the level of protection on agricultural commodities by eleven per cent and, going into the bill by individual schedules, gave the majority's reasons for the rates it agreed upon.

WOULD SOOTHE FOREIGNERS

Elimination of all international difficulties in the administration of the tariff law was predicted as a result of adopting the proposed method of levying at valorem duties. All necessary investigations, the report said, would be made within the United States, thus avoiding inquiries in other countries with their difficulties and occasional international disagreements. In addition, it was asserted that through the new method present inequalities resulting from differing production costs in various nations would be avoided.

EXPLAINS WOOL RATES

In view of an increased domestic wool yield of about 33 per cent over the last six years, the report said, the committee decided that the increase of three cents a pound on raw wool proposed by the House was inadvisable and eliminated this provision. At the same time an increased duty on wool waste was recommended on the ground that the intent of Congress would be defeated if a substitute for wool is allowed to come into the country at a rate lower than that placed upon wool itself.

The most important change in the sugar schedules was asserted to be that reducing the rate on Cuban sugar from 2.40 cents proposed by the House to 2.20 cents.

GIRL, DAD LEAP YACHT BLAST

New London, Ct., Sept. 3 (AP)—Duncan Holmes, vice-president of the Chase National Bank, New York, and his 19-year-old daughter escaped when an explosion occurred aboard the cruiser Trebor in the Thames river here, by leaping aboard a gasoline barge to which the cruiser was moored.

Capt. John Elison, master of the cruiser, and two members of the crew, R. H. Kelly and G. U. Nilson, all of Stamford, were burned in the fire that followed. The cruiser was destroyed, L. D. Cleveland of Stamford, the owner, placing the loss at $40,000.

The gas tanks had been re-filled, preparatory to a cruise, when Capt. Elison stepped on the motor starter by accident.

The explosion followed, a spark igniting the gasoline in the bilges. Two large holes were torn in the bow. Miss Holmes was sleeping in the cabin which was shattered by the blast. Her father was in an aft cabin. The two, clad in their night clothing, leaped off the gas barge.

TO DISCUSS N. E. FARM PROBLEM

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 3 (AP)—A discussion of what the new Federal farm board will mean to New England is expected to feature the program of the New England Council at its two-day session here Thursday and Friday. Harry R. Lewis, Rhode Island's commissioner of agriculture, will speak on the subject, the council announced today.

The forthcoming session will be the council's sixteenth quarterly meeting. Some of those who will address the various conferences will include Walter S. Wyman, president of the New England Public Service Co., Augusta, who will discuss industrial development in northern New England; former Governor Robert P. Bass of New Hampshire, forestry problem of New England; and Professor Melvin R. Copeland of Harvard, who is to survey current changes in marketing methods in this section.

The council will meet in Dartmouth College buildings.

OPIUM ADDICTS TESTS SMASH OLD BELIEFS

New Haven, Sept. 3—Unexpected results from a test in drug addiction were described by Richard H. Paynter of Long Island University at the International Congress of Psychology at Yale University. Dr. Paynter described a series of experiments made on twelve opium addicts who applied to the Philadelphia General Hospital for treatment.

The subjects came from all walks of life and their periods of addiction ranged from one to 20 years. They were given mental tests first while under the influence of morphine sulphate in sufficient quantities to keep them comfortable, and then after being deprived of the drug for several hours.

To the astonishment of all who watched, Dr. Paynter said, the addicts displayed greater mental ability in many instances while deprived of the drug than while under its influence. The tests included co-ordination, perceptual motor processes, vocal response, auditory-memory span, free and controlled associations. Learning of new associations, reading ability, arithmetical reasoning and intelligence.

Each subject underwent the tests for two hours on each of three days while he was kept comfortable on morphine sulphate and for similar periods on other days when he was deprived of the drug. Dr. Paynter said:

"Although experiencing varying amounts of physical and mental distress during the withdrawal period of from ten to twelve hours, the subjects performed their tasks far better than was expected.

"There was no approach to the serious mental confusion and disintegration that was contemplated in view of the recent opinions as to the psychological collapse resulting from sudden abstinence. In many cases, in the withdrawal period, the subjects did better than they themselves judged and at times they performed even better than in the comfortable period."

The speaker said that in the withdrawal period, the patients were inclined to under-estimate their mental efficiency and in the comfortable period to over-estimate it.

Some Smart Ape May Yet Be Awarded Diploma at Yale

New Haven, Ct., Sept. 3 (AP)—A plan for Yale University, to establish an anthropoid ape station in Florida was announced to the Ninth International Congress of Psychology today by Dr. James R. Angell, president of Yale.

No said it will be used in connection with the newly established Institute of Human Relations of Yale, the purpose of which is "to study human relations in their widest implications." Prof. Robert M. Yerkes of Yale will be in charge of the station.

AMERICANS TO BUILD MODEL SOVIET CITY

Nishni-Novgorod, U. S. S. R., Sept 3 (AP)—American engineering skill, ingenuity and energy has been called into play by Soviet Russia in the building of a great new model industrial city just north of here between the Volga and the Oka rivers.

In competition with engineers of six European countries the Austin company of Cleveland, O., has been awarded a contract by the Soviet Government to construct a city on modern American lines. It may be named Austingrad as a compliment to its American builders. The principal product of the center will be Ford automobiles and motor trucks. Ultimately 500,000 automobiles annually will be produced there.

Involving the expenditure of $40,000,000 to the Russian Government this is the largest contract of its kind given by the Soviet authorities since they gained power 12 years ago. The new city will contain the largest automobile plant in Europe.

Student Air Pilot Dies

Oklahoma City, Sept. 3—Lawrence Oates, student pilot, died from injuries suffered Saturday in an airplane wreck near Purcell, in which Joe Pritchard, passenger-flier, was killed.

Asks Full Pay of Husband as Alimony

New York, Sept. 3 (INS)—Mrs. Catherine Monaghan, presented a problem in higher mathematics when she filed a bill asking separate maintainance today before Supreme Court Justice Mitchell May, in Brooklyn. She asked $180 a week alimony and $500 for attorney's fees pending hearing of her suit.

Her husband, John, a delegate of the Engineers' Union, has a salary of $180 weekly.

Fatality on Roller Coaster Probed

Springfield, Sept. 3—Police at Agawam, near here, and authorities at Riverside Park, an amusement park in that town, are investigating an accident that occurred on a large roller coaster at the park causing the death in a hospital here of George Sanguinet of Palmer, who fell from one of the cars of the coaster.

Death resulted from shock incidental to the fracture of both legs.

Dearest Anne:

Well, we've said goodbye to "the good old summer time"! I hated to do it, and I guess the weatherman did, too, from the heaping portion of summer weather he served to us. But, dearest Anne—don't let that deceive you. It's really time to put away those pretty summer things, and plan that stunning Fall ensemble of yours. Have you ever seen such gorgeous colors! Every one seems to have been designed to bring out all the loveliest tones of our natural coloring. You really must not miss a gorgeous palette of Autumn colors, Anne! Beautiful handmade models, priced at only $8, in striking groups of Copen Blue, Congo Brown, Jungle Green, Chanel Red and Antelope. Light as dish, it's these exquisite sorties answer every dictate of Fall Fashions. Flare-back models; brief fronts and turbans that swirl to one side with a most enchanting drape are $3.95. And a special group of reduced felts, at $1.95, offers some thrilling bargains, at Bennett's, 127 Tremont St. (sixth floor).

Bennett's Fall Opening,

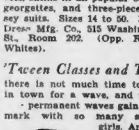
Here's a Motto

for back-to-school and business girls to jot down, in their notebooks—and remember when the clothes budget is low, and the clothes demand is running high—"The N. Y. Dress Mfg. Co. will give a $5.00 rebate to anyone who can duplicate their values at their prices!"—and they haven't given a dress yet! It is really worth a visit to this shop just to see what you can buy for $6.75. Velvet ensembles, stunning black satins and brown crepes, chiffons, tasseled velvet trimmed, and printed tweeds. At $3.75 there are printed velvets, satins in all popular colors, georgettes, and three-piece jersey suits. Sizes 14 to 50. N. Y. Dress Mfg. Co., 515 Washington St., Room 202. (Opp. R. H. Whites).

'Tween Classes and Teas

there is not much time to run in town for a wave, and that's why so many school girls. And the new price of $8 and $10 makes Houghton & Dutton Co.'s Beauty Parlor one of the most popular places, as they include with the curls required, shampoo and setting wave. For hair that is losing its youthful color, there is really nothing so effective as Inecto Notox hairdye, which can be matched to any shade, and is perfectly neutral-looking. They apply it and sell it for home use. Wednesday is beauty bargain day at Houghton's and a 25% discount is offered on every ill charge in the Beauty parlor, with the exception of permanent waves. Windblown haircuts, 75 cents; re-bob, 50 cents.



Fabyan Frocks

for school days! It's quite a strain on the family budget when there are two high-school daughters to be outfitted, but the Fabyan Co. has taken care of that, with their special price of 2 for $18 on their adorable new Fall frocks. Singly they are $8.75 — so you see what a saving that is. These frocks were obtained at a very special price from their New York representative, and include satins, crepes, silk tweed ensembles and frocks. Other stunning gowns in transparent velvet, satins and crepes, $14.95 to $24.50. Fabyan Shop, Fabyan Bldg., 26 West St., Rm. 602.

What a Wealth of Glorious Hair!

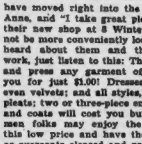
You, too, can acquire thick, luxuriant hair, even though your scalp be tender, easily irritated, and your hair thin and fading, with the aid of Hairlene, the most marvelous scalp tonic. It is made of the finest imported oils and herbs and contains no drying alcohols. If your scalp contains excessive oil, or your hair is dry and brittle, Hairlene will correct such trouble, and put your scalp in perfect hair-growing condition. Hairlene will also prevent your hair from becoming gray, and it promotes such healthy nourishment that fading hair regains new life and color. It gives a rich lustre, and a "live" appearance to the hair. If you are troubled with patchy baldness, and thin, barren spots spoil your most carefully waved head, Hairlene will start a tiny fuzz of healthy hair growing in these spots. It is most delightful to use, too, and two or three applications a week is quite sufficient. Those who have already had one bottle of Hairlene, and have realized its remarkable results would be wise to get it again. Hairlene is sold by the Hairlene Laboratories, 8 Winter St., Rm. 716, Boston. You may order by mail, or call in person. It is $1.00 for a 6-oz. bottle; $2 for a 16-oz. bottle.

The Greater Boston Cleansers & Dyers

have moved right into the very heart of our shopping grounds, Anne, and "I take great pleasure" in announcing the opening of their new shop at 8 Winter St., Room 1106. They surely could not be more conveniently located, could they? In case you haven't heard about them and their wonderful work, just listen to this: They will cleanse and press any garment of any sort for you for just $1.00! Dresses of all kinds, even velvets; and all styles, even intricate pleats; two or three-piece ensembles; suits, and coats will cost you but $1. Even the men folks may enjoy the advantage of this low price and have their coats, suits or overcoats cleaned and pressed for $1.00. A new, lower price of only 50 cents has been placed on hats, blouses and sweaters! Isn't that wonderful—especially after vacation days? The Greater Boston Cleansers & Dyers offer a prompt two to three-day service, and return your things to you, their life extended by a thorough cleansing; smartness restored by a perfect pressing; and their appearance thoroughly renewed. If you can't conveniently get in town, you may mail your things in to the Greater Boston Cleansers & Dyers, 8 Winter St., Room 1106.

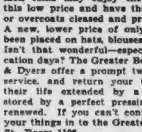
It All Depends on Scott, Anne

We can be swathed in glorious furs from the tips of our ears to the new way-low prices this winter, through the generosity and dependability of Scott Furriers, New England's Largest Fur Establishment, 60 Summer St. With their exclusive payment features, you may pay cash, if you wish, or open an extended charge account, or make a small deposit to enroll in the Scott Unique Fur Club, the only one in New England, and arrange to pay the balance in weekly or monthly amounts while wearing your furs. There are no delays, no investigations and no inconvenience. It is truly the easiest, fairest and most economical arrangement ever known. It is not necessary to pay in full for your fur coat when you take it out from Scott Furriers, as they do not ask for payment within any definite period. Their selection, priced from $98 to $975 is one of the largest in town. On their third floor Scott Furriers have a beautiful selection of lower priced dependable furs ranging from $45 to $148, none higher. On the second floor you can still buy a luxurious fur scarf priced from $15 to $195. Scott Furriers, Inc., 69 Summer St., Boston, 51 Pratt St., Hartford, and the new store at 309 Westminster St., Providence, occupying the entire building opposite Grace Church, which will open Thursday, Sept. 5th. Due to an unavoidable delay in construction of the building the August Fur Sale in Providence will be conducted in September, with August prices prevailing. Open every evening until 9 P. M., including Saturdays.



Oo-ooh! Mother, What Time Is It!

We'll soon be hearing this familiar call again as pretty little Sally Jane adds the last frantic dab of powder to her turned-up nose—and bobbed or sensible shingled around for last night's "home lessons," because you "get the dickens" when you're late for school, especially if it's your first appearance in "period" classes. But Beth decided this year to let the youngsters have the responsibility of getting themselves off to school on time, and bought each of them a wrist watch. Now don't gasp, Anne. It really isn't extravagance, it's a necessity. How are they going to keep important engagements like music lessons and football practice? And when I tell you the price you'll easily understand how she did it—and included them in their clothes budget. Each year just before school time Filene's gets in a special lot of wrist watches which they sell for only $5.85. They are really wonderful. With their silver-like chromium finish (guaranteed not to discolor) and their exquisite, finely executed designs, they might easily be taken for much costlier watches. There are several styles with ribbon straps and some very smart sport styles with radium dials and real leather wrist straps. They are so good-looking, and keep such excellent time that many harried, and hurried business girls I know are buying them, too. You'll find them in Filene's Jewelry Section, on the street floor, a truly unusual value at $5.85.



The New Bare Forehead

styles are giving eyebrows a great air of importance, Anne, and it is really quite necessary to have them trimly arched.

Miss Elise-Beth G. Sparkes, our electric needle expert, is having exceptional success in this work. She does not pluck, but permanently and painlessly removes all your closed and take them to the Pyramid Co., Fabyan Bldg., 26 West St., Room 602, for and them Parcel Post. You'll find it a remarkable saving on the wear and tear of your clothes to keep them well cleansed and pressed, and at such a low cost—only $1—you can easily afford this excellent service.

Frocks Renewed $1

and coats and hats and draperies, too! Renewed by a new cleansing process which not only cleanses and presses—but restores their former glory, and all for the price of $1. So just pack up your soiled garments that stare at you dismally from their hooks in your closet for tiny tot togs! It's the most fascinating—and reasonably priced—spot in town, Anne, this new shop for little folks, which Plotkin Bros. have opened at the request of grown-ups who have enjoyed their exceptional styles and values for lo! these past 20 years. The Tom Thumb Shop takes care of little folks' needs from their first baby days to six years. For these important folks starting in to school this year they have a special value in knitted wool jersey suits. Two-piece for little boys, with collars or crew neck, at the unusually low price of $3.50. For little girls there are three-piece jersey dresses only $5. All the popular new Fall colors. Sweaters for tiny babies, in the softest colors and most adorable styles, are but $1.75. Plotkin Bros., 364 Boylston St. (second floor).

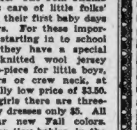
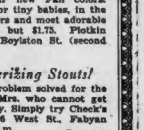
Slenderizing Stouts!

Here's a problem solved for the Miss and Mrs. who cannot get fitted easily. Simply try Check's first, at 26 West St., Fabyan Bldg., Room 505. Making a specialty of youthful dresses for the larger woman is quite an achievement, and whether you are a short stout, or tall makes no difference at Check's, as their sizes are from 36½ to 50½ and up to 64. They have all the new crepes, satins, tweed silks, transparent velvets, sport styles, and frocks for more formal occasions. You will surely be very well-dressed in one of these stunning models at $16.50. Check's, 26 West St., Rm. 505.



The Trick o' Trim Legs

is to wear stockings that accentuate them with silky firmness, in shades that allow your own faint flesh tone to glow through. It's a precious secret that a famous little dancer told me, Anne, and I've found the stockings that fill this prescription perfectly. It's the Rais Hosiery, both chiffon and service weight, which is carried exclusively in Boston by Geo. L. Griffin & Sons, Inc. With a firm gauge, and perfect-fitting, shades to match, they are remarkably low priced at $1.10, $1.25 and $1.65. All the new Fall shades. Try Boulevard, with its air of sophisticated elegance. You'll adore it. Geo. L. Griffin & Sons, 370 Washington St.



The Newest of New

Fall styles have just arrived in all their splendor for Evelyn's Fall Opening. Dresses have never been so attractive, or so sweetly feminine as they are this season, Anne, and Evelyn has selected the best of them for us, and marked them surprisingly low. Frocks and ensembles of transparent velvet, lustrous crepes and satins, tweed silks, with dabs of bright color, and prints, are all the new slim princess lines that reveal alluring curves. She also has some sporty tweed and covert ensembles for the back-to-school miss. Evelyn's prices are $8.95 to $16.95 up. On that wonderful bargain rack are some new Fall frocks, at $5. Evelyn's Dress Shop, 8 Winter St.

And So, My Dear

with the thrill of changing from straight-lines, brief skirts, and golden sun-tans into a complete new silhouette, with higher waists, longer, "lady-like" skirts, and perfectly beguiling new tilted lines that reveal hitherto unknown curves, and with all the glorious colors of autumn leaves to choose from, it looks like an exciting season for us—in the shops.

Devotedly yours,

Priscilla

CHICAGO PLANE UP 260 HOURS; STILL GOING

Chicago, Sept. 3—With second honors already in their possession, Russell Moseman and C. E. Steele, pilots of the refueling endurance flight plane Chicago—We Will, passed the 260th hour in the air at 7.31 a. m. today. They hoped to beat the 421-hour record of the St. Louis Robin.

Moseman and Steele gave indications that, although their craft was functioning perfectly, the long grind was becoming irksome.

"Hello, world," said a note Steele dropped. "If you think 240 hours in the air isn't a long time you're all wrong."

A telegram from Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, who set the record of the St. Louis Robin, was received at the Sky Harbor airport, base of the Chicago—We Will today. It read:

"Go to it, boys. We are right behind you."

Airport attaches expressed sympathy and also relief when informed that the Empire State Standard had been forced down in Syracuse after 178 hours in the air.

Held for Hotel Bill

New York, Sept. 3—Oscar Lesner, 23, of Main st., Bridgeport, Conn., was held in $500 bail for hearing Friday, when he was arraigned in Magistrate's Court charged with failing to pay a $49 bill contracted during a three-day stay at the Hotel McAlpin.

FEAR FOR FLIER UNREPORTED 30 HOURS

Los Angeles, Sept. 3 (INS)—Widespread search was in progress today over Arizona and New Mexico mountains and deserts and far into Oklahoma and Kansas for Maj. John Wood, Wausau, Wis., air race pilot, and his mechanic Ward Miller, Los Angeles, missing in an attempted non-stop flight to Cleveland for a $5,000 prize.

Wood was seeking to break Lieut. Henry Brown's record of 13 hours, 18 minutes.

Wood's plane has not been reported seen since it took off from the Metropolitan airport at Van Nuys near here early yesterday. It is more than 30 hours overdue.

Wood and Miller were last to take off early Monday for the $5,000 prize awarded at Cleveland. It was believed here the plane might have been forced down in an inaccessible spot or that pilot and mechanic had been killed.

Wood is president of the Northern Airways. His home is at Wausau, Wis.

Lieut. Henry J. Brown was awarded the first prize when Wood failed to arrive at Cleveland before 6 p. m., yesterday.

Sargent Resumes Law

Ludlow, Vt., Sept. 3—After a six months' rest, John Garabaldi Sargent, former attorney-general of the United States, has resumed the practice of law.

The Curious Quizzer

South Station Pedestrians Answer His Question and Pose for Pictures

THE QUESTION

Should all married women be expected to use "Mrs." when signing their names?

HENRY W. DELORY, Walnut st., East Braintree—A married man living at home with his husband or a woman who has been divorced should be compelled to prefix "Mrs." to all documents she signs if she is employed in a government position. I am opposed to women as mayors, selectmen or as legislators. They claim equality in the positions they hold in competition with the men working beside them and they should not be allowed to camouflage the fact they have husbands or possessed them at one time. Many women in private life never use the "Mrs." even when in the home of their husband. It seems such married women avoid the term to give the impression they are maidens fair and are in the market for marriage.

MRS. REBECA B. SILVERMAN, Taunton st., Revere—When I sign my name I make it clear that no mistake will be made that I am a married woman. There is no reason for a married woman omitting "Mrs." if she has taken the vow which makes her a wife. She should be proud to have the privilege lawfully given her, to let the world know she has been successful in winning a man's love and confidence. It is possible that some women who have husbands are not willing to admit the fact and if they do not sign their names with a "Mrs." they do so for reasons that I cannot understand.

THOMAS L. PLUNKETT, Milda rd., Dorchester—I do not pretend to know much about women. I am too good a sailor to want anything to do with any of them. But, on thinking over the matter in the question, I believe that any woman who has the honor of bearing a man's name should take pride in using his full title on every occasion. If she leaves off the title which shows her to be a married woman then it seems she does so because she is ashamed of him. No woman should be ashamed to use "Mrs." after she has been trusted by the man who gave her his name.

MISS ETHEL W. BROWN, Tucker st., Natick—Perhaps it is not necessary for a married woman to add "Mrs." to her name when signing a business document but in sending out invitations or answering them a married woman should always use the title which shows she is not single. Some divorced women have the right, they claim to use their maiden name because they are single and that they are no different than unmarried girls in the struggle for business opportunities or in love affairs. Some widows always sign letters to business houses with only their initials tacked in front of their surnames. They claim they do so in order not to give the impression they are women, because they believe that their correspondence with business men will be given quicker and better attention if the business men think they are dealing with men and not with women.

Plane Speed Secret Revealed to Prince

Calshot, Eng., Sept. 3 (AP)—The British and Italian aviators who will compete at the end of this week for the Blue Ribbon Schneider Cup had a royal visitor today.

The Prince of Wales, one of the most "air minded" of European royalty, arrived just after noon after flying from London to watch the cup candidates' practice. The Prince was informed of the speed which had been attained by the new British Schneider Cup planes, being the only person in the world, outside the engineers and mechanics, to learn this secret.

Corns

Stop hurting in one minute!

A NEW PRINCIPLE

NOTHING ELSE LIKE IT

A corn can't possibly hurt when you apply a Dr. Scholl Zino-pad, because the cause is removed—friction and pressure of shoes. The soothing, healing medication gives the instant relief for which Zino-pads are famous.

Harsh liquids and plasters ignore the cause and expose the toes to acid burn. And cutting your corns invites blood poisoning.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are guaranteed safe and sure. They are small, thin, dainty, cushioning, protective. Doctors recommend them. Won't come off while bathing. Sizes also for Callouses and Bunions. Buy a box today.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3—Prepare to do homage to one Don Jose Mojica, Chicago opera tenor, who has the personality of Rudy Vallee and the voice of young Martinelli. I say this as one who is convinced Winfield Sheehan is right, that Don Jose Mojica will be a hit. I heard and saw his tests and it's easy to understand why the Fox Company signed the lad pronto. He is due here about Sept. 8.

Louella O. Parsons

A dramatic song romance, with a Spanish setting as yet unnamed, will be Don Jose's introduction to movies. Harlan Thompson is writing the scenario and dialogue and Dave Stamper is lending all his famed talents to write the lyrics and music.

As befitting a youth who has sung with Galli Curci, Frieda Hempel, Mary Garden and others, the 25-year-old singer will have the best that Fox can offer. The best, in the opinion of Mr. Sheehan, is a production staged under the direction of Edward Royce.

And girls before you "go Rudy Vallee," let me tell you Don Jose is six feet tall, athletic and with much of the charm that made Rudolph Valentino such a favgrite.

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD has been persuaded to part with Bert Wheeler, one of his most successful comedians. RKO with the ever ready check book, bought his contract from Ziegfeld. Bert came out, when the film rush brought Broadway speculators in huge droves to play a part in "Rio Rita" for RKO. He expected just the minute his contract was through to get in New York just as fast as train or plane could carry him.

But he didn't reckon with the charm of California and the speed with which film companies work. Just when he was cussing the bad luck that took him away from the studio, he was handed a contract for five pictures. He will star in four and play opposite Bebe Daniels in a forthcoming musical comedy.

One of the busiest and most interesting young women in Hollywood is Mrs. Dorothy Reid, the widow of Wally Reid. Since her famous crusade against dope, Dot hasn't been so much in the limelight, but nevertheless she is working and doing things. She ceased some years ago making pictures with problems and is now making popular subjects. Her latest is "The Dude Wrangler," and I imagine it has comedy because Raymond Hatton will have the leading male role.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Marilyn Miller well again after a siege with sinus trouble. Marion Davies making her first scenes of "Dulcy." Eddie Brandstetter entertaining Evelyn Brent and Harry Edwards at a farewell dinner at the Montmartre. Mary Pickford bidding the girls in Jim's beauty parlor au revoir before sailing for Europe. Julanne Johnstone in sleeveless low cut dress and socks, demonstrating the new and sensible way for girls to dress in summer time. A crowd of United Artists officials journeying to Corona for the opening of a new theater. The James Quirks and the Watterson Rothackers enjoying a week-end at Malibu Beach. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

LEGION BACKS FLAG ASSN. PROJECT

The headquarters of the Department of Massachusetts, American Legion, is preparing to send out announcements calling the attention of the 294 Legion posts of the State to the very important resolution adopted at the department convention in Westfield.

The resolution indorsed the Flag Project of the United States Flag Association, sponsored by the Hearst newspapers throughout the United States. The movement will get under full swing with the opening of schools throughout the nation. The resolution, unanimously adopted, places 294 Legion posts in the Department of Massachusetts in active participation in the Flag Project.

Six hundred and thirteen delegates, representing 90,000 Legion members in Massachusetts, endorsed the work.

The American Legion in last year's Flag Association activities gave splendid support and indorsement to the work in Massachusetts, going so far as to give up a similar project of their own to support the plan of the United States Flag Association. Three of the six regional winners in New England were enrolled by American Legion posts, showing the great interest of the veterans throughout New England.

Following is the resolution:

WHEREAS: The American Legion is committed to the propagation of the truth of the history and symbolism of the Flag of the United States, and

WHEREAS: The campaign of education upon flag etiquette sponsored by the United States Flag Association offered through the national scope of such a campaign best promotes the propagation of these truths.

BE IT RESOLVED: That the Department Americanism Committee, subject to the approval of the National Department, be and is hereby directed to immediately upon organization formulate plans sponsoring in this Department the Flag Project of the United States Flag Association, and that each post in this Department is urged to co-operate by active participation in such project.

Winter Plans to Be Debated

Members of Paul Revere Lodge 128, A. O. U. W., will hold their next regular meeting in Grand Army Hall, Revere, Sept. 9. It is expected that with the vacation season over most of the members will attend the meeting and winter activities may be planned.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES

DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

THE game sensation that has swept America. The rules are simple. You are given, for instance, the word "tear" to unscramble with the letter "h." The Anagramble is "heart." Similarly, to unscramble the word "link" with "s" the Anagramble is "slink."

Remember, you cannot make an Anagramble with a plural—"links" would be wrong. You have to change the complete meaning of the word—"slink" is therefore correct. Nor can you make a different tense of word. For instance, to unscramble "read" with "a" you cannot make it "reada."

You must change the complete meaning. The Anagramble, therefore, is "dears." Now try your hand at these Anagrambles.

(1) SCENT—Unscramble with the letter I.
(2) RUINS—Unscramble with the letter E.
(3) TENNIS—Unscramble with the letter E.
(4) LEASE—Unscramble with the letter W.
(5) EAGER—Unscramble with the letter D.

Unveil Tablet to Firemen, Sept. 8

The date for the unveiling of the memorial tablet at the Central Fire Station in Revere in memory of Captain Clarence Borden and Lieutenant James Gibbons, who lost their lives in the fire at the Nautical Gardens, Revere Beach, 11 years ago this month, has been set for Sept. 8. Members of the Revere Lodge of Elks will assist Mayor Andrew A. Casazza in unveiling the bronze tablet.

Traffic Light Warning

A warning has been sent out by Chief of Police Edward J. Tighe of Revere in regard to pedestrians, as well as autoists, obeying the new automatic auto signal lights recently installed throughout the city.

STUNT FLIERS THRILL CROWD AT FALMOUTH

Falmouth, Sept. 3—The feature of the closing day of the first open aircraft show in New England was the flying of Lieut. C. S. Shanklin, U. S. A., and the aerial antics of Charles F. Arnold.

The two fliers emptied their bag of tricks for the benefit of the 4500 people gathered at the Falmouth Airport. The program of events included bomb dropping, which was won by Charlie Arnold of New London Aircraft, Inc., with a distance of 12 feet from the target.

Bill Denny and Hank Olden were second with a distance of 24 feet, and Norman Smith was third with a distance of 26 feet.

A stunt contest between Lieut. Shanklin, Hank Olden and Arnold was decided in a draw between Olden and Arnold, with Lieut. Shanklin leading the procession by means of his one hour stunt exhibition.

The spectators were thrilled by the dead stick landing of Arnold. He took his Standard up to 2000 feet, dived several times, went back up to 1000 feet, and then shut off his motor.

By means of two perfect circles of the airport and a side-slip from 500 feet Arnold landed the plane directly in front of the spectators.

The parachute jump was cancelled because of a 30-mile wind that was sweeping the airport. Leonard Court, the parachute jumper, was willing to perform, but the management of the airport decided that the velocity of the wind was too great.

SHIFT IN WIND SAVES HOMES AT VANCEBORO

Vanceboro, Me., Sept. 2—A shift in wind today saved the northeast corner of this railroad center from being fanned to destruction by fire.

A house and a barn burned to the ground and a dozen or more homes along the American side of the St. Croix river were threatened when a blaze got under way in the home of William Bowie in Shaw st.

Bowie is a United States customs officer and a member of the local school committee. The majority of those who turned out to save his home from destruction were railroad employes of the Maine Central division.

Before the fire burned itself out three nearby residences had been well blistered. The home of Charles Kelly, local railroad telegraph operator, caught fire twice.

Fanned by a stiff east wind embers and flame shot in the direction of heavily tenanted houses along the St. Croix river. Men and boys organized into water bucket brigades and wet down the roofs of every nearby house. Two heroes of the fire were George Ketch, a former employe of the Maine Central, and Austin McIver. While McIver brought barrels of water from the river to the scene in an underslung wagon, Ketch braved the blistering heat of the fire with a light hose line.

The cause of the blaze was a defective chimney.

OPEN TODAY
A New Popular Price Institution of Service!
...where you may have your SHOES and HATS RECONDITIONED for Extra Service by the Most Modern Methods at MODERATE COST
PRIVATE BOOTHS for "WHILE YOU WAIT SERVICE"

As its doors open today on famous Newspaper Row, "down-town," Kent's introduces to Greater Boston a new kind of institution in American life—a perfectly appointed, carefully manned establishment for the care and reconditioning of shoes and hats by modern methods.

This new institution is based upon frank recognition of the fact that footwear and hats have become so important items in the personal budget that they warrant a better quality of "upkeep" than facilities existing until this time have supplied.

Newest Modern Equipment

To do better work than has heretofore been offered, Kent's is completely equipped with every modern appliance for renovating shoes and hats by factory methods:—re-conditioning rather than repairing; re-building rather than refinishing; re-newing rather than partly prolonging their usefulness.

Front of Kent's

You are most cordially invited to come into Kent's—today and any day, and examine for yourself how the Kent method of re-conditioning enables you to get almost double the life and value out of your shoes and hats. See the work done in the windows.

Factory Trained Personnel

Kent's is manned by factory trained personnel—workers who know how shoes and hats are made, and how they should be re-made. All work is done under the direction of Boston men of known careers in every part of factory work—specialists. Kent's will use only the best of "findings"—reliable materials that will give satisfaction.

Kent's work is guaranteed satisfactory. More than that, it is guaranteed distinctly better than the quality of work commonly done at popular prices—because it is on the superiority of its work, both on hats and shoes, that Kent's expects to live.

A New Idea in Service

In point of service also Kent's is entirely new. If you choose to wait for your shoes, you may do so privately in the comfort of a beautifully appointed individual booth, in your own pair of sanitary paper slippers. While your hat is being cleaned, you may wait in the comfort of the Kent lobby, or, to save time, have your shoes shined better than you've ever seen at the Kent platform in a swivel arm chair into which you do not have to climb.

BAY STATE MEN FACE TRIAL IN STOCK DEALS

Providence, Sept. 3—Jules A. Perreault of Boston and Samuel Meyers of Brockton were scheduled to appear in Superior Court today to plead to indictments charging conspiracy in connection with the selling of worthless stock.

The two men and an alleged confederate, Samuel Cohen of Allston, according to State Police, induced several persons in this State to dispose of high grade securities and invest in worthless stock.

This ring, according to the state police, fleeced two women in Little Compton, a 75-year-old woman in Hopkinton and a clergyman in a town near Woonsocket.

From Mrs. Isabel Silveira and her daughter, Mrs. Mary B. Thomas, of Little Compton, the trio received $18,000 and from Miss Annette Champlin, 75-year-old retired school teacher of Hopkinton, the trio obtained $9500. The police allege that more than $10,000 was obtained from the clergyman.

Although three specific cases have been uncovered, the State police are investigating other deals that have been reported.

Cohen and Perreault were found in Portland, Me., last Friday. In that city they were arrested for attempting to sell securities without a license.

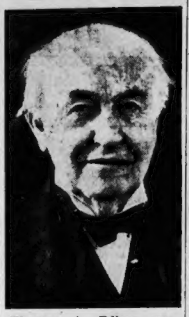
Hamilton, Bermuda, Sept. 3—The U. S. Albatross, loaned by the American navy to Harvard University for a scientific fishing expedition, arrived at St. George's from Newfoundland waters. She will weail today for Boston, which will complete her cruise.

For Alaskan Service

Portland, Ore., Sept. 3—Jefferson Myers, Oregon member of the United States Shipping Board, here after a tour of Alaska, declared the northern territory needed uninterrupted shipping service from this country and that he intended to seek government aid with that end in view.

Recovering



Thomas A. Edison was seriously ill for 10 days with pneumonia, it was revealed by his physician. The inventor is now out of danger.

HUNT 2 AS GIRL, 15, IS ATTACKED

Clinton, Sept. 3—The story of an alleged attack on a 15-year-old girl has set local and Metropolitan police seeking two young men who are said to have been with the girl in a parked car, near the Wachusett dam Sunday night.

Sergt. Lester Call found the girl delirious in a store not far from the dam when he went there in answer to a call about midnight yesterday. After hearing her story he took her home. She is under the care of a physician.

The girl, according to her story, was in the car with a girl friend and two young men. She is said to have taken exceptions to the actions of her companions and left the machine.

N. E. DELUGED WITH LUCKY BUCKS

By WON LUCKY BILL

Yesterday might have been a holiday for the rest of the world but to me it was a day of labor. I covered some territory in New England spending a suitcase full of old $1 bills. I got home this morning with enough cigars, cigarettes, chewing gum, socks, handkerchiefs and what not to last me until Santa Claus comes around again.

And I kept a list of the serial numbers of these old $1 bills which will be used this week from which to select my lucky bucks.

I don't want to hear that anyone is being slighted. I toured nearly 800 miles and stopped at every store and other business places that were open. I made the rounds of Greater Boston before I departed so I covered the ground thoroughly.

Today's list of 16 lucky bucks which were worth $150 was taken from those I spent over the holiday.

Now I have a grand total of $975 worth of lucky bucks in circulation. Let's see YOU bring some of these bills in and collect part of that $975.

Four more winners were added to my honor list over the holiday. They are:

Jennie M. Cummings, 24 Hancock st., Boston, who cashed lucky buck M35854184D for $10.

Mrs. Frances Ayer, 598 Hall st., Manchester, N. H., cashed lucky buck A98590132E for $20.

Oscar Leclerc, 236 Valley st., Lawrence, cashed lucky buck V350-12385D for $5.

Ed. Jarvis, 55 Lincoln st., Boston, cashed lucky buck B54985181D for $5.

Watch for an additional 16 winners tomorrow. They will be worth another $500 and perhaps you'll have one of them.

POLICE SELL BOOTLEG RUM

Los Angeles, Sept. 3 (AP)—Possible grand jury action was expected today upon two reports, one by the federal prohibition office and another by a confessed bootlegger, naming a large number of policemen as members of a "shakedown ring" exacting tribute from the illicit liquor trade.

The federal prohibition office reported that 62 policemen of the metropolitan area, ranging from captains down, had been named by federal investigators as members of the ring.

Harry D. McDonald, a bootlegger, made a statement to the district attorney implicating 25 policemen. McDonald, who declared he was "tired of the continued tribute exacted by the police, was reported to have charged that the officers, instead of turning in the liquor they confiscated in raids, sold it to bootleggers from whom they were receiving protection money.".

New Wrinkle in Chops

The pleasantest surprise of the summer came to me by mail at my Cape Cod cottage on an afternoon when I was faced with four unexpected guests for dinner and the nearest market miles away, no telephone and shank's mare the only means of locomotion.

A package had been forwarded to me from the Martha Lee Kitchen and proved to be an assortment of the new packaged quality lamb chops and quality pork chops that have proved that there is something really new in the food world.

For years most of us have bought our cured meats, such as ham and bacon, by brand name, but housewives in general and the novices in particular, have purchased fresh meats more or less by guess and "by gorra," having no means of identifying good quality.

One of our largest meat packers has solved this problem, however, by offering certain cuts of fresh meat, wrapped in cellphane wrappers and branded so as to be easily identified. The chop packages weigh one pound, and the chops are all cut and trimmed, so that they may be popped into the broiler at once. These chops with their freshness, chilled by a new, quick-freezing process, consist of practically all lean meat, the trimmings being removed at the packing plant where they can be used to the best advantage (which means real saving for you).

Selected pork chops, pork tenderloin, and loin chops are now available, and, before long, they tell me that we will have lamb legs, shoulders, loin rolls, one-pound packages of lamb stew, sliced calf's liver and beef liver in the same sanitary and economical packages.

My chops had been two days on the way, but thanks to the new, quick-freezing process and the dry ice in which they were packed, reached me in perfect condition and were gobbled with celerity and appreciation by my enthusiastic guests. They were so tender and delicious that it was hard to convince any one that they had really been chilled by the new, quick-freezing process which is as different from ordinary cold storage methods as is darkness from dawn.

Enroll for Class VII

CLASS VII of the Martha Lee School of Practical Cookery will open on Wednesday afternoon, October 9, at 2 p. m., and early enrollment is advised if you wish to share in the pleasures and advantages of this free cooking school for homemakers.

This year there will be two classes weekly at the Martha Lee school. The Tuesday evening class, from 6:30 to 8:15 p. m., and the Wednesday cooking matinee, from 2 to 4 p. m. Each class will be limited to 225 members. Every step in practical cookery will be taken up during the course, which will cover a 10-week period. Attendance at seven of the 10 lessons in the course is necessary to be eligible for the Martha Lee diploma, which is awarded at graduation.

Let me hear from you as soon as possible, if you would like to be enrolled.

$5 WEEKLY PRIZE FOR BEST RECIPE

COULD you use a crisp, new $5 bill? Then sit right down and send me your favorite recipe in which you use one or more of the many dependable food products advertised in the Boston Evening American.

The easy way, I think, is to make a list of the food products found in this paper, adding to it each day.

I know you'll find many that you are using regularly and others with which you'll enjoy getting acquainted.

Each week there will be a prize of a brand new $5 bill for the best recipe calling for one or more of these high-class advertised food products. No letters to write—no fuss or bother—just send me your favorite recipe for anything in the cooking world. And don't forget to attach your full name and address. Send your recipe to Martha Lee, Boston American, 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston, Mass.

POPOVERS

1 cup flour.
½ tsp. salt.
½ cup milk.
2 eggs.

Mix salt and flour; add milk gradually in order to obtain a smooth batter. Add egg, beaten until light, and butter; beat 2 minutes, using egg beater; turn into blazing-HOT buttered iron gem pans and bake 30 to 35 minutes in hot oven. They may be baked in buttered earthen or oven glass cups, when the bottom will have a glazed appearance. Small, round iron gem pans are best for popovers.

THESE MARGUERITES, THOUGH DAINTY, ARE FUEL FOOD—MARTHA LEE

The all-bran contained in these dainty cookies provides needed energy units.

Delicious Recipe

CRAB MEAT A LA KING

5 tbsps. butter.
3 tbsps. flour.
¾ cup chicken stock.
½ cup milk.
1 small can Japanese crab meat.
¼ pound mushrooms.
1 pimento.
½ tsp. salt.
1 egg yolk.

Melt 3 tbsps. butter, add flour and when smooth add chicken stock and milk, stir and cook until sauce boils. Add crab meat from which bones have been removed, the mushrooms which have been peeled, sliced and sauted in 2 tablespoons butter, the pimento cut in strips, the salt and pepper. Just before serving beat the egg yolk with a fork, add to the crab meat and stir until sauce thickens. Serve from chafing dish, in patty shells, in paper cases or on toast.

Revere Infants Being Treated

Mrs. Harriet Sullivan, president of the Revere Visiting Nurses Association, reports that the baby clinics held at Revere City Hall every Wednesday morning are being well attended, between 30 and 40 of the babies receiving professional attention each week.

Cereals in Sugar Coats

EVERY breath we take, every move we make, requires energy which we must get from our food. And we depend very largely upon sugars, cereals, fats and vegetables to supply us with this needed heat and energy. Even in the warm Indian summer days our body requires fuel foods, no matter where the thermometer is.

We know, of course, that cereals are our most economical source of fuel, and you will find that the lower the income the greater percentage of it must go for bread and other cereal products in order to provide life energy for a large family for little money.

But aside from economy, we know that cereals are not only fuel foods but building foods and regulating foods. They help keep the body in repair and build new tissues for the growing child, as well as keeping the adult's body machinery in good running order.

I rather hate to preach once more on the bran subject, but the fact remains that all-bran is especially rich in phosphorous and iron, two elements which play an important part in our health.

All-bran may be used as a cereal with milk or cream, combined with raw or cooked fruit, ready-to-eat or cooked cereal, or stewed tomatoes, in soup instead of croutons, with fruit juice if you are reducing, and in recipes for muffins, brown bread, griddle cakes and cookies in endless varieties. Do try the dainty All-Bran Marguerites illustrated above. You'll find they keep well in a tin container (safely hidden) and round out the dinner dessert deliciously.

2 eggs.
1 cup brown sugar.
½ cup flour.
¼ tsp. baking powder.
1-3 tsp. salt.
½ cup nut meats, cut in small pieces.
½ cup all-bran.

Beat eggs slightly, and add remaining ingredients in the order given. Fill small buttered tins two-thirds full of mixture. Bake in a moderate oven 370 degrees F., ten to fifteen minutes.

Now Fried Chicken!

WITH broilers selling in first-class markets as low as 75c each or two for $1.45, it certainly behooves us to treat the family to fried chicken, chicken a la Maryland and all the other chicken treats that Southern mammies have made so popular. Here are three of our favorite fried chicken recipes.

FRIED SPRING CHICKEN

1½ lb. spring chicken

Dress, clean and cut the chicken in half through the back and breast bones. Dip each half in bread crumbs, then in beaten egg, seasoned with salt and pepper, then once more in the bread crumbs. Fry in butter until well brown and tender. Use generous amount of butter and do not allow to burn.

CHICKEN AND RICE

3 small broilers
1½ cups cooked rice
1 tbsp. butter
5 eggs
Salt and pepper.

Split the chicken in quarters and fry until half done. Heat the rice and stir in butter and seasoning. Add the beaten eggs and stir in well. Put the chicken in a baking dish, cover with the rice and egg mixture and bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes to half an hour.

His doctor told him what he needed was a Good Meal

Good food promotes good health

A MAN who thought he was sick and had been treating himself with every kind of medicine he could think of, finally went to a physician. After a thorough examination the physician said: "What you need is to get into the dining-room and start to eat some nourishing foods." The man was practically starving himself to death.

If you think you are sick, go to a physician; but many of the imaginary ills of this world would disappear if people lived and ate normally. The warnings of extremists—"Don't eat this and don't eat that"—probably do not apply to you at all. Physicians advise all normal people to eat plenty of many different kinds of foods seasoned and flavored for enjoyment.

Sugar is the friend of enjoyable healthful eating because it makes so many other foods delicious to the taste. Sugar is not only a sweetening. It develops entirely new tastes in oatmeal and other cereals. It changes the flavor of tart fresh fruits and berries. A dash of it added to vegetables while they are cooking develops hidden and unsuspected flavors. A dash of sugar improves salad dressings, meat sauces and gravies, fruit punches, milk desserts and milk drinks.

Let sugar add, wherever it can, the blessing of flavor to needed foods. Sugar is the friend of normal, healthful eating. The Sugar Institute.

"Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with Sugar."

CROOK DRAMA IS COPLEY OPENER

"THE CROOKED BILLET" at the Copley is a melodrama with all the fixin's. There is the arch-conspirator who defies the secret service, mysterious papers, flash of guns, poisoned sherry and all the other doodads which go to make up a play of this type.

There are plenty of thrills and not a few laughs in "The Crooked Billet." It is an English play in three acts by Dion Titheradge and is used as the season's opening bill by Mr. Clive's excellent players. The plot centers around the activities of the Master Mind of a band of crooks. He has evaded the secret service for 15 years but finally is compelled to yield.

Charles Cooper-King

Outstanding among the players is Charles Croker-King, a newcomer with the Copley Players. He portrays the part of the arch-criminal so ably that he well earned the plaudits of the patrons. Although new to Copley clientele, Mr. Croker-King is no stranger to Boston, having appeared in Boston several years in "Bulldog Drummond." He was by far the high spot in "The Crooked Billet."

Mr. Clive was greeted warmly when he made his appearance as Alf, the tavern bartender. Elspeth Dudgeon presented an admirable impersonation of Mrs. Wimple, the wise old English barmaid. Murray Kinnell, another newcomer, appeared as the hero. Lorna Lawrence was seen but briefly, but made an agreeable impression.

"The Crooked Billet" is one of those shock and thrill melodramas which have done so much to bring popularity to Mr. Clive and his Copley Theater. Of course, intelligent presentation, with acting of good quality, must be allowed its share of credit.

Dorchester Man Is Given Publicity Post

At a meeting of the board of directors of the American Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors held at Providence, James Clark, of Dorchester, was chosen publicity representative for the eastern district. He has an extensive knowledge of the theatrical and motion picture business.

After receiving the plaudits of those present Mr. Clark made a speech of appreciation. Later he left, with "Billy" Karr, well-known actor, for Atlantic City.

New Shows

RICHARD BENNETT in "Jarnegan" brought a packed house to the Wilbur. The play is based on Jim Tully's novel, a much heralded and widely read novel concerning life in Hollywood. "Jarnegan" will be reviewed later.

"Follow Thru," the Schwab and Mandel follow-up on "Good News," started a new season at the Majestic last evening. A special Boston company interprets this New York success. It will be reviewed later.

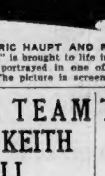
Madame X Is in Town

ULLRIC HAUPT AND RUTH CHATTERTON

"Madame X" is brought to life in the silver screen by Miss Chatterton, who is portrayed in one of the dramatic situations of the talking film. The picture is screened at Loew's State.

COMIC TEAM TOPS KEITH BILL

THE agile comedians, William and Joe Mandel, top the vaudeville bill at B. F. Keith's this week. They bring laughs in any variety of ways. Their burlesque acrobatic performance, which incidentally involves clever gymnastics, is a laugh from start to finish. Their "interpretation" of classic dancing is another piece of slapstick that is amusing in an extreme. And they have some clever lines that are by no means serious. They make a surprise appearance at the end of the show in a very funny sketch, "The Wager," in which they bet they can improve on Owen McGivney's quick costume changes of a previous act.



Florrie Le Vere

McGivney does unbelievably fast changes of costume in his presentation of "Bill Sikes," in which he takes the part of all five characters. He is hardly off the stage than he is entering as another character. Changes are made outside the set, but in view of the audience so that there can be no grounds for what otherwise would be the belief that at least two actors were in action.

The Lee Twins and a company of nine beauties in rhythmic dance divertissement have a fast act. Billy Gleason, late star of "Say Pardo," has a good act. "Just Songs and Sayings," Kin Talka, with his two pretty daughters, Tor Tona and Kuma Fam, offer excellent entertainment in which the girls sing and dance and he performs spectacular feats of magic.

Florrie Le Vere, Edythe Handman and Harry Denny have an offering of songs and laughs.

Theater Renovated

The renovated and redecorated Netoco Dudley, Roxbury, has reopened. Double feature pictures will be shown. On Sunday talking pictures and vaudeville will be featured. Two changes of program a week, on Mondays and Thursdays, will be the policy. William T. Burns is the manager.

THRILLER FOR PUBLIX FIVE THIS WEEK

"THE MYSTERIOUS DR. FU MANCHU" is on screen this week in the Publix Big Five theaters — Scollay Square, Fenway, Capitol, Central Square, Cambridge, and Strand, Dorchester. The leading roles are portrayed by Warner Oland, Jean Arthur, Neil Hamilton and O. P. Heggie. In dramatizing this well known novel to the audible screen, Paramount has succeeded in retaining the suspense of the original story and embellishing it with sweeping action and exciting moments. Fu Manchu's sinister schemes are aided by a beautiful white girl, who, under his hypnotic influence, innocently does his bidding and becomes his accomplice in a series of amazing and baffling murders. The title role is played by Mr. Oland. Miss Arthur acquits herself in splendid fashion in the part of the white girl. Mr. Hamilton plays the part of Dr. Jack Petrie, the young English physician who falls in love with the white girl and finally succeeds in rescuing her from the clutches of Fu Manchu.

Warner Oland

There's a feast of jolly entertainment in the week's vaudeville bill at the Scollay Square, headed by "Flashes of Youth," featuring Willard Singley with Peggy St. Clair, the Lorraine Sisters and O'Neil and Glaser.

JACK MILLER BAND CHIEF FOR STATE

WITH the arrival of the fall and winter season at Loew's State comes the announcement that beginning this week an innovation in musical entertainment is offered its patrons. Crooning, Jack Miller, popular Boston favorite in the radio and recording field, is conducting the new feature.

Jack Miller

Mr. Miller comes to Loew's State to lead the Statesmen, a company of musicians, which serve as a background for crooning melodies. Jack Miller is essentially a product of this city, having been born in Dorchester, where he received his education and where he still lives with his parents Mr. and Mrs. William Miller.

Night Club Steppers at Waldron's Casino

"The Night Club Girls," with Robbie Wilson and Jessie McDonald, brought two big audiences to Waldron's Casino yesterday. Dick Crosby's jazz orchestra, a new feature in the regular Waldron program, speeded up the tempo of the show and proved its value to appleading fans.

All the girls among the many specialties was supplied by Billy Callahan, a dancer recently recruited from musical comedy. He will set a fast pace for all of burlesque's high steppers. The comedy of the bill was in the hands of Billy Willson, who, it appears, is both an old favorite and a tireless toiler. Besides a long string of principals, the bill was enlivened by an energetic chorus of dancing and singing damsels.

The feature films are included in the entertainment, "The Studio Murder Case" and "Come Across."

"Burlesque Revue" Scores Hit at Gayety

"Burlesque Revue," as it is defined at the Gayety, proved a generally highly assorted mixture of fun, melody and dancing. It quickly established itself with the big holiday audiences.

The principal players were Harry (Pep) Pearce and Madlyn Beatty. They made a lively team. Others in the cast were Nellie Cason, Evelyn Burke, Charlotte Rae, Eddie Simms, Frank Kramer, Herbert Harris and Chet Kniffen. These people amply took care of the book and score, while a handpicked chorus performed gracefully in the ensembles.

Nolub's Gayety jazz orchestra, of course, had its own job and handled it to everybody's satisfaction.

KEITH-ALBEE PHOTOPLAY GOES BIG

Photoplay..... "Words and Music"
Type ..... Comedy-Revue
Stars ..... Lois Moran,
Tom Patricola, David Percy
Theater ..... Keith-Albee

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

THROUGH the advent of the Fox picture, "Words and Music," to the Keith-Albee this week you may get a double "kick." The first is the joy of seeing Lois Moran do the best work of her career, and the second, the pleasure of seeing —and hearing —real Rah-Rah stuff in what is in part the best collegiate matter we have yet had past the screen. It has punch and pep that would make excusable the use of the hackneyed "riot of mirth and melody" for the film is far ahead of the "Movietone Follies" in about every way save only the Technicolor underwater reel in the latter production.

Lois Moran

It is not in the story that "Words and Music" has the wherewithal. The knitting of the threads is lightly done; here and there they gleam, but the tale is a simple one, and nothing to shake pains at. What the production has that is out of the ordinary, is the effervescence of youth, the yip-pip spirit as it has seldom come down the screen pike. Youth is rampant; joy is unconfined, and so excellent is the cast and so superb the drilling that the "talkie-single" fairly reeks with that thing which in human beings you meet you call personality.

The Fox chiefs have been lavish; the "big scenes" are gorgeous and striking. But they are a misfit, so far as the needs of the college story are concerned. Good to look at, and presented with extravagant attention to detail and beauty they nevertheless make you think that no college you ever heard of could have put on so excellent a show.

DE WOLF HOPPER

"HERE AND THERE" is the title of the famous Mr. Hopper's next Boston vehicle. It opens at the Boston Opera House, September 9, for a two weeks' engagement.

Pictures---Variety

BOWDOIN—Ray Marr and his "Rainbow Revue" on the stage; for pictures "The Man and the Moment," Tim McCoy in "Sioux Blood" and an Our Gang comedy.

HOWARD — "High Flyers," with Mike Sacks and Frances Farr. Also vaudeville and pictures.

GLOBE—"Thunderbolt" and "A Man's Man"; starting Thursday, "The Wheel of Life" and "The Jazz Age."

NORUMBEGA PARK—In the open air theater, "Times Square"; starting Thursday, "The Duke Steps Out." Also Midway attractions.

GRETA GARBO IN FILM AT ORPHEUM

GARBO and Nils Asther appear in "The Single Standard," a highly romantic tale, now being presented on the screen at Loew's Orpheum. The picture is one of romantic allure and vibrant with emotionalism. It has many novel departures from the conventional and the underwater love scenes which are quite thrilling. Included in the supporting cast are Dorothy Sebastian, Robert Castle, John Mack Brown, Kathlyn Williams, Lane Chandler and others of note.

Headline vaudeville honors this week are shared by Sol Gould and his capable company and by Jean Barrios, famous song and fashion star. The former demonstrates his versatility by appearing in two acts. He first entertains in a comedy talking and singing act, with the assistance of Helen K. Booth and Al Gould. Then he takes part in a mysterious comedy bit entitled "The Vanishing Maid," in which Marie St. George and a skilled dancing soubrette lend their aid.

Jean Barrios, in his usual manner, easily wins the favore of the audience by an impressive bit of diversion. Dressed in gorgeous gowns, he offers a program of delightful songs. Earl Leslie accompanies at the piano.

GAINS FOR 15 STOCKS NEAR LOAN TOTAL

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Brokers' loans, long a source of worry to the Federal Reserve Board, do not disturb Wall Street buyers to any great extent. Note that the rise in 15 of the leading industrial and carrier securities on the "Big Board" from their lows for 1929 amounts to $6,823,563,032. During the week just ended brokers' loans mounted to a new all time high of $6,085,000,000, which is only $9 per cent of the gain made by the 15 of the over 1000 securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

turned from that country, to be engaged in a series of conferences with American business men. While in Boston, today and tomorrow, Mr. Butts will be located in the local office of the Department of Commerce, 1801 Customhouse, which is in charge of Harvey Sweetser, district manager.

Purchasing from Japan more than all of Asia, including the Netherlands, East Indies and the Philippine Islands, the United States also sells to that country more than to China, British India and Straits Settlements combined, Mr. Butts declared. That this position should continue was the opinion expressed by the Commerce Department's trade promotion officer.

Directors of First National Bank and Old Colony Trust Co. have informally approved a proposed merger of both institutions. Basis of merger is as follows: Old Colony Trust Co. will increase its capital from 150,000 to 200,000 shares by the issuance of 50,000 shares at $300 a share (thus adding $15,000,000 to combined capital and surplus). With Old Colony Trust stock at $940 rights are worth $160.

Stockholders of Old Colony Trust will receive four shares of First National stock for each of the 200,000 shares of Old Colony to be outstanding after the new issue. This involves an increase in the capital of the First National Bank of 800,000 shares.

Upon completion of the exchange the stock of the Old Colony Trust Co. will be placed in the hands of trustees and held for the pro rata benefit of all the stockholders of the First National Bank, evidence of this ownership to be endorsed upon First National Bank stock certificates.

NEWS OF Trends of the Day BOSTON Leaders' Views MARKETS

U. S. Business Situation to Date Is Satisfactory

By JAMES I. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—The business situation in the United States the past week showed no decided change, one way or the other, but conditions can be summed up in a word—satisfactory.

Reviewing latest reports on the basic industries, it is noted that building contracts have declined slightly, that the motor business is rather quiet, and that steel production is showing a slight falling off.

The stock market, meanwhile, has moved up to a new high level one of the surprising features of the week being the indifference of Wall Street to the sharp increase in brokers' loans. During the week ended August 28, brokers loans increased $132,000,000. Such loans amounted to $6,217,000,000 at that date. Since June 12, when the volume of brokers' loans began a distinct trend, they have increased by almost $1,000,000,000.

The commodity price level dropped slightly last week, bringing it below the August average of last year. What has been on a persistently downward trend for the past five weeks, having lost about 30 points a month, is the cost of living. On the other hand, copper prices have shown a firm tendency, with domestic sales still being maintained at the 18-cent level.

Slackening of the steel output, slight as it is, is regarded as natural following the protracted period of record production. Demand for steel is showing a slight decline and mill operations are gradually being reduced. The average for the industry is now placed at about 90 per cent of capacity as compared with 95 per cent a fortnight ago. Unfilled orders have been cut down considerably.

Regarding the question of any recessions that may occur in steel in the remaining months of the year, the consensus is that total steel production will establish a new all time record—some 10 per cent above the high level reached in 1928.

General trade activity during the summer months has been sustained at a very high rate and the outlook for fall business is excellent. In fact, 1929 promises to establish a new high record in business and corporate profits. Earning of railroads recently announced show splendid profits for the first six months of this year and substantially above previous years for the corresponding period.

The credit situation is being closely watched for the effect of the action of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in raising the rediscount rate to 6 per cent.

The $756,514,000, compared with less than $70,000,000 shortly before the recent change in policy.

Call money rose to 9 per cent in the latter part of the week, after opening at 7 per cent. This reflected the semi-monthly settlement needs and the large funds required for the week-end holidays.

The stock market itself was an irregularly higher affair early in the week and the sharp decline set in the closing days of the week failed to materialize and closing prices in the greater part of the list were at new high levels.

Most of the standard industrial leaders created new high records for the forepart of the week but their place in the advance was taken by the railroad stocks in the latter part, the industrial specialties which previously had little part in the Closing averages as estimated by International News Service are at their highest point in history.

The future of the market is, of course, a matter of much conjecture. September is commonly thought of as a month of rising security prices in sympathy with increased business activity. In looking over the records of the market in previous years it is noted that in September 1927 of last year the trend of prices was upward.

In September 1927 the market made little or no net progress, being merely a trading affair, followed by a sharp recession in October. In September, 1926, when prices suffered a substantial decline which continued through the greater part of October.

Exchange Trust Finds Business at a High Level

THE following business forecast is given by the Exchange Trust Company of Boston in its December issue of Trade Trends:

General industrial activity continues at a level which is remarkable for this time of year. A slight irregularity in some lines has been noted, but the general falling-off would be no cause for alarm, personal that it is safe to say no pronounced summer decline is being experienced.

Most trade and industrial lines showed another new record, and do not seem to be affected by the high level of interest rates. Freight car loadings for the week ended August 3 were 1,104,193 cars, a new record for this time of year. Building for forty-two cities in 12 per cent greater than a year ago, was a record for that month.

Iron and steel operations are above 90 per cent of capacity, and although production in August was below the spring peak, it was still ahead of 1928. Retail distribution as shown by sales of department stores and mail order houses has been running well above last year.

Farm conditions continue generally more favorable. While in the far West and Canada was badly damaged by lack of rain. Reports of decline in probable production caused wheat prices to advance at a record pace.

Spurred by the rise in prices, farmers increased their shipments of grain (in spite of a warning to the contrary by the new Farm Board) and the result was one of the most overstocked markets in history, which caused some decline in prices of wheat and other grains. Nevertheless, it is estimated that the general advance in grain prices over the low levels of last spring has added more than $1,000,000,000 to the wealth of the country. The August condition and production showed an unexpected increase. Corn is in good condition despite dry weather.

One of the most important developments of the past month was the announcement by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, of a reduction of ¼ per cent in the buying rate on acceptances, which accompanied the advance in the discount rate. Normally at this season of the year demand for commercial credit increases, and formerly this increase has been met on the part of the reserve banks by larger holdings of bankers' bills.

The August 14 statement of all Reserve banks shows that no reduction in the buying rate was an indication that the policy of former years was again to be followed. Acceptances held increased $29,000,000 in the week and are higher than at any time since last May. Generally speaking, production and distribution continue at a relative rate with the seasonal letdown less pronounced than usual. The credit situation has proved no obstacle to business.

$2,000,000 IN NEW FINANCING

In connection with the acquisition of the Superior Screw & Bolt Manufacturing Co. of Cleveland by the Federal Screw Works of Detroit, new financing aggregating $2,000,000 and consisting of convertible 6% 10-year debentures and notes is expected to be placed on the market within the next few days by a banking group comprising Bauer, Pogue, Pond & Vivian, Samuel Longfellow & Co. and Rodin, Buck & Co.

Upon completion of the proposed merger and the financing outlined above, the capitalization of the Federal Screw Works will consist of $2,000,000 of funded debt and the entire other outstanding securities will consist of 158,000 shares no par value common stock.

Federal Works, as a result of its new acquisition, will be one of the largest factors in its field in the country. The combined output of the company's four plants is approximately 12,000,000 pieces weekly. Net current additions will about 25-per cent. Net sales for the six months ended June 30 totaled $3,778,876 and net income after depreciation was $439,679.

ANNOUNCEMENT will be made shortly of formation of a large rail investment trust by one of the Street's leading banking houses.

LONDON producer has advanced copper a quarter cent a pound to 18¼ cents for domestic shipment.

CONSUMPTION OF TIN UP

With tin deliveries more than 500 tons above arrivals, during August, America continues an all time consumption record during 1929. E. A. Brennar, secretary of the National Metal Exchange announced today.

Reported deliveries for the month of August were 7,185 tons, within 13 tons of the highest monthly record for 1929 established for the eight months of 1929 are 62,240 tons, or 10,435 above the figure for the same period of last year. This is at the rate of 93,360 tons for the year, which is above 14,000 tons in excess of any previous year's consumption.

Lessening of supplies made probable whether there will be decrease in world's visible supply, figures for which are not yet available. Actual consumption of the United States run considerably above the reported "deliveries, perhaps reaching 3,000 tons. It is known that considerable stocks have been withdrawn from non-reporting warehouses.

Among the factors entering into this huge consumption are the high rates of production of the plants automobiles, radio sets and other electrical goods. Production of air planes and electrification of railroads are also calling for considerable quantities of tin.

SECRETARY BUSWELL of Childs Co., said of rumored sale of certain properties that if any such sales had been made they were made merely to real estate transactions.

Cabaret Dinner Dance to Take Place on September 13 at Magnolia

THE WHOLE NORTH SHORE social world will turn out for the large cabaret dinner dance to be held at Del Monte's at Magnolia on the evening of September 13. This affair is to be given for the Beverly Hospital endowment fund, a project in high favor with society just now, and for this cause some very prominent people will entertain a la cabaret. Debutantes and young society matrons will sell cigarettes. Arrangements are being made for the event by Mrs. John Chunis, Mrs. Lyon Weyburn, Mrs. William H. Coolidge, Miss Louise Fessenden, Mrs. Malcolm MacDonald, and Mrs. Lloyd Nichols. Mrs. Coolidge also has charge of the ticket selling. Among the patronesses are Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, Mrs. Everett Morss, Mrs. Oliver Wolcott, Mrs. Gordon Prince, Mrs. William deFord Beal, Mrs. Ben P. S. Moseley, Mrs. Howland Seabury, Mrs. Augustus Goodwin, Mrs. Albert C. Burrage, Jr. Others interested in making this a successful affair include: Mrs. T. J. Coolidge, Jr., Mrs. Henry P. McKean, Mrs. Edward Taft, Mrs. Paul Moore, Mrs. Alexander Steinert, Mrs. George A. Dobyne, Mrs. John Perrin and Mrs. Samuel S. Sprague.

MRS. GODFREY LOWELL CABOT of Beverly Farms will be hostess for two lectures to be given by Viscount De Mauduit at her home on September 8 and 12 at 4 o'clock. His subjects will be "Villon, the Bohemian Poet" and "The Empress Eugenia." Mrs. Charles Fanning Ayer of Hamilton is among the patronesses, also Mrs. Oric Bates, of Marblehead. Mrs. George Davenport, of Marblehead, Mrs. John W. Geary, Jr., of West Manchester, Miss Marion Greeley, of Pride's Crossing, Mrs. Charles T. Hazen, of Magnolia, Mrs. Henry Parson King, of Pride's Crossing, Mrs. George Lee, of Beverly Farms, Mrs. Robert De W. Sampson, Mrs. Edward Taft, Mrs. W. R. Thayer, and Mrs. George E. Warren.

SEVERAL HUNDRED SPECTATORS were thrilled by the courage and expert horsemanship of Mrs. Frederick Ayer, yesterday, at the Myopia Club Horse Show, at Hamilton, where she won the Master's Challenge Cup, with River Sand, hunter. Her young daughter, Miss Anne Proctor Ayer, brought additional honors to the Ayer standard with second prize for Ironmaster. Miss Frances Goodwin, introducing the newest riding costume according to the Myopia hunters to victory, a face veil, took a blue ribbon with Anihractic, and James F. Appleton, M. F. H., rode the Myopia hunters to victory. In the large gallery were Mrs. Thomas E. Proctor and a party of guests atop a tallyho. Among them were Mrs. E. M. Hendricks, Mrs. Weeks, Mrs. Sherman Flint, Mrs. Thomas E. Flint, Miss Anne P. Ayer, Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., had a tallyho brimming over with guests and children watching the show. Mrs. John Tuckerman, recently returned from summering at Dark Harbor, Me.; Mrs. Paul Moore, Mrs. Harold G. Cutler, Miss Grace Edwards and Thomas Emery also were on the Tuckerman tallyho. Miss Eleanor Sohier, Miss Catherine Olney, Miss Elizabeth Saltonstall and Miss Katharine Burrage were among the "railbirds," and Mrs. Albert C. Burrage, Jr., and Mrs. William Almy, Jr., among the few who sought relief from the blazing sun under a parasol. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Winthrop (Theodora Ayer), and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hall, Jr. (Barbara Forbes), were among the spectators.

Mr. and Mrs. John Caswell, Jr., and their small son, John Caswell, 3d, were among the large gallery that saw the whippet races at Princemere, Hamilton, where Orphan Girl aped to victory in a large field of entries.

EARLY THIS MORNING THE first drag hunt of the season started from the Kennels, with many riders following the hounds. Dates for other hunts have been set for Friday, the 6th, starting from Kent's Corner; Tuesday, the 10th, from Thomas E. Proctor's gate, and Saturday, the 14th, at Topsfield fair ground at 8 p. m. The kennels for the hounds are at Appleton Farms, Ipswich, where Maj. Appleton's beagles take daily runs through the neighboring woods in preparation for the hunting season. From here another hunt will start on the 17th, and from North Beverly on the 20th. Later in the season another hunt roams over the inland regions.

THE ESTATE OF MR. AND MRS RICHARD HARTE at Nahant is given over today to a water carnival in the swimming pool where the young folks will participate in games. Swimming races and diving and a comic skit are on the program for this afternoon when the children of F. Clarke Haven, Mr. and Mrs. John Lothrop's children, and little Jane and Richard Harte will "do their stunts" before a gallery of their elders. This event was to have taken place earlier but was postponed until today.

Cambridge Police in Busy Quarter Hour

An automobile was stolen, recovered and the man who is alleged to have taken it placed under arrest, all within 15 minutes in East Cambridge.

Chester Zengo, manager of the Middlesex Cafe at Third and Cambridge sts., reported to Sergt. Timothy Falvey, on duty at the East Cambridge station, that he had seen a youth take his machine from the curb in front of the establishment.

Three policemen were dispatched in an automobile to find it. They discovered it parked at Fourth and Hurley sts. Then they went to a house on Spring st., where they arrested Manuel Camario, 17, on a charge of taking an automobile without authority of the owner and driving without a license.

BOSTON AMERICAN
A HOME PAPER FOR PEOPLE WHO THINK
BOSTON TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1929
2d SECTION GREATER BOSTON NEWS

BOSTON DAY by DAY

The Boston Evening American is a paper pledged to preserve peace among the citizens of this nation and promote the peace of the world.

By FRED TOYE

THERE is a Boston man who for many years has been engaged in a prosperous wholesale business. His trade is in products of the sea, and he has some unusual ideas on the proper ways of conducting his affairs. He makes all his payments spot cash. "The man who runs bills is a thief," he frequently says to his wife. At the end of every day's business, all his outstanding obligations are paid in full. He is just as particular regarding the quality of his merchandise. When his ships come up to the wharf, there is a rigid inspection of the catch. All those which are dead or which show signs of weakness are thrown overboard.

WHERE can be found a countryside as beautiful as that of New England? There is a variety to its landscape, and a charm in its architecture which are found nowhere else. The old New England type of home is coming back. Early settlers knew what they were doing when they built small, narrow doorways, narrow corridors, wide, low-ceilinged rooms which are easily heated in winter and are cool in summer.

A generation ago, the fad in home building was for archways and wide openings and draughty expanses. We are getting away from the veranda of the '80s. Piazzas are no longer the thing. Front doors have only a step or two, or at most, a pergola. The piazza has been replaced with an arched passage which used to connect the kitchen with the sheds and barn. Builders now get the effect of the old arched woodshed and barn with a roofed passage and garage.

NEW ENGLANDERS, long accustomed to certain sights, accept them without questioning their reason for being. It takes the observant Westerner to find out the whys and wherefores. For example, those sturdy elms which stand at the front doors of countless New England homes. Why are they placed just that way? A stranger in our midst advances the information. It was an old New England custom for the new married bride and bridegroom each to plant a young tree before their new home. In many cases, other trees were planted in honor of the arrival of the various children. An act of this sort, even though dictated by custom, is likely to attach a certain solemnity to a union which might otherwise be frangible.

A LADY'S voice babbles out of the loud speaker next door: "Our club is not open to men or boys. Women and girls, cats, dogs, and canaries, but no men or boys." My! My! The day is ruined.

A BELL clangs in the street. A patrol wagon draws up across the way. The janitor-across-the-street's wife shrieks, "This way." Half a dozen policemen in khaki and blue rush in, bearing first aid cases and stretchers. Half an hour of nothing then a solemn procession. A man in grey pants and white shirt stretched out on the litter. Suicide. He's nearly gone. The most momentous act of his life. Not important enough to get two lines of the Graf Zeppelin's space in the papers. "Things never turn out as badly as you fear they will" a philosopher friend is always telling me. It's fear that kills.

ECLIPSES are rapidly going into partial or total eclipse. One who knows says that the autumn ensemble will have skirts reaching to the ground. The most daring will come at least three inches below the suppositious knees. Well why worry about that in these blessed days when a fella can wear galluses without that sense of slinking shame?

IT'S SELDOM that you find a house vacant on Beacon st. opposite the Common. Recently, one of the old-timers has borne a placard announcing "House and Stable to Let." True enough. The old family stable is in the rear

It's now being renovated and will doubtless become a garage. A few of the older generation stick to their daily drive behind horseflesh, but it's becoming almost impossible for a cab or victoria to negotiate traffic. Some day the horse will come back into fashion for the afternoon drive. Shall we then see Commonwealth ave laid out with a carriage drive down the center, and a brilliant sunset promenade such as is indulged in by the fashion of Naples along the Via Margherita?

WHOLE CHARLESTOWN LIQUOR SQUAD SHIFTED

Fight Permit for $300,000 Scollay Sq. Garage

RAIDS FOLLOW CHARLESTOWN SHAKEUP

New Police Rum Squad Smashes Bars in Two Speakeasies

Following out his purpose to clean up the Charlestown district, Police Captain William W. Livingston replaced the division liquor squad with an entirely new personnel.

The new squad went on duty today. The old squad will report for street duty tonight.

A "flying squadron," which will be on duty from 4 a. m. to midnight, was also selected.

The new liquor squad includes Sergt. Harold Mitten and Patrolmen Edward F. Farmer, John Madden and Edward Cahill.

The new "flying squadron" consists of Special Officers Edward Twohig, Patrick J. Fallon and James J. McGovern.

Capt. Livingston with his new liquor raiders visited two more barrooms, closed up the bars, but made no arrests. The first place was on Rutherford ave., near state prison. Fifteen customers were ordered out and the bar smashed. In the second bar on Main st., near Hancock sq., everyone was ejected but nothing destroyed.

The old liquor squad consisted of Patrolmen John J. Cashman, Albert Stewart, Gerald F. A'Hearn and Albert F. Clifford.

Over the holiday in Charlestown, three youths, who are charged with stealing a $4000 motor car, and 65 persons arrested for drunkenness were arraigned in district court today. The number of drunks is the largest on the division since prohibition went into effect.

The new captain of station 15 declared his activity would continue until his district became quiet enough so that citizens might sit on their doorsteps without being molested by speeders and drunkards.

PICNIC PARTY IN CRASH, 11 HURT

Eleven persons were injured when a truck, bearing a picnic party, and an automobile were in collision at Blue Hills ave. and Washington st. on the Milton-Canton line, and ambulances and police from three towns were summoned to care for the injured.

Five of those hurt in the crash required hospital treatment, the others were given first aid by doctors and allowed to go home.

Those whose injuries required hospital care were: Mrs. Agnes Harahan, 45, of Sufford ave., Dorchester, alleged driver of the automobile. Injuries left arm; Mrs. Margaret Davis, 50, of Seaborn st., Dorchester, a passenger in the automobile, several scalp wounds; Mrs. Aaron Ruboff, 64, contusions and concussion; Aaron Ruboff, 65, Park ave., Chelsea, fractured wrist and ribs; Louis Ruboff, Park ave., Chelsea, bruises and cuts of face and neck and scalp wound.

The Ruboffs were passengers in the picnic truck which was driven, according to police, by Jacob Prober of Cherry st., Chelsea, who escaped without injury.

FIGHT AGAINST HEAVY TRUCKS

Led by Representative Joseph V White, 25 residents of Moraine st., Jamaica Plain, appeared before William A. Fisher, traffic board head, today in an effort to have heavy trucking banned from their street.

A spokesman for the group, White argued that Moraine st. is strictly a residential district and that the heavy trucks disturbed the sleep of residents.

He asked that the commissioner reroute heavy trucking through South Huntington ave. to Huntington st., Jamaica Plain. The matter was taken under advisement.

Boston Cigar Man to Be Buried in Holyoke

John J. Toye, well known in the New England cigar trade, will be buried in Holyoke cemetery tomorrow following a requiem mass at St. Joseph's Church, West End.

Mr. Toye, who lived most of his life in Boston's West End, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs Marion F. Thomas, at 287 Alewife Brook parkway, West Somerville. He was associated with Alles & Fisher, Boston cigarmakers, for 35 years. Another daughter Mrs W. A. Ingalls, and a son, who bears his name, survive him.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the help can advertised daily in The Post-Boy columns.

Wed Thursday

Mary Madeline Lyons

Ruth Cecilia Lyons

Waltham sisters will figure in a double wedding Thursday when Miss Ruth becomes Mrs. John Francis Hayes and Miss Mary will be married to Joseph Henry Quinn.

TWIN WEDDING AT WALTHAM

A double wedding will take place at St. Mary's Church, Waltham, Thursday, when Ruth Cecilia Lyons and Mary Madeline Lyons, daughters of Robert L. Lyons, wealthy Waltham manufacturer, will become brides.

Miss Ruth will be united in marriage with John Francis Hayes of North Cambridge, graduate of Boston College, '22, while Miss Mary will become the bride of Joseph Henry Quinan of Brighton, graduate of Notre Dame Academy in the Fenway, and of Trinity College, Washington, D. C.

An elaborate wedding is being planned, and the reception after the ceremony in the church will be held at the Weston Golf Club.

Three Youths Held In 'Speeder' Drive

Nelson J. Peterson, 17, Edmund E. Freeman, Jr., and John F. O'Brien, alleged Charlestown speeders, were held in $3000 each for hearing Sept. 7 following arraignment in Charlestown court today on charges of larceny of an auto and using it without authority. Police allege they stole a $4000 sedan and set out to establish a new record over the Main st.-Bunker Hill st. "loop." Capt. Livingston's new speed squadron cut their ride short.

Will Report Soon on Drivers' Long Day

A report from his inspectors on a complaint alleging bus drivers of the New England Transportation Co. have been operating 16 to 18 hours a day is expected within a few days by Henry W. Seward, director of the railway inspection division of the State Department of Public Utilities.

The complaint was lodged by the Wachusett Automobile Club.

DAYS OF CHORES OVER FOR NEW PHYSICIAN

Wall Washer Works for 13 Years as He Moves on Toward His Goal

Thirteen years of general chores have come to an end for Raphael Reyes Garcia. He is now a physician.

Last May a reporter discovered Garcia working at the Boston American as an assistant janitor, wielding a sponge on dirty walls. He admitted he was a college graduate, with degrees from Georgetown and Middlesex Colleges of Physicians and Surgeons.

He admitted also that for 13 years he had been working at anything that offered, often at washing walls and ceilings, in order to obtain money with which to further his education and become a physician.

He has passed the State Board of Medicine examinations in New York and will become a practicing physician in that city.

He gives credit for his own persistence to sacrifices made in his behalf by his parents and his wife.

RESCUES HORSE IN BARN FIRE

At the risk of his life, Patrolman Maurice Foley of the Beverly police department, dashed into a burning barn, the property of Ralph Ward, on Cross st., in the Beverly Cove section, and saved a horse.

Foley was attracted by the crackling of the flames and turned in an alarm. He rushed back to the scene and when informed by excited members of the Ward household that valuable animals were housed in the barn, he dashed into the barn and saved "Prince," the favorite horse.

The patrolman was partially overcome by smoke. The loss is estimated at $1500.

Funeral of Spanish War Vet Tomorrow

The funeral of Augustine J. Hurley, Spanish-American war veteran who died Saturday, will be held at his residence, 24 Ripley rd., Dorchester, tomorrow morning at 8:30. Solemn high mass of requiem will be held at St. Leo's Church, Dorchester. Burial will be in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Stoneham.

He was born in South Boston March 13, 1880. At the age of 18 he enlisted in the artillery corps for service against Spain. During the final months of his enlistment he was in charge of the disappearing gun at the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo.

Cohasset Hunter Freed of Gun Charge

A big game hunt by Patrick Putnam, of Cohasset, had a sequel in Quincy District Court today, before Judge Albert E. Avery. Putnam, charged with carrying a gun without a permit, said he had recently returned from Africa and had left the gun on the running board of his auto.

The gun dropped off at the feet of Patrolman James J. Sullivan in front of Cohasset police station. Judge Avery found Putnam not guilty.

Returns Purse

Charles Newman, a carpenter Malden, found a pocketbook in front of the Sullivan sq El terminal, Charlestown. An automobile license furnished information as to its owner, Miss Sophie Markovitz, and he returned it.

Parted Sweethearts Reunited

Lillian M. Ramsey, Cambridge bride-to-be who disappeared, has been reunited with her sweetheart, James J. Brennan of Somerville, shown putting engagement ring on her finger for the second time. They will wed on Sept. 15. She said she had shaken off the "dominating influence" of her older suitor.

GIRL GOES BACK TO FIRST SUITOR

Lillian Ramsey, 17-year-old Cambridge blonde, is again a bride-to-be and James J. Brennan, 22, Somerville, remains the groom. It was announced at the Ramsey home following a week-end in which the girl disappeared and reappeared accompanied by a police sergeant.

Miss Ramsey admitted to reporters that she had left intending to elope to New York with an older man.

When it was found, however, that they were short of funds, she stated that the elopement was postponed and that she was housed at his aunt's home on Columbia st., Cambridge.

The latter notified the police after reading of her disappearance in the newspapers, and an East Cambridge police sergeant took her home.

The girl expressed her joy in being home again—safe and sound. What she called the "dominating influence" of her older suitor over her, she declared, had vanished and she was ready to marry Brennan as she had previously planned to do.

So the wedding which was scheduled to take place at the Trinity Methodist Church in Cambridge will now be held on September 15.

Fall From Window Fractures Skull

From a 20-foot fall from his second floor room in Waltham st., South End, William J. Kelley, 61, single, sustained a fractured skull and right leg today. His name was placed on the danger list at Boston City Hospital, whence he was taken in a police ambulance.

CITE CONGESTED AREA AS PERIL TO PUBLIC

Plans Call for Building to Provide Storage for 400 Automobiles

Several persons appeared before the board of street commissioners today and opposed the granting of a permit to build a garage costing $300,000, and housing 400 automobiles, at the junction of Sudbury st. and Scollay square.

Among those who appeared in opposition were Atty. Francis P. Garland, representing The Scollay Square, Inc., owners of property adjoining the site of the proposed garage.

WOULD INCREASE DANGER

Atty Garland said a garage on the site of the Palace theatre and old Palm Gardens, as proposed, would be a public and private nuisance and injurious to the public because of the increased danger due to the highly congested nature of the district.

Others who opposed were Atty. Fred Wingersky, counsel for Haymarket Realty Corp. owners and operators of The American House in Hanover st., which backs up to the Palace theatre, Paul F. Watson, trustee of Sudbury st. property, Max Hoffman of Hanover st., and owners of Huntley Garage in Sudbury st., who said there was no need for another garage in the district.

OPERATING AT A LOSS

The petitioners are B. & A. Enterprises Inc., A. M. Bingle, treasurer. They were represented by Atty. Frank H. Stewart, who told the commissioners the property is now being operated at a loss and that a new garage on the site would increase the taxable value of the property.

DEMANDS GOVERNMENT REGULATION TO SMASH POWER MONOPOLY

LEAHY SCORES EVILS OF TRUSTS

Cambridge Councillor Calls Electric Combine "Greatest Ever Organized"

A plea for governmental regulation to smash what he termed "the greatest power monopoly ever organized" was made by Councillor Daniel F. Leahy of Cambridge in a speech at the Central Labor Union field day at Russell Field, North Cambridge.

Councillor Leahy charged that the monopoly had gained control of banks, industries, construction companies, and that "their last efforts have been devoted to the control of the American press."

Councillor Leahy said in part:

"As a citizen, as a research man and as a city councillor for the past seven years, I have studied electric light power industries of our city, state and country, appearing before the commissioners of the Department of Public Utilities, Speaker of the House and president of the Massachusetts Senate. I am asked, 'Is there a power monopoly?' My answer is, yes.

"Is this power monopoly regulated by any legislative or administrative body? No.

"What is the remedy? Is it federal regulation by a commission appointed by President Herbert Hoover or by our local Public Utilities Commission, appointed by His Excellency, Governor Allen?

"We are faced today with nation-wide mergers of industries, not alone in the electric power field, but in food, clothing, banks and moving pictures. But the greatest of all is that of the electric power trust.

"Forty-one holding companies own or control 4000 operating companies in the United States of America, with an investment of over $10,000,000,000. That is the greatest combination that was ever before organized in the whole world.

"This great monopoly is based upon financial inflation, and should be controlled and regulated by some governmental authority. Securities are being issued, not upon the valuation of the utility company, but on the valuation of a fictitious, hypothetical plant, known to the board of directors as a reproduced plant at present prices; in other words, what it would cost to reproduce the plant today."

Crowd Seeks to Escape Holiday Heat at Revere Beach and on Boston Common

A crowd variously estimated at from 100,000 upward sought to escape the heat of the city at Revere Beach. The holiday was a banner occasion for the refreshment booth proprietors and the numerous amusement enterprises. It was the climax of the season at Revere.

Mayor Nichols was represented by George H. Johnsen, director of celebrations, at the meeting on the Common.

$3 Spend Night on Disabled Boat

The mystery as to what happened to William Eastman of Everett, a member of the Chelsea Yacht Club, and his two nephews after they left the yacht club in Eastman's power boat Sunday night, was cleared up when the missing yachtsman returned and told his fellow members that his boat had been disabled only a mile away from his home.

Eastman and his two young nephews headed down the harbor Sunday night for a sail. They returned and then started up the Mystic river, and when they got to a point near the Wellington bridge the batteries went dead. Eastman decided to anchor the boat and remain aboard all night.

CLANS OBSERVE 40TH PICNIC

More than 10,000 loyal Scotch lads and lassies thronged Caledonian Grove, West Roxbury, for the 40th annual picnic and games of the Associated Clans, O. S. C., members of which came from all parts of the State to participate.

Apart from the athletic part of the program, the Highland games and dancing proved the greatest attractions of the day. Attired in full Highland costume, men, women and children entered into the spirit of the native sports.

The Graham family, long identified with this annual affair, again walked away with the costume prizes. Louis Graham was judged the best dressed Highlander; his niece, Gladys, won first as the best dressed Highland woman over 16; his daughter, Gertrude, won first as the best dressed over 12 and under 16. Rhoda MacKenzie captured the honors as the best dressed under 12 years of age.

WILL IRWIN IN AUTO CRASH

While giving a driving lesson to one of his house guests at Scituate, Will Irwin, war correspondent and author, received painful though not serious injuries when the machine swerved from the road, dropped into a shallow gully and turned over on its side. Irwin received a deep cut in the right hand and suffered somewhat from loss of blood.

His pupil, Miss Alice Rohe, New York author, who was at the wheel of the car when the accident occurred, escaped with only minor bruises and cuts.

The accident occurred at the property known as the Scituate proving ground—used by the government during the World War for testing armaments and ammunition. Miss Rohe, who is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin at their summer home at Second Cliff, Scituate, steered the car into a gully concealed by long grass

Man Badly Burned Starting Auto

Joseph Cassella, 23, of Leyden st., East Boston, suffered severe burns of the hands and legs when a defective ignition system started a fire in his automobile while he was attempting to start the car in a garage at Saratoga st., East Boston.

Cassella was taken to the East Boston Relief Hospital and treated for first, second and third degree burns.

Fire apparatus was summoned to extinguish the fire, which caused $75 damage.

Alcohol Kills Man Wed Only 3 Weeks

Peter Platukes of Laurel st., Lynn, only three weeks married died of alcohol poisoning and heart failure.

Mrs. Victorine Platukes, his bride, looked out the window and saw three men carrying her husband home. They laid him on the front lawn, and when she reached his side he was unconscious. When a doctor arrived he was dead.

The medical examiner pronounced death due to alcohol and heart failure.

Jesse's Checker Defi Missed at Prison

The checker tournament which has always been on the holiday program at the State Prison in Charlestown, was missing on Labor Day as the checker champion, Jesse Harding Pomeroy, is now at the State Infirmary at Bridgewater.

On the various holidays of the year, it was Jesse's custom, when the other inmates watched the baseball game and exercised about the yard, to bring his checker board into a selected corner of the yard, and engage all comers. Jesse had developed into one of the best checker players at the institution, and he was always on hand to engage particularly the newcomers who boasted of being "champs" at the game. In the majority of cases, Jesse came out the victor.

While the checker tournament was missing, the inmates were served up a red hot baseball game between the two star teams of the prison league, which was won by the Braves 11 to 9, defeating the Red Sox nine.

A special holiday dinner of rice soup, roast pork, sweet potatoes, corn, rice pudding, coffee and bread, was served to each of the 887 inmates of the institution, 153 of whom are "lifers."

BOY, 15, NABBED AFTER CHASE

A 15-year-old boy was arrested as a hit-and-run driver in a raid on a South End lodging house by State troopers of the Concord barracks, who were seeking the driver of an automobile that overturned a car in which two children were passengers at Acton.

The arrest was made after an all-night pursuit of the hit-and-run car by Trooper William Andrews of the Concord barracks.

The youth arrested will be arraigned this morning in Concord court on charges of driving without a license. Joseph Gilhart, 32, of Everett Newton st., South End, who is alleged to have taken the wheel of the hit-and-run car after the crash, will be charged with several violations of the automobile laws. Gilhart was arrested with the 15-year-old boy, who gave his name as Alfred E. Locks of Baldwinsville.

Boy Shoots Self Playing With Gun

Alphonse Antoniewicz, 14, of Putnam ave., Cambridge, accidentally shot himself in the left hand while playing with his father's 25-caliber revolver, it was reported at the Central sq. police station in Cambridge

After being treated by Dr. T. C Weinert of Cambridge st. he returned to his home.

Dorchester Boy Hurt in Crash

Ernest Adler, 12, of Beach st., Dorchester, received lacerations of the scalp which necessitated his removal to City Hospital when he was thrown against the windshield of a sedan in wich he was riding with his father, George J. Adler, as the machine was in collision with a sedan operated by Carl Gustafson of Houghton st., Dorchester.

The crash took place at Victory rd. and Neponset ave.

PALESTINE MASS MEETINGS TO CLIMAX GREAT JEWISH FAST DAY

SPEAKERS ARE SECURED FOR TOMORROW

Women Also Arranging for Flower Day as Part of Drive for Funds

A day of mourning and fasting for the Jews tomorrow will end in several mass meetings at night in the synagogues of Boston.

Throughout the city, Hub Jewry will crowd their temples in the interest of Palestine aid.

An outpouring unprecedented in number is expected at the scheduled places and prominent speakers will acquaint the congregations with Palestine conditions.

In addition, meetings have been arranged at New Bedford and Lowell for tomorrow night. Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers, to be the guest-speaker at the latter place, and at Fall River, Lynn and Haverhill on Thursday night.

PLAN FLOWER DAY.

At the "meeting of indignation" tonight, in the Walnut st. synagogue, at 8 p. m., Mayor Lawrence Quigley will speak, as will Rabbi Elisha Silver, Rabbi P. Israelite, Rabbi I. Hochman, George E. Gordon, president Temple Beth El Congregation; Max Blass, president Walnut st. synagogue congregation; Samuel E. Faulkes, Maurice Cary, M. Berson, Alderman Samuel Falkoff, Clarence F. Richmond and Abraham Alpert.

And while details were completed for other "emergency meetings," members of Boston Hadassah were meeting at Zionist headquarters to formulate plans for the flower day, September 10, of which the women will have charge.

A call was issued to two or three thousand Jewish juniors, boys and girls over 15, to assist in the flower day and sell the buds for Palestine. A meeting of these volunteers will be held at the Boston Young Men's Hebrew Association building in Seaver st., Roxbury, Sept. 9, the night before the sale, and to this place are the young Jewish juniors invited to come.

Others interested in swelling the emergency funds to the $300,000 first decided upon as New England's quota were busily disposing of tickets for the midnight theatre performance on Thursday at the beautiful B. F. Keith Memorial Theater. A show of gigantic proportions and entertainment is to be furnished by the management.

YOM KIPPUR MINOR

"Tahnis," as tomorrow is known, is more commonly termed "Yom Kippur Minor," since it is preliminary to the two most holy holidays on the Jewish calendar.

A day of solemn fasting, it will assume a double significance with the advent of Palestine emergencies.

Circulars, advising Hub Jewry that on the morrow "Jews may express our grief at what may be called the third instance in Jewish history of national destruction in Palestine," ask the people of the faith in the city to "awake to the emergency."

At the North Russell st. synagogue, Cantor J. Kaufberg will chant the Yom Kippur Katan at services which are to begin at 7 p. m. M. Kamberg will preside at the meeting, at which Abraham Alpert, Max Kabatznick, Hyman Rhuiman and Max Goldfarb will be the speakers.

SWAMPED WITH CALLS

Zionist headquarters were swamped with telephone calls from every part of the Jewish world throughout New England asking for speakers for similar meetings and gatherings for appeal were being held.

From New Bedford came Louis Levine to personally procure a speaker for tomorrow's demonstration at Temple Tefila. New Bedford Jewry, he said, was aroused to the situation and wanted to help. And so from other Jewish centers, elsewhere.

At the 7 o'clock meeting at the Woodrow avenue synagogue, Director Ruthman will chant, L. Gorin will preside and the following will make the addresses of appeal: Rabbi Aaron Rose, Benjamin George Leve, Michael Lefkowich, Abraham Hamlin, Samuel Rubin, Dr. M. J. Berman, Dr. N. M. Friedman and Julius Mayer.

AT DORCHESTER TEMPLE

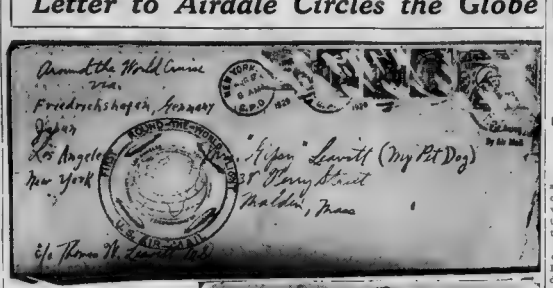
Alex Wagman, chairman of the Greater Boston committee of the United Palestine Appeal, will preside at the meeting scheduled for the Dorchester Temple Beth El. Cantor Hyman Schulsinger will chant and Rabbi Harry M. Kotsin, Rabbi Abram Gorowitz, William Silverman, Michael Lefkowich and Councilman Israel Ruby will speak.

Alexander Brin, editor of the Jewish Advocate, will deliver an address to the members of the Blue Hill ave. synagogue congregation. Nathan Pinanski will preside. Cantor M. Wolf will chant and other speakers include Rabbi B. L. Grossmand and Coleman Silbert.

In this crisis, particularly conspicuous is the number of young Jewish men who have offered their services to acquaint the entire population with Palestine conditions and need for relief. On the lists of speakers, one or two are young men of the faith.

Dr. Joseph Shubow, ardent Zionist, will speak at the meeting for the Olnfield st. synagogue. Jacob S. Merriam will chant. Councilman Israel Ruby, Hyman Silberman, Rabbi Solomon Friedberman are the other speakers. B. Simon will preside. And at the Crawford st., Roxbury, synagogue, Rabbi William Drazin, Philip Potash of the labor committee of the National Jewish Workers' Alliance, Coleman Silbert and Louis H. Steinberg, who will preside, will make address. The exact will be sung by Cantor Zaiotkavs, published through courtesy of the Boston Art Museum. Another will appear tomorrow.

Letter to Airdale Circles the Globe



PLOT TO STEAL ALCOHOL BARED

Plans for a great theft which would have netted several thousand dollars' worth of government alcohol from the bonded warehouse of the American Distilling Company, Inc., at 50 Eastern ave., North End, were laid bare by police investigating the attempted break which was foiled at midnight Sunday by the sounding of a burglar alarm.

Officers working on the case discovered a big equipment of burglars' tools, including crow bars and axes, which the would-be thieves left in their flight. They also found evidence which indicated that the burglars had used a motorboat in which to make their escape.

The break was carefully planned and the burglars knew of the presence of the alarm which gave them away, but had tried to avoid it. The police believe they had planned to spend some time in carrying out their work for there was evidence of sandwiches and two cans of unopened peaches in the building.

R. I. Gang Slayers Are Hunted in Boston

The slayers of Alfredo Rossi, shot dead at Warwick, R. I., early Sunday morning, were sought in Boston today.

While two inspectors from Warwick were searching Boston's underworld for two men suspected of the slaying, Warwick and Providence police were preparing for a gang war in reprisal for the shooting.

Four persons, a girl and three men, were held without bail today following arraignment in Warwick court as material witnesses. They are Agnes Manion, 25, of Providence; Antony Torino and Dominic Rizza, proprietors of Palace Gardens, Warwick, and John Orabona of Providence, who drove the two men believed to have been the slayers, from Providence to the Palace Gardens.

Rossi, a pardoned murderer and gangster, was shot outside the Palace Garden dance hall. Police believe he was involved in a gang shakedown of bootleggers or hijackers.

PLANE RUINED BY FLAMES

While being pushed into a hangar at the airport, a biplane, owned by Robertson and Ayling of Hyannis and in charge of Pilot C. E. Hodge, burst into flames and was practically destroyed.

The plane had a short while before landed after a trip from the Cape. It is believed that a parachute flare inside the cabin of the plane caused the blaze.

A still alarm brought Engine 40 and Ladder 2 to the airport but the fire spread so quickly that the ship was enveloped in flames a moment after the blaze was discovered.

Husband Divorces Back Bay Milliner

Irvin Yost, 35 Acton st., was granted a divorce for desertion by Judge Lourie, in superior court today, from Mrs. Clara E. Yost, Huntington ave. milliner.

Yost charged that his wife left him in 1925, moving all the furniture from their apartment on Baltimore rd., Brighton. They were married in 1913.

To Hold Meeting

The next regular meeting of the Alpha Phi Gamma Club of Revere will be at the home of one of the members on Sept 5, at which time several theater parties, to be held during the winter months, will be planned.

EXCITED FAN FALLS 3 STORIES

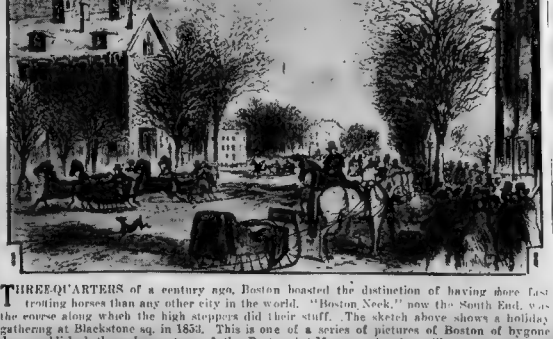
An exciting inning of a ball game among Charles st. jail prisoners in the jail yard may cost William T. Carter, 19, of 305 Cambridge st., West End, his life. His name is on the danger list at the Haymarket Relief Hospital where doctors diagnosed the injury as a possible fracture of the skull.

Carter was watching the game from the window sill of his home which overlooks the jail yard. During a tense period of the game he forgot the precariousness of his position, lost his balance and plunged to a yard three stories below.

Polish Falcons End Session at Chelsea

The annual convention of the Polish Falcons and the Falconette of America was held in Chelsea yesterday and Sunday. The convention opened with a solemn high mass at St. Stanislaus Church, followed by a street parade Sunday afternoon at Carter Park Playground an exhibition of drills, athletics and a track meet were held. A grand ball at White Eagle Hall marked the close of the convention. The committee included B. Czyzewski, Walter Jagolta and Miss Helen Jakubowicz.

Old Boston in Pictures—No. 46



THREE-QUARTERS of a century ago, Boston boasted the distinction of having more fast trotting horses than any other city in the world. "Boston Neck," now the South End, was the course along which the high steppers did their stuff. The sketch above shows a holiday gathering at Blackstone sq. in 1853. This is one of a series of pictures of Boston of bygone days, published through courtesy of the Boston Art Museum. Another will appear tomorrow.

DOG IN MALDEN RECEIVES ZEPP TOUR MAIL

Letter Gives Pet Cause to 'Lord It Over' Less Fortunate Canines

Mrs "Gipsy" Leavitt is going about Malden with her aristocratic nose tilted above the envious glances of her canine sisters. Who is she to mingle with the commoners?

Mrs. "Gipsy" full-blooded airdale owned by Dr Thomas W Leavitt of Ferry st., is the only dog ever to receive a letter flown around the world.

The letter, written by her master's brother, Joseph, and mailed in New York, traveled in the Graf Zeppelin on the Hearst-Zeppelin round-the-world flight via Friedrichshafen, Tokio, and Los Angeles, addressed "Mrs Gipsy Leavitt, My Pet Dog."

SHOULD PLEASE VANITY.

Bearing the United States air mail round-the-world flight stamp, the message was delivered to her by her master. It was as follows.

"Dear Gipsy:

"In the course of time and it all goes well you will receive this letter. You will then have the unusual distinction of being the only representative of the dog family, at least of the airdale branch, to have a message addressed to you travel around the globe on board the Graf Zeppelin.

"This significant fact should be very gratifying to your canine vanity. It will, no doubt, provoke a great deal of envy among your countless friends and relatives.

WISHES HER HEALTH

"My only fear, dear Gipsy, is that the publicity you will undoubtedly receive from this memorable event may be instrumental in causing you to leave your master, Dr. Tom, on a round the-world trip of your own. In that case I never would forgive myself for sending you this letter.

"I close this epistle with a sincere wish for your continued health and happiness, as well as of your master's, Dr. Tom.

"Affectionately yours, (signed) Joseph B. Leavitt."

To celebrate the event, "Gipsy" staged a banquet for herself, consuming several hot-dogs with ketchup and a bucketful of coffee, of which she is very fond.

GET AUTO DATA FOR REVERE

Five girls, hired by Mayor Andrew A. Casassa of Revere, were sent to Capt. George A. Parker's office today to gather the motor vehicle registry figures on accidents in Revere for the last several years. This is one of the first steps taken by the mayor in his fight against the proposed automobile insurance rates for 1930.

Patrolman Larry Dugan of the Revere police has just finished compiling police records of accidents and his report will be turned over to the mayor's office. A public meeting will be held later in the week at which a committee will be selected to appear for Revere at the State House hearing on the rates Monday.

4 File Pleas in Bankruptcy Court

The following voluntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed in Federal court today:

J. C. Perry and Sons, builders, Newton. Liabilities, $868 33. Assets, none.

Harold M. Cushing, farmer 205 Main st., Hingham Liabilities $8,615.45. Assets, $125.

Hyman Miller, salesman, 131 Walnut st., Chelsea. Liabilities, $1,282 83. Assets, none.

RETURNING AD MEN DAY LATE

With a large list of members of the N. E. Advertising Club aboard, the North German Lloyd steamship Luetzow will reach Commonwealth pier early tomorrow, a day behind schedule.

The ship was due to tie up tonight with 101 cabin and 32 tourist passengers for this port.

A radio message from the ship today said she would not be able to reach quarantine in time for inspection and will lay off quarantine until the morning.

John Nicodemis, chairman of the 'On-to-Berlin' committee, heads the returning delegates. They have attended a series of conferences on advertising.

Included among others aboard the vessel is Herman Hormel, surveyor of the Port of Boston.

Held in Alleged Attack on Girl, 11

After a chase through back lots and alleyways, Officer Walter Clark of the East Dedham at station arrested a man accused by an 11-year-old girl of attacking her.

On the complaints of the parents of young girls in the South End, against a middle-aged man, said by the girls to have made improper advances, a warrant was issued some time ago. The suspect was brought to the station and booked as a suspicious person.

Tricky Puffs Bother Smoke-Eaters

It took firemen, summoned to the National Shawmut Bank building when the watchman smelled smoke, just 45 minutes to find that paper burning in the water heater, which had been started in the Monks building on Congress st., sent a trickle of smoke into the airshaft.

Firemen dashed into the National Shawmut's basement and vault rooms first, and found nothing. Then they rushed upstairs. Next they tried to get in next door on Devonshire st, finally effecting an entrance. The premises of the banking firm of F. Arnold, Sears & Company, the Engineers' National Bank and the Massachusetts Savings Bank were investigated.

Then firemen toured into Congress sq. and tried back doors into the Newport building and adjacent structures. Next they were met on Congress st., at the entrance to the Monks building, by the watchman.

"Sure," he said. "We started up the water heater, and smoke from it sifted into the airshaft between this building and the National Shawmut Bank."

Seek Son of Man Who Died Suddenly

Efforts are being made by the Boston police and relatives of George W. Fogg of Claybourne st., Dorchester, who died suddenly at his home, to locate his son, Charles A. Fogg, who is vacationing somewhere in Maine. It is believed that he is in the northern section of that state and that today he will be in or near Bangor. He is driving an automobile which carries the Massachusetts registration of 573,388.

"Unfit" Get Jobs Back

Philadelphia, Sept. 3—Seventy-two policemen, branded as "unfit" by the special grand jury of August, 1926, suspended, and then ordered restored to duty by the civil service commission, are back on the job.

CURLEY LEADS IN SIGNING UP NOMINATORS

First Paper Returned Within an Hour After Mayoralty Campaign Opens

Nomination papers for James M. Curley in the mayoralty race were taken out today 10 minutes after the board of election commissioners declared the campaign officially opened.

Within an hour, James M. Curley, Jr., had filed the first paper containing 100 signatures. The former mayor was sanguine that the required 3000 signatures would be on file at City Hall before the day was over.

The expected rush for papers failed to materialize. Michael J. Curley, who seeks votes in the mayoralty contest called for his papers.

Among the missing were Francis E. Slattery, who is expected to resign chairmanship of the Schoolhouse Commission this week to become a candidate for mayor, and Ellehew J. Lane, former Finance Commission and School Committee member who is expected to receive the Good Government Association's indorsement in the race.

Former City Councillor James A "Jerry" Watson, who seeks a place on the School Committee, received his papers and filed a few signatures.

Former Councillor George F Gilbody, who seeks election again from Ward 16, received his papers also and announced that he would support James M. Curley.

BEACHES CLOSE BUSY SEASON

The curtain has been rung down on the 1929 season at the various beaches along the New England coast.

At Revere and Nantasket beaches, mecca for amusement lovers, ranges of workmen were busy today boarding up the entrances to most of the amusement places to protect them from the winter weather.

At Paragon Park it was announced that Sunday openings will prevail until the middle of October. Several concessionaires at Revere announced that they also would remain open on Saturdays and Sundays.

This was the greatest season for beaches in five years, according to the owners of amusements and stands at both Revere and Nantasket.

Zeramby and Flowers Battle Tonight

SPORTS By NICK FLATLEY

Football Is Here — Zeramby's Chance
Most Popular Sport — Jake Climbed Quickly
And Most Amateur — A Marathon Swimmer

PIGSKIN STARTS SPINNING AROUND TODAY

THEY'RE off in a cloud of dust today. The footballers go to it, although the sun may beam and the tired business man may swelter, after his vacation. From here in, most of the boys and girls will forget plenty about golf and baseball and fights, and chatter football.

The big college sport has 'em all beaten for conversation. Every addict is an expert, and the game, of all the sports retains that personal interest that makes for real fanning and pfanning. Football has been commercialized—as regards getting plenty of gate receipts—but the playing part is more amateur than ever.

NICK FLATLEY

Proselyting, and grabbing athletes has been done away with to a great extent. The day of the soft course for the punting hero is no more. The football athlete has to get his marks the same as anybody else.

It's a great game, and the season is just long enough. This, as much as anything else, accounts for its popularity. Even the rabid fans get tired of baseball, unless a team is winning. The golfers lose the keen edge of interest as fall approaches. But the football bugs get only a half dozen servings of their pet dish. No chance in that to smother the appetite.

Boston knows more football than any other big city. And with Harvard, Boston College, Dartmouth and B. U. to root for, the village naturally gets steamed up. All four teams look good as a new campaign is about to unfold.

Seen About the Village

Major Cavanaugh departing with a wild clash of gears, for that dear Fordham—Eddie Mack signing the petition to have mosquitos exiled to Siberia—Eddie Morris practicing wigwags on the S. B. Y. C. dock—Jack Sharkey peeking at road maps for the trail to Orangeburg, N. J.—Harry Kelly paging a new heavyweight—Col. Bob McKirdy looking for a fight—Tommie Quinn, caddie star, sporting a limp; those new shoes nearly ruined him—Arthur Duffy wearing a Nova Scotia tan—George Brown going back to the ice business after a brisk summer as gentleman farmer—Fred Hoey still packing his book of baseball averages: Fred is one game guy—Jim Shannon warming up the football overcoat—numerous old grads studying the new football rules.

Jake's Big Spot

Jake Zeramby of Lynn stands on the edge of fame, and real money. If he can knock off Bruce Flowers this evening, he will be a big shot in the lightweight division. Jake's rise to the peak has been startling. A year ago, he was a fifteen dollar fighter. Now he's ready for the big dough.

He's the most popular young man who has broken in the muzzling business around here for quite a spell. He caught the fan fancy from the beginning, just as Honeyboy Finnegan did. Jake is a hustling workman, always on the job. In addition to that he's willing to take on anyone. Which is the secret of his popularity.

Flowers is a tough enemy, who knows the racket. His experience will make him a mean opponent for Lynn's favorite child. But Jake has class. If he gets by this obstacle, he will be in big demand everywhere. His effort, win or lose, should make a very worth while show.

Did You Know?

That a million vacationists have discovered that two solid weeks of golf didn't help their game a bit.

That Sunday baseball meant more than 100,000 extra cash customers for the Braves.

That Charlie Paddock may not have been an amateur.

That an old fashioned beef stew is as hard to find as real pre-war stuff.

That Clarence DeMar won a Marathon at Halifax yesterday. And probably is running back today.

That the first applications for Harvard-Yale tickets have been received. And tossed in the ashcan.

That George Lott can't miss being Bill Tilden's successor.

Here's a Marathoner

Some of the boys who like to gamble should sign up Max Freedman of Beachmont, and toss him in a few of those swim marathons. Sam would bring them back some money. For he can swim as far and as fast as the best of them.

Yesterday he paddled gayly from Carson Beach, through Shirley Gut, and on down to Revere Beach. And any time you think that isn't a long swim, just go over the course in a motor boat. Sam would have gone to Toronto for the big money splash, but he didn't have the dough.

He has a lot of stuff and should appeal to some one of the percentage boys, who like to have the other fellow do the work.

OUIMET LONE HUB GOLFER NEAR TOP

N. E. Golfers' Scores at Pebble Beach

Ouimet	76
McPhail	80
Wright	81
Hersey	82
Batchelder	84
Forrest	87
Arnold	88
Jaques	91

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 3—Of the eight New Englanders entered in the national amateur golf championship match here only Francis Ouimet appears likely to qualify.

Ouimet had a 76 for the first 18 holes, while next to him came Billy McPhail with an 80. Fred Wright slipped after an auspicious beginning, and came home with an 81. The other local golfers followed in this order: Hersey, 82; Joe Batchelder, 84; Marshall Forrest, 87; Bill Arnold, 88, and Herbert Jaques, 91.

The sensation of the opening day's play was Gibson Dunlap, of the University of Southern California. Dunlap, practically unknown outside of West Coast colleges, went around in 68, three under par, and one better than the great Bobby Jones.

Bobby Jones, with 70, and Dunlap, were the only two players to smack par. Five other players had cards of 72, which is par for the course. They were: Harrison Johnston, Doc Willing, Don Moe, Gene Homans and Roland McKenzie.

McPhail in Poor Form in Amateur Golf Play

Pebble Beach, Del Monte, Cal., Sept. 3 (UP)—A slow fog hung over the Pebble Beach course and the ground was damp and heavy today as the second day of the national amateur golf tournament with a field of 140 began.

Arthur Sweet, Chicago, was 4-4-4 for the first three holes; a stroke over par. Bon Stein, Seattle, also missed par by a stroke by taking a 5 on the first hole and even pars on the next two.

William McPhail, Boston, also was in a generous mood, taking an 8 on the second, while Herb Jacques, of the same town, took a 7 on the same hole.

Gene Homans, Englewood, N. J., was much better, in fact, downright good. He started with a par 4 and followed with an eagle 3 at the second and a par 4 at the third.

SENATORS TO LOSE VETS

The Senators play their last two games in the Hub today and tomorrow when they race the Red Sox at Fenway Park.

It may also mark the final appearance of a trio of Washington veterans here—at least in a Senators uniform for it is reported that Sam Rice, Joe Judge and Muddy Ruel, who served to carry Washington to a world's championship, only a few years ago have spent their last year with the Nats.

A holiday crowd of 18,000 braved the sun scorched Wigwam yesterday to see the Red Sox break even in a double-header with the Senators, losing the first 10 to 7 and then coming back to cop the nightcap, 7 to 2. But the fans were disappointed for the famous baseball comedians, Nick Altrock and Al Schacht were strangely missing.

PALFREYS WIN IN TITLE PLAY

Philadelphia, Sept. 3—The eight seeded players advanced with ease in the opening rounds of the girls' junior national lawn tennis championship tournament which got under way on the courts of the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

Sarah Palfrey, the 16-year-old defender of the national junior crown, lost two games in defeating Betty Taussig of the Philadelphia Cricket Club. Miss Palfrey, seeded first, won 6—1, 6—1, to advance to the second round.

Mianne Palfrey, sister of Sarah, who shares the girls' national doubles crown, and is seeded fourth, won, 6—3, 6—2, from Allison Harrison of the Philadelphia Cricket Club, in a second round match.

BETWEEN FIELD AND TITLE

Bobby Jones, king of American golfers, seems to be the only obstacle between the field and the national amateur crown. Although Bobby trailed Gordon Dunlap, California collegian, who shot a sensational 69, by 1 stroke, he is still the favorite to win crown.

LYNN BOY WILL SEEK BOUT WITH MANDELL IF HE IS VICTORIOUS

By JACK CONWAY

JAKE ZERAMBY, Lynn's 19-year-old boxing sensation, will crash into the lightweight division tonight when he will battle Bruce Flowers of New Rochelle, N. Y., in a ten-round bout at Boston Garden show at Braves Field.

As a featherweight, Zeramby was a riot. He beat all opposition. His final triumph was scored over Andre Routis, world's champion. Sammy Fuller, Johnny Farr and other high class warriors had previously gone down to defeat before the fiery attack of the Lynn youngster.

Jack Conway

Zeramby outgrew the featherweight climes. He couldn't even make the limit for the junior lightweight division. So he opened fire on the lightweights. He determined to punch his way to a title shot with Sammy Mandell.

Jake has stepped into the division made famous by Jack McAuliffe, Battling Nelson, Ad Wolgast, Willie Ritchie, Freddy Welsh and Benny Leonard. He has hitched his future to a star and intends to go shooting to fistic fame and glory.

ZERAMBY has picked out one of the leading lightweight contenders as his opponent tonight, for three years Flowers has been up around the fistic heights. The late Tex Rickard made several efforts to match Flowers with Sammy Mandell, but without success. Sammy didn't want any part of Bruce's game. He preferred taking on the wild punching McLarnin and the lighter Cansoneri.

Flowers has won his last six starts, four of them by kayo. He defeated Ray Miller of Chicago Miller is the southpaw who stopped Jimmy McLarnin at Detroit.

FLOWERS has been in Boston since Saturday. He sizzled through a couple of slashing workouts at a local gym. He looks the part of a great fighting man. One is obliged to give him serious consideration when he says he will stop Zeramby tonight. He feels he carries too many guns for the Lynn youth. He also calls attention to the fact he packs Old Man Experience in his bag of tricks.

Bruce isn't any stranger hereabouts. In his first Boston bow he defeated Honeyboy Finnegan at Mechanics building.

There was another Flowers-Finnegan bout at Braves Field. It was a close quarrel. And the officials handed Dick the honors. Flowers has always felt he got a little the worst of it, but he hasn't done any real squawking. He never does. He believes boxers make their reputations by what they do in the ring, and that alibis don't make a hit with the public.

WITH bargain prices of 50 cents to $3 Matchmaker Eddie Mack of the Garden looks for a large jam at Braves Field tonight. There will be a big delegation of Zeramby rooters on hand from the North Shore, while those fight fans who delight in witnessing a real quarrel will also turn out.

THE 10-round semifinal will feature Frankie Moore of Medford and Hy Diamond of the West End. These boys battled on the same card with Zeramby and Fuller and Moore won a close decision after a hurricane battle. Now Diamond wants to prove he is still a fistic jewel and that he can outsparkle Moore any night.

The rest of the card is strong and should give action.

Eclipse Wins Race at Nahant

Susan Hammond piloted the Eclipse to victory in the holiday race of the Star class of the Nahant Dory Club off Nahant yesterday, leading the Ara, sailed by Proctor and Jenks by more than a minute.

The race was sailed over a 3¼-mile triangular course in a west wind.

EAST WINNER FROM WEST

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 3—The eastern tennis team defeated their western rivals here by topping the new national championship doubles combination of George Lott, Chicago, and John Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal., for the deciding victory in the East vs. West matches.

Medford Heavy in Dilboy Show

Al Dean, popular Medford heavyweight, has entered the Dilboy Post amateur boxing tournament, to be held Wednesday night at Dilboy Field, Somerville, under the auspices of Dilboy Post, V. F. W.

Gordon Faulkner will compete in the 126-pound division, as will Al Simarzian, Boston Y. M. C. A. Charles Kelley, Newton welterweight, will face some stiff opposition as several have entered for his class, including Ed Walsh of Somerville.

Lapham Pays $23,000 for Jones in Pool

Del Monte, Cal., Sept. 2—One hundred and thirty-seven thousand dollars today reposes in the calcutta pool covering the national amateur golf championship which began today at Pebble Beach links.

Henry Lapham of Boston contributed $50,000 of this amount when he bought five players at the auction, among whom was Bobby Jones, defending champion, for whom Lapham paid $23,000.

Goodwin Hits 175 Targets in a Row

Ray Goodwin of Billerica established one of the most remarkable scores in the annals of skeet shooting in the annual event of the Woburn sportsmen's holiday skeet shoot over their traps at Woburn.

Goodwin, one of a large field which turned out, broke 24 out of his first 25 targets and, after a short rest, toed the mounds to run out a string of seven consecutive rounds of 25 without a miss, completing a total of 175 targets without a miss and a score of 199 out of a possible 200.

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

Sharkey to Claim Heavy Title If He Beats Loughran

HUB BOXER SURE HE COULD HAVE DEFEATED GENE TUNNEY FOR CROWN

THIS is the first of a series of articles by Jack Sharkey, Boston's contender for the heavyweight championship, who will write exclusively for the Boston Evening American. His articles will appear three times a week. In them, Jack will tell how he plans to bring the title to Boston for the first time since the great John L. Sullivan.

By JACK SHARKEY
Contender for World's Heavyweight Title

GENE TUNNEY'S vacated heavyweight title is what I shall be shooting at when I whirl into action against Tommy Loughran in a 15-round bout at the Yankee Stadium, New York on September 26.

JACK SHARKEY

It would have been much more enjoyable to have won the title direct from Tunney, but I was denied the privilege. Boxing fans know that I was signed to box Tunney in New York on March 17, 1926, but that the bout never took place.

Tex Rickard, a few months before his untimely death, revealed to me why I never got a shot at Tunney.

"I signed you to box Tunney at the Garden on March 17, 1926," Tex told me. "At that time I was trying to build Gene up for the Philadelphia bout with Jack Dempsey. I felt that it would help the ballyhoo if he could lick you.

"I first showed you in New York against Eddie Hoffman. You toyed with Hoffman and convinced me that you were likely to ruin Tunney. So I conveniently forgot about the match."

JACK DEMPSEY, following our bout in New York, told me I had the boxing style to beat Tunney.

"Tunney holds his right hand low," the old Tiger told me. "A heavyweight with a fast left hand like yours would knock his head off with hooks and jabs. If you ever meet Tunney, I'm going to have a large bet down on your chances of winning."

Tunney retired without giving me my opportunity. I wish to go on record now as saying that if I win the heavyweight championship I shall never quit the ring until I am licked.

I believe the young heavyweights are entitled to a shot at the champion in a real fight. It is my plan to carry on until a better fighter than myself bobs up and socks me hard enough on the whiskers to take my laurels.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN, Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries, Jack Johnson and Jack Dempsey all tossed their titles into the ring against all-comers until defeated.

Tunney, on the other hand, retired at a time when many people felt I was his master. He fought an inferior opponent to safeguard his position at the head of his boxing class.

When Tunney first retired, I didn't believe he really meant it. I expected he would come roaring down the come-back trail as soon as he was offered a big enough purse. But now I believe that Gene is sincere in his statement that he will never fight again.

THIS leaves the heavyweight throne vacant. I believe I have a better chance than any of the other contenders to reach the big objective.

I am only 26 years of age, and yet have battled every heavyweight of prominence except Tunney, who has refused to meet me.

I have beaten George Godfrey, Harry Wills, Jim Maloney, Young Stribling, Jack Delaney, Mike McTigue and other stars, while Dempsey says I gave him one of the toughest battles of his career.

I am still unmarked, despite my numerous ring engagements. I attribute this to the fact that I have mastered the fine points of the game. No heavyweight can expect to go far unless he learns how to box properly.

With experience, I have also increased the power of my punch. I think I am hitting harder now than the night at the Yankee Stadium when I came near tipping Dempsey over in the first round.

The Loughran bout will give me one of the most severe tests of my ring career. I shall be in there with a master boxer, who has shown a fairly stiff punch in his last few starts. It will be a case of where I shall have to be at my best to win.

FOR two weeks I have been training at a local gym following a siege of roughing it in the mountains of New Hampshire. I have been boxing with Jack Gagnon and a couple of youngsters.

I weigh only 198 pounds which is but five pounds above my best fighting notch.

Freedman First to Swim "the Gut"

Max Freedman, Revere, negotiated the treacherous ocean currents in a 17-mile swim from Carson Beach to Revere Beach yesterday.

He made the swim in 8 hours, 50 minutes, while Carl Rubin of Dorchester, who started with him was forced to quit just before reaching Shirley Gut.

Freedman is the first to officially swim the Gut. He arrived at Revere at 9.30 last night, where he was greeted by a huge crowd. He was accompanied on the swim by Mike Tunley and William West. The swimmers left Carson Beach at 12.40 p. m.

Rubin was forced to give up the quest when he was stricken with a severe attack of cramps.

FIGHTERS READY FOR BELL AT WIGWAM RING

Jake Zeramby meets Bruce Flowers in the main bout at Braves Field tonight. This is Jake's big chance, and if he defeats Flowers he will seek a bout with Mandell. Frankie Moore of Medford and Hy Diamond of the West End meet in another 10-round bout.

B. U. Candidates to Report Tomorrow

WITH just two veteran linemen and one regular back returning, Coaches Ed Robinson and Reggie Brown start their fourth season at the head of Boston University's football squad tomorrow.

The Terrier mentors have been planning a great grid team this season, but injuries, ineligibility and the new freshman rule have all taken toll.

Of the picked squad that reports at the William Nickerson Recreational Field, tomorrow, only five have enough experience to hold down regular positions.

Jimmy Dincolo will be stationed at right guard, the position he has held for three years and the 200 pound Medford boy should have the biggest year of his gridiron career.

The other lineman, who will experience no difficulty in winning an end job again, is Jackie Carnie. Carnie has held down an end job at Boston University for the last three years and under [illegible] coaching of Hilar[illegible]ahaney he has developed into one of the best wingmen Boston University has ever had.

The other five line positions are wide open and any newcomers showing promise will have an opportunity to start the West Point game, September 28.

In the backfield, the outlook is a little more hopeful, for there are five men who have had some experience and the coaches might be able to make an effective starting quartet out of this group.

Solly Thurman is the only regular back returning to school this fall. Thurman has been with the team for three years and he is one of the best broken field runners B. U. has had in many years.

The coaches may shift him from halfback to quarter this fall as there is not a signal barker returning and Thurman has had enough experience to handle the job in an acceptable manner.

WOODSIES BACK IN RACE

By BILL McAULEY

THE Woodsies had a perfect week-end winning both games in which they registered five goals while holding their opponents scoreless.

Saturday they handed the Goldbugs their first defeat of the campaign winning by a 2-to-0 score and Sunday they trimmed Brooklyn 2 to 0 at Brooklyn.

The double victory puts the locals in the running and it shouldn't be long before they will be fighting for the lead.

The Woodsies had the Indian sign on the Goldbugs in Saturday's game right from the start and it was no surprise when Henry Burness opened the scoring in the first five minutes. The Hub defense was perfect and it was seldom that the league leaders threatened to score.

Harper, McArthur, McGill, O'Hare, Priestly and Ballantyne look the best defensive combination in the league. Rabbit O'Hare is improving with every game and he is easily the best find of the year.

The front line of the locals teamed up much better than it had been doing. Dave McEachren was the best with Gordon Burness a close second.

The soccer team from the British cruiser Capetown anchored in Marblehead are a nifty outfit and would give some of the American league clubs a run for honors. The English tars played a tie game with Fore River at Quincy Sunday.

The visitors will probably play a couple of more games in this vicinity before they make their departure.

The New Bedford Whalers with Bobby Blair and Jimmy McRorie, the latter a recent arrival from Scotland, handed the Fall River eleven their first defeat of the season, the Whalers earning the decision by a 3-to-2 score.

Dr. Black's Dark Health Hint

WHEN the infant or young child complains of soreness in the legs or joints, or ankles and knees become swollen, or the gums bleed, don't think it rheumatism or possible "growing pains." It is probably scurvy and a doctor should be called. In any and all cases medical advice is necessary.

A KISS FOR CORINNA -:- By May Christie

Story of a Rich Girl and Poor Girl After the Same Man

"AND you never said one word about it! You let me talk—you drew me on—"

Said Corinna in a small quiet voice which, despite her effort, shook a little. "It was your own business, Malvey. I didn't mean to eavesdrop when she telephoned. And why should I take any notice of or pry into your affairs?"

He sat silent and puzzled. Queer creatures, women! Somehow or other—although he couldn't put his finger on the point—it didn't seem open or above-board of Corinna. Made him irritated—and at the same time a little ashamed of himself.

Confound it all! He hadn't done anything wrong, and it had been quite in order for the girl not to take any jurisdiction. . . .

He ordered two coffees. He drank his in silence.

The creature at the piano vamped out jazzy airs. He was glad of the diversion, so that he didn't have to force a conversation with Corinna while he was still so puzzled over her attitude in this affair.

Corinna seemed interested in the people all about her. Her glance was roving hither and yon. He did not know how vexed she felt—how conscious of a false move in having kept back her knowledge of that telephoning.

Was Malvey wondering how much she had overheard of this? Was he really condemning her for being underhand . . . and jealous as well?

The music stopped.

Malvey led her up and out into the street.

"Gosh! What a hole." He spoke irritably.

Note: he arch in Washington sq. they boarded a Riverside bus. They mounted and were soon careering up the avenue.

Malvey did not say much to Corinna. It seemed as though a front had descended on his former gaiety, and presently, not even the gleaming vision of the river winding below them—about which he was usually so enthusiastic—could lighten that mood of his. He remained silent and morose.

As he bade her good night at the door of her small apartment on West One Hundred and Tenth st. and murmured something about calling her up as soon as he had an opportunity, she felt their mutual harmony was gone. And with tear-filled eyes she turned sharply away from him.

Denise Van Wyck was lunching with her friend, the Countess de Santalvon.

The latter was a short and stocky, piggy-eyed young woman, none too scrupulous. She had married an elderly Spaniard for his title, but almost immediately thereafter bought him off, so she was free to follow her own devices.

Her feet now firmly fixed in what she fondly thought was New York's most exclusive coterie, she was ripe for a romantic love-affair, and—at a pinch, and being quite wealthy in her own right—ready to pay for the attentions of anyone who took her fancy.

She was treating Denise to lunch today.

And as she ate, Denise chatted continuously of her own conquests.

"Natalie, old girl, I've fallen for the most fascinating sheik! Isn't it a coincidence—he works in my uncle's office down on Wall Street! And he doesn't know I am the old boy's niece!"

"Oh, a pick-up?"

"I s'pose you would call him a pick-up," replied Denise good-naturedly. "Nobody introduced us, if that's what you mean. Except Satanyas. He showed good taste! He gave the young chap a most exuberant welcome. The moment he saw him on the road at Great Neck he made a great tear in his coat by jumping all over him."

"And so you're following it up by heaping at him yourself and making a great tear in his heart," quoth Natalie de Santalvon, with an upward roll of her small, piggy eyes that was intended to be arch. "What kind of a hobo is he? Not even introduced to him! I like your nerve!"

"Don't be so ritzy! Hobo, indeed! Haven't I told you he turned out to be in uncle's office and a great go-getter?"

"You always did think a mighty lot of your own attractions" The Countess gave her an appraising scrutiny.

"Well, when do see your young hopeful again?" she inquired.

"That's just what I was going to talk to you about," said Denise as a waiter removed the ruins of the lobster and substituted frogs' legs before her. "I want you to help me, Natalie."

There was a free-and-easy camaraderie between the girls. At the same time neither entirely trusted the other.

"How so?" inquired the elder. "I've found out that he's very keen on music. Now you're friendly with Gamberetti, the Italian tenor who's singing at Carnegie Hall at present, and Malvey is just crazy about his voice. So if you'll invite the songbird to your studio, and let me ask Malvey to come and hear him warbling, I reckon that Malvey will fall."

Denise had encountered Malvey Craig the previous evening as she came out of Julian's beauty-shop upon the Avenue. Quite unaware that he was waiting for Corinna—or that he even knew her—she had joyously pounced on the young man.

She had offered to run him to his destination in her roadster which was drawn up by the curb. He had declined the offer. His lack of enthusiasm had acted like a goad.

His reticence—his very elusiveness—whetted her appetite for conquest. She had taken a fancy to him and nothing and nobody should stand in her way.

Denise had a tremendous belief in her own powers of fascination. Just give her a little time—she would make the necessary opportunities—and she would soon have this good-looking youth under her sway.

"Right-o!" said Natalie de Santalvon in her careless way. "I'll call up Gamberetti and book him for next Friday after the concert. I'll set the stage for you, old thing, and it's up to you to make your little Jumping Jack go through the ring."

The two girls now repaired to a de luxe apartment on Park ave., where they spent a pleasant afternoon with six other young women of about the same age and interests, talking scandal and playing bridge.

At half past five a Japanese butler brought in little sandwiches and cocktails. A husband or two strayed in as well, and "ound a quarter to six, Denise's cousin, Mortimer Criswell.

Now Mortimer had popped in similarly at half-a-dozen other places in the past two hours, and had refreshed himself with liberally at each house.

He was "lit," "shemozzled," "plastered to the wide—as he would say.

Denise liked a drink herself, but she was annoyed at Mortimer's silly grin, the foolish figure that he made, his mumbled speech.

He was her cousin. His condition reflected on herself. She must get him away!

When Loss Is a Gain -:- -:-

DRAWN BY Dorothy Flack

SOMETIMES a loss is a tragedy! But there are some losses that are really gains! For instance, when a girl marries! Perhaps her Mother will mourn the loss of her Daughter for a while, until suddenly she awakens to the fact that she has really gained a most charming, lovable son. And that's when a loss is a gain!

Particularly is this so when Love has brought about the whole happening. For then His parents gain a daughter and Her parents proudly acknowledge a son. And then Happiness reigns supreme. For in the happiness of their children they go back to the day when they, too, departed from the family hearth and went separate ways, happy in the thought that they had brought another loved one to share in the joys of their families.

There's no sadness but that has its compensating joys. So don't bewail the fact that Daughter is leaving you. Find joy in the thought of the dear new Son who is coming to bring happiness to you, as well as to Daughter. And you, too, parents of the Son! Take the Daughter to your hearts and welcome her to your home, for where your Son has found the happiness you should rejoice with him.

Sometimes, though, it is a tragedy. I mean where Love hasn't entered in. But it is so remote that we shan't think of it! Rather let Love so guide you always that all Love's losses will ever be gains in your search for ultimate happiness.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Mrs. Beeckman will be pleased to answer queries from readers on problems of etiquette.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

You have so kindly and graciously helped me before that I am coming to you again for advice.

1. When dining at a hotel or restaurant does one say "Thank you" when being served by the waiter or waitress? It has always been my opinion that one was as polite and considerate of servants as anyone else, but I have frequently noticed that "Thank you" is not said when people are being served at the table in a private home by the parlormaid, nor in being assisted in and out of a motor by the chauffeur. Is this as it should be? INQUIRER.

THANK you for your kind and friendly words of appreciation. I am so glad that you have come again to the column, especially with such delightful questions and observations.

1. Yes, indeed, it is the best of form, and the only good form, for us to express our appreciation when a serving-person does anything for us no matter how slight, nor how much in the line of duty. To my way of thinking, this is one of the inevitable ways of telling a well-bred person from an ill-bred person. Thank-you's are such delightful currency, so valuable in providing the oil that keeps life going smoothly, that I cannot understand why people are niggardly with them.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

To settle an argument, will you please tell me if it is correct for a gentleman to refer to himself as "Mr. Jones speaking" when speaking on the telephone? R. S. P.

YES, this is the correct form for the beginning of a business conversation. Too, this is the form that a man would use when announcing himself to a servant who is answering the telephone.

WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND.

OLD-FASHIONED love was composed chiefly of imagination and moonlight; modern love is the same old mixture, but so diluted with gasoline, jazz and cocktails, that you hardly recognize the original flavor.

This is the solacing moment, when a man thanks heaven that summer is over, and the only woman on earth, who knows where anything IS, has gotten back from her vacation. No, I don't mean his wife—I mean his stenographer.

A woman in love takes on the vanity of the peacock, the devotion of the dog, the cunning of the fox, the suspicion of the lynx and the tenacity of the caterpillar.

The success of a summer love-affair, as of other light comedies, depends SO much on the effective-ness with which you make your exit, and the brevity of your departure.

There are two kinds of optimists; those who spend their lives looking for four-leaf clovers or pearls in the oyster stew; and those who spend their lives looking for an eligible widow who will let them "manage" her money.

A cold towel tenderly applied to a husband's head, on the "morning after" will sometimes do more to touch his conscience than a cold reproof.

The breakfast table is the place where a man works off enough of the moth gloom to enable him to go downtown and be a little ray of sunshine around the office.

A man may be able to recite the Ten Commandments by heart, and may even remember what his wedding vows were; but, somehow, he can never think of either of them as having any personal application to HIM.

Feed a man plenty of apple-sauce, and he won't notice what kind of a can the rest of the dinner comes out of.

MAKE UP FOR BEAUTY

By MARIA JERITZA.

DEEP scarlet lips and an unnaturally brown skin, with blond hair, which proves the entire effect artificial, or baby pink on an oldish face. How grotesque makeup can be! And all in the name of beauty.

Yet now and then you may note in the fleeting panorama of the busy boulevard or parkway a woman who makes up her face with sophisticated skill, bringing out and accenting its natural harmony. Every woman should understand makeup, for there are aura to be occasions when a touch of skillfully-applied color will add to her charm and give her the self-confidence that comes with assurance of looking her best.

Choose creams lotions, powders rouges that are finely attuned to your skin and to each other and remove them thoroughly at night. Then makeup should help you keep the natural bloom of a fine skin far beyond the border line of youth.

Always select your makeup by the same kind of light in which you use it, for you may need utterly different tints at night in a brilliant ballroom, for instance, from those you use on the street.

A suggestion of rouge on the ear lobes and chin will help blend the coloring of your face and make it artistic.

If you use cold cream for a powder base, choose the vanishing type, otherwise your makeup will look greasy and attract dust and grime. An astringent, such as 40 per cent alcohol or eau de Cologne, makes an excellent powder base.

Match your powder to your skin very carefully and chose rouge that blends with the natural red in your cheeks, but less deep in hue than your eyes.

Paste rouge is less drying than powder rouge and blends well with the skin. The same paste rouge can also be used on the lips, but should be rubbed in more deeply, following the natural line. Powder over your lips to prevent the rouge from spreading.

A mere dot of blue eye-brow shadow is sufficient, and should be placed on the middle of the eye-lid, then rubbed in. Eye-brow pencil is best for coloring the eye-brows, and brown is usually the most becoming shade. Never change the shape of the eye-brows by plucking them, although a wild hair here and there may well be plucked.

Always, unless you are deformed, the natural line is best for you. There is a reason for the lines of each of your features and they harmonize with each other.

Eye-lashes require mascara or eye-lash dye. At night a pin-head of your red paste rouge placed on the skin at the corner of each eye near the nose, will make your eyes look larger and more brilliant.

You can best blend the powder over your face and neck with a small infant's brush and the should be the last touch of the toilet. Be careful not to touch your lashes or brows with the powder.

Advice to Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
THE FLOWER OF FRIENDSHIP

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX.

I met a fellow about a year ago, and at first he wanted to be with me every other night. I wasn't allowed to have company or come to the house and I couldn't get out every other night. He got so that he wouldn't ask me for any dates; then I got so I wouldn't speak to him.

I was with him about a week ago. He told me that he loved me and he acts as though he does. I know that I love him. His sister told me that he is crazy about me and other friends have told me the same thing.

When we are together he never asks me for any dates. It is lonesome without him. Please tell me how I can win his love. Please don't tell me to drop him.

M. L. R.

ACCORDING to your letter, you have won the love of the young man who interests you—at least, he has told you he loves you. Serious affection will have to wait until you and he become better acquainted. And that is not going to be easy, is it, since you cannot receive company at your home and he does not invite you elsewhere?

Be as charming, dainty and attractive as you can. Do not stare away your friend with silly sentimentality, but show a sisterly friendliness. Then, who knows, friendship may just naturally grow into a warm and congenial one. Here's hoping!

CHOOSE BEST SCHOOL

By LOUIS E. BISCH, M. D., Ph. B.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

ALL parents have a school problem. Each thinking father and mother wonders whether his children are attending the best school possible.

And this problem of choosing the right school is not an easy one to solve by any manner of means. There are so many of them to select from! They all offer such allurements.

Take your child to most any private school and you are made to feel that you have chosen wisely. You will be told that the curriculum was planned only after the most careful study. You will be led to believe that individual attention is the keynote of the instruction given. You will even get the notion that the school was specially created to take care of your child.

I don't wish to be flippant in this respect nor to exaggerate because not all schools make claims they cannot live up to.

In fact, most of them are entirely honest and sincere and they try their best.

The difficulties that arise after the child is entered into not more than likely the fault of the school nor, again, the fault of the child.

The difficulties arise because somehow, the child and the school don't fit.

What I mean is this: A child is an individual, and no two children are alike.

Children differ as to inherent native intelligence, in their potentials for development, in their rate of advance, in their learning ability and in many other more subtle ways.

No two children, aged 10, for example, think alike, act alike or feel alike.

But the average school treats them as though they were alike!

Whether it be private or public instruction, expediency and lack of time and equipment demand that all children of a certain age be cast into a certain prescribed course of study.

The inevitable result, naturally are scores of misfits everywhere!

In all fairness to a child, every parent should note whether the school in question is taking such individual differences into consideration. No child should be treated in a wholesale fashion.

Up-to-date schools attempt to make up the deficiencies and inequalities of group teaching by promoting pupils according to subjects instead of grades by extra private tutoring, etc.

Still, such practices are not as universal as they should be and, in the meanwhile, unless you choose the school wisely, your child may be made to suffer.

Don't take anyone's word about any school, but investigate the school yourself.

Find out if the school in question is practicing modern pedagogics.

If you discover that you have made a mistake, better take your child out and try another school, even if the term has already begun.

"LITTLE CAESAR"

The Thrilling, Vivid STORY OF A RACKETEER

by W. R. BURNETT

The Gang Starts Out for the Scene of the Big Holdup

What Has Happened Before.

In the backroom of his "Club Palermo," Chicago gangland headquarters, fat and swarthy Sam Vettori, gangster chief, outlines the plan for a holdup of the Casa Alvarado, high-class night club. Tony Passa, Otero the Greek, Joe Massara, and Rico, Sam's lieutenant, are each assigned parts to carry out. Sam, who does not actively participate, warns Rico there is to be no shooting. The gangsters depart. Scabby, the informer, tells Sam all is set but warns against gunplay. Otero, visiting his girl, "Seal Skin," hears her rant about the danger of following Rico. Tony, leaving his girl, goes home to be lectured by his old Italian mother. Joe Massara, the Dude, gets a dancing job in a night club with his girl, Olga Stassoff. Rico, the simple man, is alone in his room. He loves only himself, his hair and his gun.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER 4

"HEAR me," said Rico, his face twitching, "he's turned yellow. He's turned yellow. What did you expect from a choir boy?"

Otero said nothing but sat with his chair tipped back against the wall smoking a cigarette, his eyes closed. Sam Vettori stood in the middle of the room and stared at his watch.

"Keep your shirt on, Rico," said Vettori, "you're on edge."

"Sure, Rico," said Otero.

Carillo came in without knocking. Vettori put away his watch.

"Well!"

"O. K., boss," said Carillo, "Tony's in the alley."

Vettori took out his watch again.

"Rico, it's eleven-thirty-five. What do you say?"

"Let's get going."

Otero got slowly to his feet, stamped out his cigarette, and, taking the riot gun from the table in front of him, slipped it under his overcoat. Rico examined his big automatic.

Carillo went out, softly closing the door. Otero walked over and patted Rico on the shoulder.

"O. K. now, eh, Rico?"

Rico smiled. Vettori's face was covered with sweat and he pulled out a big white silk handkerchief to mop it.

"Rico," he said, "from now on you boss the job. Only, get this: no gunwork. That's all. I ain't ripe for the rope."

Rico said nothing. Otero shrugged.

Vettori, still mopping his face, opened a window and a gust of cold air rushed in.

Rico took out his little ivory pocket comb and mechanically combed his hair. Then he put on on his hat and tilted it over his eyes.

"Well," he said to Otero, let's go."

Otero followed Rico out. Vettori called:

"Make it clean, Rico. Make it clean."

They went down the back stairs. Carillo was waiting at the foot of the stairs and held the alley door open for them. The alley way was dark and Otero stumbled.

"Caramba!"

"Watch that gun," said Rico. Tony was sitting at the wheel of a big, open car. He tossed his cigarette away and said:

"Well, here we are."

Rico said nothing, but got into the front seat with Tony. Otero got into the back seat. Carillo stood looking at them for a moment, then closed the door. Tony stepped on the starter.

"All right," said Rico, "let's go, but take it easy. We got lots of time."

They took it easy. Tony drove along as leisurely as though they were going to a New Year's party. Rico leaned back and smoked, watching all the passing cars. Otero, who had removed the riot gun and had it on the seat beside him, was sitting bolt upright, his hands on his knees. He could never get used to riding in an automobile. Rico turned and saw the gun.

"Put that rod on the floor," he said.

Otero obeyed.

It had got colder. The snow was no longer falling and a chilly wind was blowing up in gusts from the lake. The streets were nearly deserted. Over west a whistle began to blow, discordant and shrill.

"Well," said Tony, nodding in the direction of the whistle, "it won't be long now."

But Rico leaned over and hissed in his ear.

"Police car!"

A big car with a hooded machine-gun in the back seat passed them and ran ahead. There were two plain-clothes men in the front and two in the back.

"What'll I do?" asked Tony. One of the men leaned out and stared back at them.

"Damn," said Tony, "he's looking at us."

"Keep your shirt on," said Rico, putting his hand on Tony's arm.

Otero took a cigarette from his pack and rolled it between his palms.

The police car slowed up. Rico's fingers closed on Tony's arm.

"Here's an alley," said Rico, "duck!"

Tony took the turn on two wheels, just missing a parked car. Otero was thrown from one end of his seat to the other, losing his cigarette. The car's exhaust roared in the narrow alley way. There was nothing but darkness ahead of them.

"It's a blind," said Tony.

"No," said Rico, "I know this place like a book. Turn to your right at the end."

Rico leaned out and stared back. Then he laughed.

"Ain't that like the damn dummies! Nothing in sight."

They came back to Michigan Boulevard by a wide detour. Here the wind blew fiercely, raising little whirlwinds of snow. Now there were whistles blowing in all parts of town. Rico looked at his wrist-watch.

"Five of twelve. All right, Tony. Step on it."

"What time, Rico?" asked Otero.

Rico told him.

"Fine, fine," said Otero, "eh, Rico?"

Half a block down the street they saw the huge electric sign of the Casa Alvarado. The street was deserted except for the parked cars. They drove along slowly now.

Rico leaned out.

"That's a break," he said, pointing to a parking place where they couldn't be hemmed in. "Listen, Tony, this ain't going to be no cinch, so you better give us a lift."

Tony pretended to be preoccupied with parking.

"Get me?"

Tony was pale and his lips were twitching.

"That ain't my stand, Rico," he said.

Rico looked at him. Tony sat silent for a moment, then, pulling at the vizor of his cap, said:

"But you're the boss, Rico."

"O. K.," said Rico, smiling. "Now, Otero, get this. I go first. You follow me with the big rod. I stick up the cashier. Tony swings the sacks. Got it?" Rico took three small neatly-folded canvas sacks out of his pocket and handed them to Tony. "Otero, you watch the door. If you see anybody coming in, let 'em come in, then back 'em up against the wall. If things go right I'll tap the box. Got it?"

Rico looked at his watch. It was three minutes past twelve.

"Let's go," he said.

Otero got out lazily, hiding the riot gun under his coat. Rico got, followed by Tony.

"Got your rod, Tony?" asked Rico.

Tony nodded.

"All right, keep it in your pocket. Maybe you won't need it right away. If anybody gets funny, why, pull it."

"O. K.," said Tony, "but for God's sake, Rico, no gunwork."

Otero said:

"You leave Rico alone. He does what is right."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ann Marie Macy, though young and pretty, is the "easy mark" of her motherless family. She is forever waiting on her more modern, flapperish sisters, Alice and Jeanie, and lending them her clothes and trinkets to aid in their conquest of the boy friends. The money she earns by selling cards for her father's bookstore partly goes in payment of her brother, Howard's, debts. She is hoping to earn enough to pursue an art course. When Neal Forsythe arrives to visit the wealthy Lawlers, Ann Marie quickly loses her heart to him in spite of her disillusionment when she finds him embracing Leota Ingram, the town's bad girl. Howard is in trouble with Leota and asks Ann Marie to intervene. Leota unexpectedly appears at the Macy home as Florence and John Lawler call. To prevent a disastrous scene, Ann Marie quietly pays out her last money to Leota, who plans to leave for New York. It is the money saved for the art course.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 14

IT was no wonder that Ann Marie had the blues when she woke up the next morning.

All her little savings were gone, and she had a debt of $30 hanging over her head, besides!

Thanks to Howdy, she was fooling the world without a penny to bless herself with, once more. And New York and art school were farther away from her than they had been a year ago!

She signed as she got up. Soon she was almost her normal, happy self again. . . . It is impossible to be blue for very long when you are young and pretty and in love with a man who isn't even engaged!

"And he isn't, thank fortune!" Ann Marie told herself as she pulled on her stockings. "He may be fickle and flirty, and he may drink too much. But I like him terribly, anyway—and somehow or other, I'm going to get to New York and see him pretty soon!"

A plan for making some quick money had begun to form.

On the top of the dresser in Alice's bedroom lay Ann Marie's one and only bit of valuable jewelry!

It was a large pendant—a big square aquamarine, surrounded by seed pearls—and it had belonged to Ann Marie's mother.

"Well, I'm fit to be tied!" Ann said under her breath, picking it up.

"Where can I put this thing so that Alice won't find it?" she asked Mrs. Lebsy when she went down to the dining room.

"I don't mind her wearing it, but I'm afraid she'll lose it. I value it because it was my mother's."

Mrs. Lesay gave her familiar sniff. "And you should value it for the money it stands for!" she said sensibly. "You might want to raise money on it some day."

Ann Marie shook her head firmly. "Never!" she answered. "It's the only thing of hers that I own. I'd never get rid of it. . . . I'd rather starve."

She took the pendant to the store and put it in the drawer of her work-table.

At 10 her father arrived, still looking white and weak from his illness.

"You'd better go home now, girl," he said.

Ann Marie walked to the Country Club.

Mr. MacGregor, the manager, was at his desk.

"Well, what can I do for you this fine morning, Miss Macy?" he asked when she came in.

It was very hard to come here begging, where she had always come as a guest.

"Mr. Mac," she said, flushed and uncomfortable, "I'm here to ask a favor . . . I want you to let me see the list of the people who are giving parties next month.

"You know, I often paint dinner cards and bridge score-cards. I'm going to make a regular business of it. I'd give you a dollar for every order I get."

Mr. MacGregor handed her the names she wanted.

She copied them down: "Mrs. Lawler, twelve guests for Valentine Day at lunch; Mrs. Reginald MacKinen, ten guests for dinner on the sixth"—and so on. There were eleven names on the list.

On the walk home she made the rest of her plans.

She would phone all of the women on the list and ask them to let her make the favors and cards for their parties.

She called the Lawler's house first of all and asked for Mrs. Lawler.

"Just a moment, please," said the man-servant who answered her.

But it was two or three minutes before she came back to the telephone.

"Mrs. Lawler cannot speak to you, Miss Macy," he said, and puzzled, Ann Marie slowly hung up the receiver.

Now, what did that mean? . . . Did it mean that Mrs. Lawler was angry with her for some reason or other? . . . Or was she just busy?

Ann Marie was still wondering when the front door of the house burst open, and Howdy came in.

"What's the matter?" Ann Marie asked him in amazement, for he never came home in the middle of the day. "Sick?"

He shook his head. "Worse than that," he said. "The worst thing that could happen to me has happened—Earthquake, floods and fire!—I've lost my job.

"Before Leota left town last night," he began his story, "she must have mailed a letter about me to Florence. I guess she didn't leave anything unsaid in it—and a while ago Florence's mother showed up at the bank. Then Mr. Lawler sent for me, and the two of them told me what they think of me. . . . So I'm—out!"

Ann Marie groaned. "But I gave Leota $130!" she cried. "And I promised her more! Oh, she should not have sent that letter, Howdy, when I'd been so decent with her. I treated her just as nicely as I could—"

"Gosh, you did everything but the one thing you should have done!" he said brutally. "If you'd used your brains you'd have made her sign a paper promising never to raise a finger against me!"

Ann Marie began to cry. "How did I know what to do?" she sobbed. "I did my best—you know I did, Howdy."

He nodded. "Yeah, I suppose you did. No use to cry over it, anyway," he said, and stood up. "The thing that's worrying me now is how to get some money. There's nothing big enough for me in this town. I'm going to clear out just as soon as I can raise the kale for my railroad ticket."

Tears streamed down Ann Marie's face and her heart swelled. . . . He was going away, her brother.

"Can't you stay here and work for Dad?" she asked in a whisper, but she knew that he would never work in the little shop. He had always laughed at it.

"I'm going out to a town in Oklahoma where they're starting a new bank," he said. "I won't tell you just where it is, for I'm not going to take any chances on Leota's following me out there, Ann Marie, you've got to get some money out of Dad for me."

Ann Marie nodded. Into her brain came the thought of her mother's pendant, lying in a corner of the drawer of her work table at the store.

"You might want to raise money on it some day," Mrs. Lesay had said of it that morning.

Evidently that day had come!

Here Comes the Bride

Interesting Short Story Told by Madeline Livesay

THE altar was banked with palms, lilies and tall white candles. Strains of "I Love You Truly" rose above the low murmur of conversation. An air of expectancy hung over the gathering assembled to witness the union of Riverboro's prettiest girl to the son of Riverboro's wealthiest and most prominent citizen.

Once, while the organist hesitated between "At Dawning" and "Because" a late arrival dropped breathlessly into a seat and whispered audibly: "Has he come. . ." Someone answered: "Eh-eh-no, not a sign of him."

Well up toward the front of the church two women were exchanging low-voiced comments. "I do hope nothing happens! Evelyn . . . poor child . . . is frightened to death and it would be dreadful . . . any scandal in connection with the Farrows. Mrs. Farrow would never forgive Evelyn, even if it wasn't her fault."

"Why isn't it?" was the acid retort, "she didn't have to jilt a fine boy like Raddy Moore for a stupid thing like Patty Farrow. If Randy comes back and makes a scene, it will serve her right."

"I wonder if she's heard from him since . . . the letter . . ."

"No, or we'd have heard all about it. You know, I was thinking last night, there wouldn't have been any talk at all if Evelyn had kept her mouth shut. Nobody thought she and Rand were anything but good friends until she told Sons Peters how badly she felt over liking him for 'Patty.'"

And, she said herself when Randy wrote her about coming to the wedding that he didn't exactly come riding out and threaten to do anything just timed at a surprise, but Evelyn said she could read between the lines that he meant to stop the wedding.

"He'd better hurry then; there goes the wedding march!

The vestibule doors were thrown open and the bridesmaids came down the aisle, two by two, then the maid-of-honor and finally the bride. Evelyn looked rather pale and not quite as pretty as usual in the stiffly arranged veil which had been a gift from the groom's mother.

Just as the minister began to speak a man entered the church by a side door and a barrage of expectant eyes was turned upon him, but it was only the doctor seating himself beside his wife and attention was once more directed to the altar. The minister said the ring ritual and the service was continued.

When he arrived at the point: "If any man can show just cause . . ." the bride was seen to falter slightly and a deep frown creased the brow of her future mother-in-law, but after that everything went off well enough and the bridal party, immediately following the ceremony, hurried off to the Farrow residence where a formal reception was to be held.

An hour later, perhaps two hundred guests were saying the correct things, eating the correct food, served under the eagle eye of the hostess, when an excited whisper ran through the drawing room . . . "Randy Moore . . ."

He stood in the doorway in informal sport clothes, tall, lithe and sun tanned. All conversation died out as he looked this way and that until his gaze rested upon Evelyn standing beside her husband whose third collar had wilted and who was perspiring freely. Evelyn closed her eyes momentarily and clutched her husband's arm.

"Hello . . . there you are!" Randy sang out, making his way toward them. Imperceptibly, the crowd closed in, forming an eager circle. "Came near not making it.

Evelyn's lips moved, but no sound came from them.

"Excuse this rig," Randy went on, apologetically. "I didn't have time to change, it was such a close shave at best."

"Patty" Farrow ran a finger inside his collar and his crimson face took on a purplish hue. "Look here, Ran, we're married . . . and—"

Randy gave him a friendly wallop on the shoulder. "Get out! I thought this was a dress rehearsal!" He turned to Evelyn. "Write you I'd be on hand for the wedding, if I could manage it, but we couldn't quite make the grade. Peg's guardian landed this morning at 10 o'clock and it took two hours to get his consent. After that we had to get a license, hunt up a preacher to tie the knot, and then drive down."

"You're . . . married?" Evelyn stammered.

"Absolutely. I want you to meet Peg, she's a peach—out in the car talking to mother now—she wouldn't come in because she isn't all dolled up, although I told her we were good friends, and all that."

"What's her name?" someone inquired. "Spill the news, Randy."

"Margaret Ammon . . . Moore."

"You . . . you mean the golf champion . . . the one with four . . . five millions?"

Randy grinned. "Only two . . . and to relate. She deceived me about the balance and now I'll have to keep my job. She's to buy her own golf balls and I'm to take her to the movies on Saturday night." He turned again to the bride and groom.

"Well, I must breeze along! Best wishes and all that! We'll be down for a visit with mother soon, everybody come to see us," he invited generally, and with a hearty handshake for the groom and an impudent kiss on the bride's cheek, he hurried off.

The guests followed with almost undue haste, but showed a tendency to linger outside in whispering groups. As the door closed behind him last pair a gasp of laughter drifted in.

The wedding was over.

LISTENING IN

By BERT BROCKBANK
Radio Editor

IN any important national broadcast, Graham McNamee can always be depended upon to give his radio audience a laugh. He doesn't intend to be funny, but he has more unconscious "bulls" to his credit than any announcer we know of. When the city of New York extended its official welcome to the Graf Zeppelin voyagers, Graham covered the arrival of the party at the municipal pier. As the distinguished guests were disembarking from the tug, he said: "Here comes Lady Hay Drummond with a bouquet of roses big enough for a funeral." A few minutes later he remarked that "members of the crew are now passing out."

Another remarkable radio achievement was the Hearst-NBC international broadcast of the Graf Zeppelin's arrival at Lakehurst, N. J. Listeners in Germany, Austria, Holland, Switzerland and Great Britain heard at first hand details of the completion of the round-the-world cruise. A radiogram from the German Broadcasting Company stated, "Zeppelin arrival relay greatest success. Millions, any German, Austrian, Swiss radio listeners are enthusiastic and thank us highly." From the British Broadcasting Company came a message that the story was broadcast in Great Britain for three hours. A radiogram from Eindhoven, Holland, said that the broadcast had been received there very well.

TUNE in on WEEI at 7:30 tonight and hear a vivid dramatization of the birth of American sea power and its first great victory in foreign waters, when the Soconyland Sketch presents the episode of John Paul Jones and his ship, the Ranger. In the early part of the Revolution, British supremacy on the sea went unchallenged. To expedite America's desired alliance with France and to strike a vital blow at England, John Paul Jones organized his daring expedition. How the Ranger met and captured a British sloop within sight of English soil constitutes one of the most significant events in American naval history.

It was a real pleasure to welcome back to the Cheesehrough "Real Folks" and to hear of the latest doings in Thompkins Corners. The familiar voice of Mayor Matt Thompkins, and Gus, the "son of a gun," to say nothing of the usual round snores of Judge Whipple, tickled the ears. The womenfolk are as full of gossip as ever, while the philanthropical Mrs. Jones continues to emphasize the moral qualities of her late husband. Discord is still the keynote of the firemen's band. This program, broadcast every Monday night from WEEI and associated stations of the NBC system, is easily one of the most popular on the air.

"SKY-HIGH" McGann, one of the wildest, bravest and most reckless of air fighters on the Western front, will be recalled in the "Flying Stories" broadcast through WNAC and the Columbia system at 8:30 this evening. Despite McGann's high standing as a flier, his nerve appeared to fail him and he was branded as a coward for his tactics in a thrilling dog fight, but the broadcast carries McGann through a series of nerve racking aerial combats and a Zeppelin raid of unusual intensity to a final redemption.

Vikings Win Race With Greased Boat

New York, Sept. 3 (AP)—Mighty and sinewy are the Vikings when it comes to salt water. Eight huskies from the Norwegian ship Sub Americano won an international lifeboat race in the harbor. At the finish it was discovered the bottom of their boat had been greased. Loud were the protests, but it was not forbidden in the rules. It will be taboo hereafter.

Vice-President's Kin Jailed as Drunkard

Springfield, Sept. 3—W. Charles Breckenridge, 69, who claims to be a nephew of General John C. Breckenridge, vice-president of the United States during the administration of James Buchanan, was lodged in a cell at police headquarters on a charge of drunkenness today. The complaint against him declared he picked up Breckenridge in a drunken condition on Boston rd, in the eastern section of the city. Breckenridge explained he was on his way to Worcester to visit relatives. He will appear before district court this morning.

PAGEANT TELLS HISTORY OF MARBLEHEAD

Under ideal skies and with a crowd estimated at between 65,000 and 75,000 persons present, the great tercentenary celebration at Marblehead was brought to a close with one of the most elaborate programs ever staged in the town.

A great pageant and parade, banquets and receptions and house-warmings marked the day, the pageant and parade proving one of the most picturesque sights witnessed anywhere in years. It covered the history of the town from its settlement 300 years ago until the present time and included everything historic, military and civic.

Without an accident to mar the day, and with none reported during the great celebration, which has been in progress for the past seven days, police stated that since the start of the observances approximately 350,000 persons have flocked to the town and not a fatality or major accident marked the great influx and exodus.

Marblehead Post of the American Legion, handled the formation and execution of the great parade, assisted by a pageant committee of civilians consisting of W. Gerry Martin, chairman; Harold H. Steele, secretary; Walter H. Hammond, Alden M. Brown and Howard H. Caswell, Jr. N. H. Johnson was the marshal.

The Weather

For Boston and Vicinity—Fair and continued warm tonight and Wednesday, moderate westerly winds.

For Southern New England—Generally fair and continued warm tonight and Wednesday, moderate winds, mostly west.

For Northern New England—Mostly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; probably local showers in east and north portions; somewhat cooler tonight on the Maine coast; gentle variable winds.

For Eastern New York—Fair, warmer in southwest portion tonight; Wednesday generally fair and continued warm except possibly local thunder showers in extreme north portion; moderate west or southwest winds.

OCEAN FORECAST

Steamers departing today for European ports will have moderate westerly winds and partly overcast weather to the Grand Banks.

A Radio 'Deb' Comes Out

The store of Geo. O. Lloyd, Inc., at 47 High st., which the new firm opens for retail radio and electrical business tomorrow.

FRIEND OF CAL IN NEW ROLE

Making the trip down from Northampton especially for the occasion, James Lucey, shoemaker for former President Coolidge, turned the key which formally opened the Kent Factory Shoe and Hat Repairers, Inc., at 250 Washington st., today. This store is the first of a chain of 100. The remainder of establishments will be opened as soon as possible.

Customers will be required to wait only 20 or 25 minutes for whole soles and heels because of the high speed machinery with which the Kent store is equipped. The shoe shining department, instead of having the old-fashioned, high chairs, provides comfortable swivel chairs in which customers may rest easily while work is being done.

LLOYD'S OPENS TOMORROW

A store catering to the retail radio and electrical trades will be opened by George O. Lloyd, Inc., at 47 High st., tomorrow morning. The new firm will also handle toys. A building of five stories will care for the complete line of stock.

George O. Lloyd, president of the new corporation, has been employed as sales manager and buyer for the Sager Electrical Supply Co. for several years.

Known not only to the radio and electrical trade in New England, Mr. Lloyd also has many acquaintances in Boston radio stations. He plans to sell all types of radios and parts in his new store as well as other nationally advertised articles.

Soviet Plane in Eastern Siberia

Moscow, Sept. 3 (AP)—The all-Russian airplane "Land of the Soviets," piloted by the Russian Ace Shestakov on his second effort to fly from Moscow to New York, landed today at Khabarovsk, Eastern Siberia, completing the first stage of its flight across an ocean and three continents.

NEW HITCH OVER CHINA-SOVIET PEACE PACT

Shanghai, Sept. 3 (AP) — Tachong, semi-official news agency, telegraphing from Peiping today said Berlin dispatches indicated a deadlock had arisen between the Chinese plenipotentiary, Chang Tso Pin, and the soviet ambassador at Berlin in negotiating for settlement of questions arising out of the seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

It was said to have come on "insistence of the soviet representatives upon the appointment of a new Chinese Eastern director general. Chang Tao Pin asked further instructions from Nanking.

Tachung said Nanking said Foreign Minister C. T. Wang had Declared negotiations "had not yet reached a stage where it was possible for the nationalist government to accept Moscow's proposal to issue a joint declaration."

Mr. Wang declared Moscow's desire to appointment of a manager to the railway "prior to opening formal negotiations, cannot, in any case, be recognized by the nationalist government."

Meanwhile Tachung dispatches from Harbin said martial law had been declared yesterday in the Manchuli and Hailar regions of northwestern Manchuria.

Observers in Shanghai received them with great reserve, but the dispatches stated that martial law was a consequence of "renewed Russian raids." Chinese military authorities in Manchuli reported the beginning of Russian cavalry across the frontier.

HARVARD PLANS SCHOOL OF CITY PLANNING

Harvard University is to establish this fall the first School of Public Planning ever to be founded in this country. The new school is to be started with the aid of the Rockefeller Foundation, it was announced from the administrative offices of the Harvard schools of architecture and landscape architecture.

The new school, which is to be a graduate professional school for the training of city and regional planners, is the logical outgrowth of a long series of steps taken in this direction by the Harvard authorities.

Plans for the new school are almost complete and call for an organization similar to that of the schools of architecture and landscape architecture. Together with these schools, the new School of City Planning will be housed in Robinson Hall and the old Fogg Museum building.

The regional plan of New York, financed by the Russell Sage Foundation, which has gained the attention of the public in recent years with its exhaustive researches and broad recommendations for the development of territory surrounding the metropolis of New York, has brought the subject of city planning to the fore in the public mind.

City planning, however, is not a new subject to students in Harvard University, and it is because of the long experience of Harvard with this subject that the grant for the foundation of this new school of city planning has come to this university.

The new school will be a graduate professional school, co-ordinating with the present schools of architecture and landscape architecture. A chair of regional planning, given to Harvard by James P. Curtis as the crowning of the late academic year in memory of Charles D. Norton, who inspired the regional plan of New York and presided over its early developments, will be the nucleus about which the new school will be formed.

The function and purposes of the new school will be not only to train men to be professional city planners, but to give a sound conception of city planning to men who are going to be architects.

BYRD 'IMPULSE' WATCHED BY 10,000

Los Angeles, Sept. 3 (AP)—Comdr. Richard Evelyn Byrd started a radio impulses from his Antarctic camp in Little America that blew an automobile horn and drew curtains from an enlarged picture of the explorer at the National Radio Exposition here.

The feat was performed by prearrangement. The radio impulse from Byrd's camp was picked up by Station KPH at San Francisco and relayed by wireless to Station KNE in Torrance, 20 miles from Los Angeles. From Torrance the impulse traveled by wire to the Radio Exposition. A crowd estimated at 10,000 stood in silence as the impulse threw a switch which set the horn blowing, and drew the curtains from Byrd's picture.

In a radiogram to G. Harold Porter, vice-president of the Radio Corporation of America, Byrd said:

"I thank you for the opportunity to send greetings and good wishes to the National Radio Exposition. Without radio many of our operations would have been impossible.

"During the winter months it is doubtful that all the navies and all the power of the world would reach us if we needed assistance, and yet the radio has reached us daily."

Officials Slain

Mexico City, Sept. 3—Dispatches from Oaxaca, new Dominican Gratico said that eight village officials, including the mayor, of Telepene Colathinchan, in the State of Oaxaca, had been assassinated a few days ago by disgruntled and discharged village officials.

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

World's Richest Nation Should Pension Aged

This newspaper believes that every State in the Union and the Federal Government as well should be preparing to enact laws providing either for an old-age pension or old-age insurance.

Too long has this country lagged behind the progressive legislation of New Zealand and Australia, and even the example of Great Britain, Germany and France. That the richest nation in the world today and the richest in all history should be so far behind poorer and less progressive nations is a sad indictment of our statesmen.

If the State has a right to regard the children as its wards, as it properly does, it must also regard the aged when helpless as a proper subject for its protection.

It took the human race from 787 A. D., when Bishop Datheus of Milan founded the first orphan asylum, to 1811, when Napoleon decreed that the unprotected infant was a charge of the state—it took civilized people just 1024 years to learn enough to enact a statute to protect childhood.

One would have thought that immediately following this advance in humanitarianism there would have been a realization of the importance to humanity of protecting helpless old age.

Unfortunately, social reforms are only accomplished after many defeats and bitter experiences. Man emerges from barbarism slowly and barbaric ideas persist long after he is supposed to be civilized.

While the decree of Napoleon in 1811 protecting children had in it great nobility, it also had the selfishness of the military commander who wished to protect children that he might have more soldiers.

Had Napoleon been a real humanitarian, he would have written for himself a page of greater glory by also enacting a law for the protection of old age at the same time that he issued the first notable protective measure for orphans and foundlings.

Unfortunately since Napoleon's days up to within a very few years law-makers and statesmen, not only here but in Europe, have been dominated by the fallacious economic philosophy of laissez faire, which was once translated as meaning every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost.

As a matter of fact, though, it is not on the basis of sentiment that there should be enacted laws in every State for the protection of the helpless aged. Old-age pension laws and old-age insurance have back of both ideas the soundest economic thinking. It is wrong to assume that it is a purely charitable and socialistic conception to protect the superannuated.

A rich country, such as America, by enacting a national old-age insurance or pension act would immediately raise the tone and quicken the efficiency of all workers in the body politic.

Fortunate America

We Can Feed and Clothe Ourselves

(Copyright, 1929)

No wonder the British want fast cruisers to protect their commerce at sea. Britain depends on imports. Six-sevenths of Britain's wheat supply is grown in other countries.

Britain, however, would never fear a blockade suggested as a possibility by the Manchester Guardian, if Britain had airships to deal with her enemies, and such a fleet of super-submarines as might, in case of necessity, be used for bringing in life's necessities.

If European nations, insanely, go to war again, on a big scale, you may see great commercial submarines dock, with protecting fliers hovering above them.

This is a fortunate nation. We can feed ourselves, clothe ourselves and provide for half a dozen other nations, at the same time.

But without flying machines and submarines, we might find ourselves feeding other nations and financing them too, without getting any pay for it, and with our biggest cities in ruins.

2,000,000 Stills Replace 500

"Prohibition" at Work

(Copyright, 1929)

Congressman L. M. Black tells the Woodrow Wilson Club that the Jones law, "five years in jail and $10,000 fine," is a confession that prohibition has failed.

Congressman Black says 2,000,000 secret whiskey stills are running in the United States against "500 public distilleries before prohibition."

What's more important about the Jones law is, that it frightens prohibition agents. They must at intervals arrest somebody, and there is danger of being killed by a man who knows that conviction would mean five years in prison.

ONCE-OVERS

DO you believe that you can offset a wrong deed by doing a good one?

When you think over your life and consider the wrong you have done others, can you excuse yourself by thinking of some worthy matter you have carried out?

There cannot be a counter-balance in any such way.

If you feel justified in doing a wrong to benefit another you better not do either.

The person who does neither harm nor good consciously, is better than the one who tries to offset bad with good.

Fortunately there are not many who reason thus.

The man who tries to be fair and square with everyone is bound by his nature to accomplish many worthy acts.

Because your inclinations are toward evil, do not think that you can make up for your misdeeds by any such balance account.

There's No Getting Away From It

By FRANKLIN COLLIER

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

DOCTOR DORAN of the prohibition escadrille, with branches in all leading cities, makes a statement that should bear fruit.

The good doctor, if possible, warns over-zealous prohibition cadets against breaking and entering private homes and interfering with fermentation of grape juice.

The Doc further revolutionizes sudden entrances and quick exits by conceding that fermentation of fruit juices is an act of nature.

We did not try the apple. Isaac Newton tried that apple gag and got a pop on the eye.

But we did put a grape out in the California sun. And when a grape is kissed by the California sun it's smacked good and plenty.

Nothing happened to the grape for the first minute. The sun was just playing with it.

At the end of the third minute the grape started to get red in the face. Indicating a high blood pressure in local soda water fountains.

At the end of an hour, fermentation had set in from all angles.

The grape became lopsided.

We applied a tire gauge to it, and it showed a pressure of 36 pounds all around.

Just the ideal pressure for touring on rough roads.

At the finish of the first day in the sun the grape was still a grape.

It contained some deadly toxins. But not in habit-forming quantities.

At the start of the second day that grape started to leap like a Mexican jumping bean.

It became a raisin.

We followed Dr. Doran's homeopathic advice and allowed that chunk of round fruit to ferment to its grape's content. But it turned out that its content was not precipitate.

From now on we refuse to look upon the wine when it is red or the grape when it is sunburned.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I LIKE that woman Dorothy Dix. She certainly knows her Human Race.

The other day she was talking about the middle-aged wives whose husbands "want to swap them off for this year's model" and who cannot understand wherein they have failed.

"They have been virtuous wives," she said, "admirable mothers, thrifty and industrious, and good housekeepers and they don't see why their husbands are not satisfied with them as their fathers and grandfathers were satisfied with their wives."

So they blame it on "looks."

"Ha," they cry with one voice, "that's it. Our husbands have fallen out of love with us because we are no longer young and beautiful and slim."

"But they're wrong," says Dorothy Dix. "I get thousands of letters from these middle-aged men who are married to women of whom they are sick unto death, women whom they have even come to loathe and hate, and not one of these disgruntled husbands has ever raised the point of his wife's looks. No; invariably the man's complaint about his wife has been that he was tired of his wife because she was dull and stupid and bored him to distraction, because she never read, never thought, never grew, never had an original idea or a new viewpoint, never did anything to make herself an interesting companion to an intelligent man. IT WAS THEIR WIVES' FAT BRAINS, NOT THEIR FAT HIPS TO WHICH THESE MEN OBJECTED."

That's Big Medicine. Pity there isn't a law compelling all wives to TAKE WELL UNTIL SHAKEN.

Recently I saw the beginnings of four of these "middle-aged tragedies." I was at a house party in which there were four married couples—young people ranging from 23 to 30. They were all "comfortably situated in life"—not rich but possessing sufficient means to give the wives plenty of leisure.

The girls were all pretty, lively, beautifully groomed. They spent the week, as they spent all the rest of their days, playing about, gossiping, dressing, giving not very arduous attention to their babies.

The men came down from the city on Saturday afternoon. They were equally enthusiastic about swimming, riding, tennis and golf. But already a more serious tone was creeping into their voices. They were full of business, politics. One of them had been reading Waldo Frank's new analysis and criticism of America. He didn't agree—a spirited argument started. And then a significant thing happened.

THE YOUNG WIVES TOOK NO PART IN THAT ARGUMENT. WALDO FRANK'S VIEWS ON AMERICA WERE NOTHING TO THEM AND THEY DIDN'T CARE WHO KNEW IT. THEY WANTED TO GET UP A MASQUERADE DANCE. WHO WAS GOING TO WEAR WHAT?

Those young women had as much natural intelligence as their husbands. They had had as good educations—as many opportunities. But already they were slumping—taking things easy—secure in the thought that their charms would hold their husbands forever.

Twenty years from now those men will be at their ripe mental prime. They will have passed through many industrial adventures, many phases of growth and they will be eager for more. They will be intensely aware of life in its infinite variety—

BUT OF WHAT WILL THEIR WIVES BE AWARE?

And what Eunice Smith wore to the Allen reception—

And what Ruth has named the new baby.

AND THEY'LL WONDER WHY HUBBY DOESN'T STICK AROUND, ENTHRALLED BY THEIR CONVERSATION!

WORDS OF WISE MEN

It is the practice of the multitude to bark at eminent men, as little dogs do at strangers.
—Seneca.

The silly when deceived exclaim loudly; the fool complains; the honest man walks away and is silent.
—La Nous.

One alleviation in misfortune is to endure and submit to necessity.
—Seneca.

What hast can think, or tongue express,
The harm that groweth out of idleness?
—Heywood.

How many things served us yesterday for articles of faith, which today are fables to us!
—Montaigne.

Equality is the life of conversation; and he is as much out who assumes himself any part above another, as he who considers himself below the rest of society.
—Steele.

What is more insane than to vent on senseless things the anger that is felt towards men.
—Seneca.

There is only one way to get ready for immortality, and that is to love this life and live it as bravely and faithfully, and cheerfully as we can.—Van Dyck.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—New York has been converted to Brummelism in Big Business. From appearances the ace executives are on a sartorial bust. The lapel gardenia has become a symbol of authority along with meticulously polished nails and a nasty walking stick.

In other days such dressy didoes were relegated to haughty floor walkers in large department stores or assistant managers in flossy hotels. Today they are indelibly linked with business success and acumen. Otto Kahn, Charles M. Schwab and Charles Mitchell are a few conspicuous examples.

Bond salesmen in Wall Street have hitherto been known as the business dudes, but they no longer stand out in the spic and span movement. Good taste in clothes, it has been proven, reflects a mental alertness that often brings home the bacon.

This dress-up spirit has created a pleasant tolerance for clothes known as nifty. Habiliments once classed as foppish create no suspicion of sportiness, nor does the man who affects them need to fear he is endangering his job.

Bank employes were especially fearful of offending superiors by any touch of gaiety in their dress. A gaudy tie or a flaming vest would almost bring the bank examiner on the run. Even a colored handkerchief was considered taboo. But that is in the past.

Many florists have a steady patronage among those who take advantage of the special rates for a button hole nosegay daily. And many other little conceits that for so many years labeled the super dandy are now looked upon as an actual aid to getting on in the business world.

The lowliest clerk may spruce up as his fancy dictates and his pocketbook permits. In the early workday rush in midtown one sees many spats, canes and boutonnieres. Indeed, a soda water jerker recently won the prize for a best dressed man contest conducted by a tabloid.

A business magazine indeed discovered that out of 50 jobs paying more than $25,000 yearly and filled within the last 12 months, 48 of those selected were awarded to men patronizing the best tailors and haberdasheries and were known as "swell dressers."

A young aristocrat, untrussed by high living and whose only talent is piano playing, makes a living entertaining at private parties for $50 a night. His head, however, is still high. He insists on coming as a guest and must be asked to play as a special request. So long as he is that snooty, I, for one, would have no pianoing of his playing.

The Pope Emerges

An Imposing Spectacle, First in More Than Fifty Years

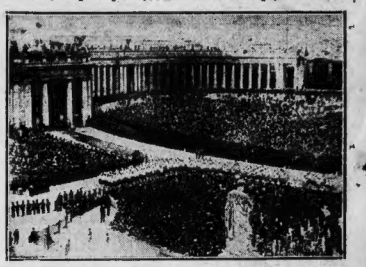
(Copyright, 1929)

THE POPE APPEARS IN PUBLIC AS TEMPORAL AND SPIRITUAL RULER.

All Catholics and millions of other Americans will be interested in these two pictures. The one above shows His Holiness, Pope Pius XI, issuing from the limits of the Vatican, in consequence of the restoration of his temporal powers by Mussolini's Italian Government.

Ever since the days when Garibaldi and the unification of Italy under the rule of one King deprived the Pope of temporal powers and possessions outside the Vatican walls, all the Popes have refused to leave the Vatican, making of themselves voluntary prisoners within its walls.

Now, temporal power is restored to the Pope, within certain, limited possessions, recognized as his own. He has authority to issue stamps, print and coin money, in short, in a restricted area, the Pope exercises temporal power as complete as that of any other temporal sovereign, in addition to his world-wide spiritual powers.



VAST CROWDS BEFORE SAINT PETER'S PAYING HOMAGE TO THE POPE.

The second picture in this column shows part of the gigantic crowd that gathered in Saint Peter's Square, to greet and pay homage to the Pope on the first emergence made by any Roman Pontiff in more than half a century.

The scene was deeply impressive. Three hundred thousand people assembled to honor the head of a great religion, long processions of ecclesiastics, cardinals in scarlet, monks in robes of many hues, some with long beards, gentlemen of the Papal Court in ancient, medieval uniforms, the Swiss Guards with glittering breastplates, wearing the uniform designed by Michel Angelo.

No more impressive scene has been witnessed in a hundred years.

More important, even, than the magnificent spectacle is the fact that the restoration of temporal power heals a wound that has been open more than half a century and has grieved millions of devout minds.
